Ford camp claims gain of 16 in heated delegate battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign claimed 16 more Republican National Convention delegates today, including two plucked from Ronald Reagan's total in Virginia and seven from Suffolk County, N.Y.

The latest announcement from Ford headquarters came less than 24 hours after the Reagan camp named three new converts from the uncommitted ranks and contended the former California governor would have 1,140 votes on the first ballot.

James Baker, Ford's chief delegate hunter, said the President now has 1,119 of the 1,130 delegates necessary to secure the GOP nomination at Kansas City Aug. 18.

The Associated Press count of legally bound and publicly declared candidates now stands at 1,081 for Ford, 1,023 for Reagan, 154 uncommitted and 1 for Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee.

In addition to the seven New Yorkers, the new Ford claims list five delegates from Virginia and one each from Illinois, Delaware, Louisiana and South Carolina.

Edwin M. Schwenk, Suffolk County GOP chairman, said his group of seven decided to switch to the President last Friday. Earlier, said Schwenk, he had met for about 10 minutes with Ford to discuss the county's need for federal help on a major sewer project.

But Schwenk denied that the sewer project help would be any quid pro quo for the seven votes in Kansas City. "We're just asking fair consideration," he told a news conference at Ford campaign headquarters.

Richard Rosenbaum, the New York state GOP chairman, claimed that of the 154 New York delegates, Ford has 131, Reagan 18 and 5 remain uncommitted.

Ford, at a news conference Monday, said he expected good news from his delegate hunters later in the week. Ford claimed he already has 1,103 of the 1,130 delegates needed to sure nomination on the first ballot at the Aug. 16-19 convention.

Ford acted at his news conference on the White House front lawn Monday like a man already certain of nomination and looking toward the general election campaign against Jimmy Carter.

He said his campaign will be pitched on economic recovery, maintenance of peace and restoration of faith in government. Asked what his biggest issue with Carter would be, Ford said, "I'm not going to discuss this campaign from that point of view. It is important for me to act affirmatively. I'll let Mr. Carter decide the issues where he has some difference."

He said he believed the GOP could achieve unity at its convention because its delegates "have a basic philosophical identity," which the Republican candidate will put forward against the Democrats.

Ford again would not speculate on who he might pick as his running mate if he is nominated. He said no one, including Reagan and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, was excluded from consideration.

Ford even threw out the notion that he might look outside GOP ranks for a running mate, but when asked to elaborate, said "use your imagination."

He said competence to serve as president would be the principal qualification for a running mate, but that "a whole raft of potential criteria" would also be considered.

Reagan campaign manager John Sears, at a news conference Monday, said he has never been more confident of a Reagan win. He said some of Ford's claimed delegate strength is soft, that "in many parts of the country it makes little political sense to come out too early" against a sitting President.

Viking photos show 'incredible detail'

Nobody on Mars but the rocks

PASADENA (AP) — America's Viking 1 spacecraft landed today on a dusty plain of Mars to search for life on the red planet. In a spectacular space achievement, Viking began sending back razor-sharp photos of the planet's surface.

The pictures arrived dramatically, appearing line-by-line on television monitors after traveling 213 million miles at the speed of light. The failure of two earlier Soviet Mars landing crafts had heightened the tension in the project laboratory.

"The details are just incredible," said Dr. Thomas Mutch, head of the lander imaging team.

" It just couldn't be better," he said as the first picture, a portion of the surface directly under one leg of the lander appeared on television monitors at Jet Propulsion Laboratory. It was of the Chryse Planitia, the Gold Plain of Mars — the smoothest place on a planet marked by volcanic peaks and deep valleys and craters.

Later, the unmanned three-legged lander will make life-detection and soil sampling tests. For more than 100 years scientists have thought Mars might harbor some form of life.

Scientists cheered and hugged each other as the 1,300-pound craft radioed that it touched down on Mars at 4:53 a.m. PDT. The signal took 19 minutes to reach Earth. For many, the achievement was a childhood dream come true — a Mars landing.

President Ford telephoned his congratulations to the project headquarters, calling the mission a "wonderful and most remarkable success."

He said, "I think it's amazing that in the span of a single lifetime, the exploration of space has grown from the dreams of very, very few individuals to such a massive cooperative reality."

Science fiction writer Ray Bradbury was at JPL for the touchdown, his dreams racing ahead of the Viking mission.

"I know in the next 20 years we'll have a manned landing on Mars — eventually we'll have colonized and taken over the planet," Bradbury said.

The first picture showed an area of soil strewn with what seemed to be chunks of rock of varying sizes. Mutch said it looked as though some of the rocks had tails of dirt formed by the rushing of strong Martian winds across the surface.

Scientists had expected the landing site, a low plain where streams may once have run, would be covered by a blanket of material deposited by the water. Although the pictures showed a rocky surface, the lander apparently avoided any geologic hazards that project officials had feared might imperil the touchdown.

In the corner of the first picture could be seen one of Viking's round metal landing footpads. The rivets on the footpad were visible and the footpad cast an oval shadow in the late afternoon sun as it rested on the soil among the rocks, which Mutch described as "a beautiful collection of boulders."

The second picture was to be a panoramic view of the Martian landscape.

Viking 1, the first of two unmanned American spacecraft scheduled to land on Mars this summer, was launched last August 20. It arrived near Mars and went into orbit around the planet — which is about half the size of earth — a month ago.

Viking 2 is an identical lander and is soaring through space and is due to enter Martian orbit August 7.

Coincidentally, the touchdown schedule of the Viking 1 lander was on the seventh anniversary of man's first walk on the moon, Neil Armstrong's and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin's monumental achievement on July 20, 1969.

President Ford took note of the coincidence of the two events Monday, and proclaimed today as Space Exploration Day.

Ford called the Mars mission "brilliant" and "the most ambitious of all space explorations."

America's exploration of the Red planet would eclipse two Soviet Union landings on the Red Planet, both of which ceased transmissions soon after landing, either destroyed or damaged.

A landing site several hundred kilometers to the southeast of today's landing site — along with a planned July Fourth Bicentennial landing — was rejected by the Viking team as being too hazardous. The newest area, though seemingly much flatter, was not thought to be any less interesting, scientists said.

The most recent pictures from Viking showed the site for the touchdown to be a relatively flat area on the slope of a huge basin called Chryse Planitia. Scientists think some fine material from Martian highlands may have been deposited there.

Similar areas on earth are often rich with such minerals as gold, platinum and diamonds. Some scientists have suggested that such minerals may be found on Mars.

Under the Viking plan, eight days after landing, a telescoping claw attached to the 1,300-pound lander was cheduled to reach out and scoop a handful of Martian soil then dump into miniaturized biochemical laboratories to be analyze for signs of life.

Most scientists think Mars is too dry and barren to support life.

Cannery workers prepare to strike

PALO ALTO (AP) — As the peak harvest season nears, crucial cannery workers prepared to strike today.

The Teamsters Union and California Processors, Inc. were reported far apart in negotiations as the 10 a.m. strike deadline approached.

Assemblyman Gordon Duffy, R-Hanford, sent a telegram Monday to President Ford, urging him to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act and order an 80-day cooling off period requiring workers stay on the job.

President Fred Heringer of the California Farm Bureau also sent a telegram to Labor Secretary William J. Usery urging him to "exert every possible effort" to prevent a strike.

"Millions of dollars worth of fruit and tomatoes will rot on the ground" if there is a strike, said Heringer.

"These losses ultimately will be felt in every household in America in the form of higher canned food prices," he said

John Scalone, president of California Processors, a management group representing 95 per cent of the state's canning industry, said his organization is "willing to go into marathon, 24-hour-a-day sessions or anything that is required to reach a settlement."

The strike deadline, the second set by Teamsters since their contract expired June 30, was called because negotiations had shown little progress.

The strike could shut down 76 canneries, mostly located in the Santa Clara, Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. They process about 95 per cent of the state's canned fruits and vegetables.

The strike could also idle up to 70,000 cannery workers employed during the summer harvest, which peaks soon with tomatoes, pears and peaches.

The California Canning Peach Association estimated cling peach growers stand to lose $6.3 million if 60,000 tons of peaches go undelivered this week by the strike.

Tips flooding police

Bus kidnapers' names, photos expected soon

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Authorities investigating the mass kidnaping of a busload of 26 school children say they are being flooded with tips and hope to have names and photographs of the three abductors by today.

"We've got so many leads, I can't say which one will lead to the breaking of this case," Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins said Monday.

Asked if the investigation was progressing satisfactorily, Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said, "You'd better believe it."

Authorities said they were using computers to check many of the leads, including the descriptions of possible suspects and vehicles.

"There's a lot of brainstorming going on," said Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Clayton Paxton. "Most of the work is being done over the telephones and with computers."

Two fresh leads came to investigators Monday.

Authorities also reported they had located some clothing taken from the victims by the kidnapers beside a highway near Saratoga, 150 miles northwest of this small farming community where the 27 were abducted.

The masked trio hijacked the bus Thursday, left the 26 school children and the bus driver in an underground bunker in a gravel quarry at Livermore, 95 miles north of Chowchilla. The victims dug their way out and escaped Friday evening.

One new lead came from an unidentified former inmate at San Quentin prison who told Tuolumne County Sheriff Jack Litteral "that while he was in the joint he knew of three or four guys who talked incessantly about a kidnap operation they intended to pull when they got out, in which they would use a group of children for hostages."

Investigators also checked on a report that a man tried to get an unlicensed van painted in Oakland on Monday, but "took off" when a suspicious shop worker asked the driver for the vehicle's serial number.

Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Edward Volpe said the paint shop owner gave a description of the man which closely resembled descriptions of one of the suspects.

But he said a composite drawing from the owner's description did not resemble any of the three known suspects. Authorites, however, have hinted there might have been a fourth party involved.

Volpe said a bag of clothing belonging to the children was found Sunday by children in the Santa Cruz mountains south of San Jose.

Pomona youth killed in collision; 2 hurt

A 16-year-old Pomona youth was killed early today when the car he was driving ran through a red traffic signal and slammed broadside into another auto, Pomona police reported.

The accident occurred at Towne Avenue and Mission Boulevard shortly after midnight.

The victim, Rickey Michael Figueras, 2124 Virginia Ave., apparently suffered internal injuries and was pronounced dead at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. His passenger, Carl G. Heuss, 17, of 527 Alcott St., Pomona, suffered head cuts and was reported in fair condition at the hospital this morning.

The other driver involved, Jose Valencia Ramirez, 1006 Friar Lane, Pomona, was in fair condition there with a broken shoulder and head cuts.

Police said that Figueras was northbound on Towne Avenue at about 60 miles per hour, when his small coupe failed to stop for a red traffic light and slammed into Ramirez' westbound station wagon.

The damage to Figueras' car was so extensive that officers were unable to determine if mechanical failure may have played a part in the accident.

Gunman gets $8-9,000 in city market holdup

A lone gunman speaking in a low voice escaped with between $8,000 and $9,000 Monday in a robbery of the Stater Bros. Market at 1045 N. Garey Ave., Pomona police reported.

The holdup occurred while 15 customers and employes went about their business unaware of what was happening.

Store Manager Paul D. Harmon, 28, said the robber approached him and asked if he was the manager. When Harmon replied that he was, the man pulled back his jacket showing a revolver stuck in his belt and ordered Harmon into the store office.

Once inside he taped Harmon's mouth shut and his hands behind his back and looted the safe of cash, mostly in $500 bundles. He placed it in a cloth sack he brought with him.

After obtaining the cash he left the store, went to a car parked nearby and sped away.

The robber was described as black, 29 to 33 years old, 5 feet 9, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a green jump suit and jacket.

Spotlight on area crime

Woman raped in Upland; $19,000 check recovered

A 42-year-old woman was raped in the UPLAND AREA EARLY Monday and her car and purse stolen, according to police.

Officers said the woman sought help at a home in the 700 block of Raymond Street after the incident. She suffered a cut on her face in the attack.

The woman told officers that the rapist had taken her 1965 station wagon containing her purse. She said she had $70 in cash in her purse and a check for over $19,000 she had received from a legal settlement. About 9:11 a.m. a resident found the woman's purse, still containing the cash and check at A Street and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks. The station wagon, with the keys in the ignition was found parked in the 400 block of N. Sixth Avenue, police said.

Tool shop burglarized

Burglars using some sort of pry tool forced their way into the E.C. DeYoung Inc. firm at 633 W. State St. in ONTARIO Monday and made off with numerous shop tools and other items valued at $5,745, police reported.

The burglary was discovered about 8:30 a.m. by company employes who found that various business machines had been moved around in the building and grinders, impact wrenches, drills and other shop equipment missing from the work cubicles.

Police said the burglars apparently forced open the front door of the business and left out the back door.

Two truckers robbed

Two truck drivers were robbed in POMONA Sunday after they parked their vehicle because of engine trouble.

The victims, Donaly L. Mayer, 31, and Gerald W. Riddle, 52, both of Modesto, stopped along the San Bernardino Freeway between Towne Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard because of failing oil pressure shortly after 4 a.m. An auto parked behind them and its occupants, two men, approached their truck and one warned he had a pistol in a sack. He demanded their money. The truckers surrendered their wallets and the pair sped away.

The leader was described as black, 35, 5 feet 7 and 160 pounds.

Sharp drop in growth rate

GNP is not so gross

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gross National Product, the broadest measure of the nation's economic well-being, registered a sharp drop in the growth rate during the spring quarter, the government reported today. The drop was attributed primarily to a stabilization of business inventory accumulation.

In another economic report Monday, the Federal Reserve Board had estimated that manufacturers in the nation were operating at 73 per cent of capacity in the second quarter of the year. That compared to a 72.1 per cent rate of capacity utilization in the previous quarter and was the highest since 75.7 per cent in the last three months of 1974.

Capacity utilization is an indicator of the inflationary pressures in the economy, because as manufacturers operate close to their limits of capacity, the strong demand usually enables them to get better prices for their products. The general rate is still well below, however, the 83 per cent in 1973 when inflation was strongest and shortages were cropping up in the economy.

The fact that economic performance was somewhat sluggish in the second quarter was no surprise. Industrial production, retail sales and other economic statistics released on a monthly basis have already shown a less robust economy this spring.

The trend has been particularly striking in the unemployment picture. The unemployment rate currently stands at 7.5 per cent or precisely where it was at the end of the first quarter. But because of growth in the number of people looking for work and holding jobs, that unemployment rate represents a 116,000 growth in the number of people out of work, leaving the number unemployed in June at 7.1 million.

The Commerce Department said the GNP grew at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent in volume for April through June, compared to a 9.2 per cent annual rate of growth in the year's first quarter.

Despite the decline in the rate of growth, most economists say they feel the drop will be temporary.

The GNP represents the nation's total output of goods and services and is a key determinent of how many new jobs the economy generates as well as the economic status of all Americans.

The Commerce Department said the slower growth rate was accompanied by a quickening of inflation. Prices as measured inthe GNP accounts, which include the prices ot all goods and services in the economy rather than just consumer prices, were up 5 per cent at an annual rate in the second quarter. The inflation rate in the first quarter was 3 per cent.

A sharp drop in the growth rate had been expected by Ford administration economists for at least a month.

Despite the slower growth rate, the GNP figures contained some encouraging signals. Demand in the economy, or the level of final sales, actually grew at a faster pace — 4.7 per cent at an annual rate. Final sales had climbed at a 3.7 per cent rate in the first quarter.

The reason that final sales managed to climb faster while the economy as a whole was growing more slowly is that the sharp boost in inventory accumulation of the first quarter was absent.

Businessmen satisfied demand in 1975 from inventories because they were overstocked with goods and raw materials in their storehouses. Then in the first three months of this year they suddenly began building inventories again.

The total value of GNP at an annual rate in the second quarter was placed at $1,673 billion.

Dr. Cella sentenced to five years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's largest political contributor in 1974 has been sentenced to five years in prison for misusing more than $608,000 fr two Orange County hospitals.

The sentence was imposed Monday on Dr. Louis J. Cella, 51, by U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne. He agreed to let Cella and two codefendants remain free on bail.

Cella's sentence involved 22 counts of tax evasion, fraud and conspiracy.

After the 12-day non-jury trial, Byrne said he found Cella the most blameworthy of the defendants. He called the men's crimes an "outrageous type of fraud against the United States."

Attorneys for Cella and codefendants Theodore Schiffman, 53, of Santa Ana, and Stephen Evans, 31, former Mercy General Hospital administrator, said they will definitely appeal the convictions.

Codefendant George Ollendorf, 44, of Laguna Beach, former Mission Community Hospital administrator, earlier had pleaded guilty to two counts of Medicare fraud. He was called both as a prosecution and defense witness before Byrne.

Cella, the state's largest individual political contributor during 1974, was sentended to five years in federal prison on each of 12 counts and three years in prison on each of nine counts.

Ollendorf and Evans were wentenced to a year in federal prison, and Schiffman was ordered to serve 30 months.

The defendants had been indicted by a federal grand jury and charged with nultiple counts of conspiracy, tax evasion, filing false income tax returns, stealing government funds, mail fraud, forgery and submission of phony Medicare documents.

The indictments charged that the conspiracy began in 1971 when funds were diverted from the two hospitals. During the 12-day trial, Byrne heard witnesses testify that Cella and Schiffman opened bank accounts in the name of phony hospital supply firms, which then billed the two hospitals for nonexistent goods. Witnesses said Ollendorf and Evans approved the payments.

RADIO SHACK TO EXPAND MANUFACTURING FACILITIES

FORT WORTH, TX — Radio Shack, the nation's leading consumer electronics store chain, has announced plans for approximately $3,000,000 in plant and equipment expansion for several of its manufacturing operations.

Radio Shack, a division of Tandy Corporation, owns and operates extensive manufacturing facilities in the United States, Canada, Japan and South Korea. These plants produce a considerable share of the merchandise sold by Radio Shack's chain of nearly 5,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states and Canada, and overseas through Tandy International Electronics stores.

Tandy Wire & Cable, located in Fort Worth, Texas, produces all of the wire and calbe sold by Radio Shack stores. The company has been performing a multitude of encasing, braiding, insulating and molded cable/connection operations. Their facilities will be expanded to permit them to draw wire from regular copper rods, a process they have not previously performed.

Tandy Magnetics, also in Fort Worth, produces the three brands of tape sold by Radio Shack stores; Supertape, Realistic and Concertape, in open reel, 8-track cartridges and cassettes. Radio Shack is said to be the only retailer in the world making their own line of magnetic recording tape. This plant will be adding an additional audio tape coater, tape slitter, and an injection molding process to produce plastic products to house recording tape.

Along with the expansion of these domestic facilities, approximately $400,000 is being spent in Korea to enlarge the capacity of the factory there that produces some of Radio Shack's stereo receivers, Citizens Band walkie-talkies, multi-band radios, intercoms and multitesters.

According to Charles D. Tandy, chairman and chief executive officer of Radio Shack's parent company, Tandy Corporation (NYSE), "In addition to the planned expansion of Radio Shack's manufacturing facilities, a 180,000 square foot addition to the company's exisiting 360,000 square foot distribution center in Fort Worth is progressing on schedule, and the Boston, Massachusetts warehouse is being moved to a new 197,000 square foot facility."

Tax hike expectations shrink for Chaffey School District

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

A 1976-77 publication budget totaling $25.3 million and calling for about a 3½ cent tax increase was adopted Monday night by the Chaffey school board.

This document revealed almost $2 million income above the $23.9 million tentative budget the board adopted June 21, which called for a nearly 25 cent tax hike.

Schools Supt. Mike D. Dirksen called the additional revenues "good news" and said they resulted from an 11.97 per cent increase in the district's assessed evaluation. The tentative budget had been figured on an estimated increase of 7.5 per cent.

The publication budget shows income for 1976-77 estimated at $22.1 million, expenditures of $22.4 million and reserves of $2.8 million.

Russ Dickinson, assistant superintendent of business services, estimated the 1976-77 tax rate at $2.4306 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to $2.3942 in 1975-76.

A breakdown showed only a one cent increase in the general purpose tax rate up to $2.2620, a continuance of the 5 cent community service tax, an almost 3 cent decrease in the earthquake safety tax, and the addition of a five cent meals for the needy tax.

Dickenson told the board he did not know what the new state aid bill, SB1641, would mean to the district. He said Chaffey district was one of six sites in the state selected for workshoops on SE 1641.

"Our meeting will be held Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon in Hill Auditorium here on the Chaffey High School campus. We are hoping to learn then what SB 1641 will do for us," said Dickinson.

It is certain the new legislation will bring additonal money to the district and, Dickinson said, the "largest area of confusion is in adult education which is changing drastically."

"Nearly final" figures for 1975-76 placed before the board, showed income of $21.1 million, expenditures of $20.4 million and reserves of $3.2 million for a total budget of $23.6 million.

The board scheduled a public hearing for 7 p.m. Aug. 5 on the final 1976-77 budget.

Six capital outlay projects, at a combined estimated cost of almost $70,000, were approved by the board and the administration was authorized to put the projects to bid.

These projects are an outdoor living science lab at Upland High School, estimated to cost $12,000; security fencing for the staff parking lot at Ontario High School, $13,325; a public address, intercom and fire alarm system at Chaffey High School, $15,000; physical education lockers at Alta Loma and Ontario high schools, $11,600; a 22 by 40 foot second-floor addition to the girls' gym at Chaffey, $7,000; and a storage building at the west end of the girls' gym at Chaffey, $8,000.

A spring trip to Hawaii for approximately 225 Upland High School students to participate in the Second Annual Invitational Honolulu Music Festival won board approval despite an administrative recommendation that the request be denied.

Band director Al Warren said symphony, jazz and marching bands, the drill team, banner and flag groups and bagpipes would compete, with the students and some 20 adult chaperones paying their own way.

Dirksen's objectives were that the students, away April 29 to May 6, would lose five days of schooling, that fund-raising events would have a "material effect on the campus and the community" and that opportunities for such a trip were not available to the student body in general.

The board authorized the Ontario Eastern Little League Inc. to build a large playing field and a parking area in the northwest corner of the Valley View High School site and, if the organization had the manpower, to develop to smaller fields in the same area.

Board members agreed that the district could contribute financially to the project, through the use of community service monies, to pay engineering fees for site layout and sprinkler system design, and buy materials for the watering and sprinkler system and grass seed and fertilizer.

League president Joe Shirley presented the request. The Navy Seabees had volunteered to do what construction was necessary, he said.

2 Marines trapped, die in mine shaft

TWENTYNINE PALMS (AP) — Help reached a marine trapped in an open mine shaft with a dead companion just after he suffocated from a fire he started to attract attention, authorities said.

Bruce Aurnett, a deputy San Bernardino County coroner, said Monday that plumes of smoke from the fire started by Cpl. David Lumpkins, 22, helped rescuers to locate him. But they got there too late, he noted.

Authorities said rescuers had reached the mouth of the 50-foot-deep mine shaft about five miles southeast of here and had established voice contact with Lumpkins before he suffocated.

Lumpkins, and his 21-year-old companion, Cpl. Jeff Nober, had been the object of an intensive search ever since failing to return Friday from a target shooting trip. Authorities said they must have accidentally driven their Land Rover into one of many open mine shafts in the Pinto Mountains.

Coroner's deputies said Nober probably died in the shaft Saturday. On Monday, they said, Lumpkins set fire to one of the vehicle's tires in the hopes of getting help.

Alta Loma to air budget for elementary schools

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Aug. 2 is the date set by trustees for a public hearing on the $3.2 million Alta Loma Elementary School District budget — up 12 per cent over last year but reflecting a slight tax reduction.

Trustees approved preliminary budget figures at Monday night's meeting setting Aug. 2 as the date for public comment on the budget which increased $394,838 over the 1975-76 budget of $2.7 million.

In other action, trustees:

—Submitted a counterproposal to teacher representatives under the new state-dictated collective bargaining edict.

—Set Friday as a date for Supt. Floyd Stork to begin negotiations with teachers for a 1976-77 union contract.

—Set a tentative date of late September or early October for a bond sale to cover costs of a new addition to Jasper School.

Stork said the new budget reflects inflation and a housing boom in the district which is dumping scores of new students into classrooms.

But, according to preliminary budget figures, the tax rate should drop a penny per $100 assessed valuation due to increased assessment figures, Stork said. However, the superintendent said, the final tax rate could drop as much as three cents or increase that much depending on several variables including teacher wage and fringe benefit demands.

The trustees' counterproposal to teacher union representatives at the meeting covered 12 pages — condensed from the 96-page document of demands given the board by teachers last month. Precise pay hike and fringe benefit demands have not been discussed yet by either the board or teacher union representatives.

That aspect of negotiations is expected to begin Friday when Stork, as a representative of the board, meets with teacher union negotiators in a closed door session at Alta Loma Junior High School.

Trustees must act by the next scheduled meeting Aug. 2 to qualify the district for a bond sale of $690,000 in late September or early October. Such a sale would bring the district back to its legal bonding limit qualifying it for state school construction loans.

These bond-state loan funds amounting to $8.1 million, were approved by voters three months ago.

They are needed to build an addition to Jasper School doubling its size; buy the site and build the new Floyd Stork School in the district's northwest quadrant where much home building is underway; and construct still another school at a as yet designated site within three years, plus additions to the present junior high school.

He said street walking but meant something else

"There'll be a lot of street walking in the vicinity of our new school," Supt. Floyd Stork of Alta Loma Elementary School District told momentarily astonished school board members.

The slip of the tongue came at Monday night's board meeting.

Stork was explaining how the district is attempting to locate the school at the dead end of Jasper Street which would eliminate through traffic by the school.

"This will be beneficial since there'll be a lot of street walking in the vicinity," Stork said.

What Stork was attempting to say was that most new homes in the vicinity of the proposed school do not have sidewalks, forcing students who walk to school to use streets.

"Do you know what you said?" trustee Earle Anderson said.

"No," Stork replied.

Anderson briefly outlined the difference between street walkers and children who walk to school in the streets.

"Lete me reword that last bit," Stork said with a smile.

Students banned from activities during alert

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Students in the Los Angeles city school system have been banned from participating in physical education classes and outdoor interscholastic athletic events during stage-one smog health alerts.

The Board of Education approved the ban by a 6-1 vote Monday night amid rising pressure from groups demanding that the district take action to protect the health of students during the smog alerts.

Some 57 stage-one alerts were called on school days during a 20-month period in 1974 and 1975. Such alerts are issued when the ozone count reaches .20 parts per million of air. The new policy will go into effect when fall classes open Sept. 14.

It requires school authorities to interrupt any "strenuous or vigorous outdoor activities that tend to increase the respiratory rate" as soon as a stage-one alert goes into effect.

Groups urging such a policy included Stamp Out Smog, a citizen's group; the Los Angeles County and California Lung Associations, and the Southern California Air Pollution Control District.

However, board member Howard Miller said the ban would probably not affect most outdoor interscholastic athletics, which usually start in midafternoon when smog levels have begun to diminish.

Most school districts in the country already have issued similar bans or other restrictions on physical activities during smog alerts.

Under the board's previous policy, only students with special health problems were prevented from participating in outdoor physical activities during stage-one alerts.

The board will continue its existing policy of prohibiting all physical activities by students during stage-two smog alerts. A stage-two alert is than $608,000 for two Orange County hospitals.

City to honor him

Hijack bus driver is center of attention

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — When he pulled out of the Dairyland Unified School parking lot Thursday he was "reliable" Ed Ray. The man who'd been driving the school bus for 28 years. The man the kids all liked and the parents trusted.

When he returned 36 hours later, he was the same Ed Ray. But now he had a wildly improbable story to tell that assured him headlines around the country.

Newsmen from as far off as London dickered with Chowchilla police early Saturday morning when Ray and the kidnaped children returned from their mysterious ordeal.

After his news conference, Ray's version of the kidnaping and escape was published word for word on the front pages of many major newspapers.

A few days later, a national circulation magazine got Ray and his grandchildren to pose for exclusive pictures in the Chowchilla police station and then hustled Ray off in their car, fending off other news photographers.

Chowchilla Mayor Jim Dumas planned an Edward Ray Day. And then the mayor decided he would start an Edward Ray Scholarship Fund to boot.

To the 4,500 citizens of small, flat, rural Chowchilla, all this couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

When the children were still missing and the mystery hit the citizens of Chowchilla with full force, two things were certain: Ray wasn't involved in any wrongdoing, and if anyone could keep those children in line during the ordeal, it was Ed Ray.

But was he the real hero?

"No," says Ed Ray. "Everyone says so. But I was just doing my best to get the kids and myself out of there."

According to Darla Daniels, one of the children on the bus, the real hero was not Ray but Mike Marshall, a husky 14-year-old.

"Mr. Ray was lying down praying and Mike opened a steel hatch weighted with heavy batteries, half way." Ray came to his aid, piling mattress for a working platform and then supporting the youngster on his broad shoulders for five hours as Marshall dug his way out.

Trial delayed in case of slain prof

The murder trial of Arizona teenager Richard Sinnott, charged with slaying a Cal Poly professor in the professor's Diamond Bar apartment Oct. 20 of last year, has been continued to Aug. 3.

The continuance was granted by Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain because Sinnot's attorney, Deputy Public Defender Robert Doddy, is involved in another trial.

Sinnott, 17, of Tempe, was returned from his home Oct. 30 by Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies who accused him of beating William C. Warner to death. Warner, 53, was an associate professor of urban planning at the college.

Solar heat is topic

Heating engineer Craig Adleman will discuss the future of solar heating when he addresses members of the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Craig is presently supervising the installation of a solar heating system in West Covina.

Upland Inn, ruined by blaze, will be rebuilt within year

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A demolition firm will remove the fire-damaged Upland Inn within two weeks and the inn will be rebuilt.

Barbara Vallon, an owner of the restaurant at 123 E. Ninth St., which was gutted by fire April 1, made this report to the Upland City Council Monday night.

In view of Mrs. Vallon's report, the council voted to continue until its Aug. 2 meeting a hearing on the abatement of the building as a nuisance.

After the meeting, Mrs. Vallon said that the inn would be rebuilt. She estimated that it will take about a year to have it back into operation.

Her insurance company has retained the demolition firm, Mrs. Vallon said.

Meanwhile, the construction of a 10-court handball-racquetball club and spa in Upland was approved by the council.

The council granted a conditional use permit for the construction of the Foothill Court Club on one acre of a five-care plot on Mountain Avenue south of Foothill Boulevard.

According to club President Gary Hofmann of San Diego, the club "will be a combination public and private facility" with a lounge, areas for competition viewing, locker and shower rooms and a sauna. It will be open to men and women.

The two-story building will be set back from Mountain Avenue near the end of Golden Rain Street but will not have access to the street which ends in a clu de sac.

A landscaped parking lot for 66 cars will be entered from Mountain Avenue. When the entire area is developed there will also be traffic flow to Foothill Boulevard.

Councilman Hal Bailin expressed concern over traffic flow onto Mountain Avenue and asked the City Engineering office to check this.

A conditional use permit was granted to Gwendolyn Chap for the operation of a guest house for 26 senior citizens in a former hospital on two lots at the corner of Ninth Street and Euclid Avenue.

This site had recently been proposed as a residential facility for juvenile girls which had faced strong opposition from residents of the area.

While two residents of nearby homes expressed approval of the permit for a guest home, council members questioned the safety of the building in case of fire.

The new owner has agreed to make a number of required corrections noted by the city's Building Department and fire inspectors as a condition for granting the permit.

A public hearing into the abatement of a dangerous building at 1418 Bowen St. was held over when Bob Sullivan, Building Department director, stated that the city has, to date, been unable to contact the owner of the home.

The council also denied a request by Winchell's Donut Shop to override a denial of the Planning Commission for a nonconforming sign permit in the Upland Square Shopping Center. There appeared to be confusion on several points, so the council referred the appeal to the City Attorney's Office and the Architectural Commission.

Camp openings

Openings are still available for a week of summer camp in the San Bernardino Mountains sponsored by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The camp, to be held July 24 to July 31, is for youths from 8 to 13. The camp, Ta Ta Pochon, is located near Barton Flats. Cost is $66.50 for YMCA members and $74.50 for non-members.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Claremont School District

Ethnic project eyed for nonteaching staff

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont school board Monday night decided that, if possible, classified as well as certificated employes at five district schools should receive in-service training in ethnic awareness this coming school year.

Although the district has three schools — Vista, San Antonio High and Oakmont — which have 25 per cent or more students of diverse ethnic backgrounds and qualify for in-service training, the board felt that Mountain View and El Roble schools also should be included, if possible.

Margaret Hodder, assistant superintendent for instructional services, explained that the state law says that the in-service training should be designed to prepare teachers and other professional school service personnel to understand and relate effectively to the history, culture and current problems of such students and their environments.

Mrs. Hodder said that the goal of the program would be that all certificated staff assigned to those schools should participate in at least 30 hours of in-service training.

Beginning in September, the board will seek volunteers to serve on a planning committee to advise the administration in the development of such a training program.

Six or more of the 11 members on the committee should be representative of the minority groups in the district, Mrs. Hodder explained.

Board member Bob Stafford said that everyone in the district should be exposed to such a program, but suggested the district start with the three schools where minority enrollments are highest.

Board member Joseph Hough said he thought every staff member could be trained within the next two or three years.

He said he would like to implement the planning committee before the board sets up a larger district advisory committee, as proposed by the Claremont League of Women Voters.

Board member Mary Ellen Kilsby said she would like to include all schools in the training program.

Board member Marilyn Tipping said she would include Mountain View and El Roble this year.

Mountain View teacher Cris Ulrich noted that her school has 18 per cent minority, and that she feels she would profit from such training.

After a discussion the board agreed that classified employes should be included.

Hough asked that the names of prospective committee members be submitted to the board for consultation.

Judy Wright, League of Women Voters, said that her group would be glad to recommend names.

Argentine guerrilla chief killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Army troops killed Argentina's most-wanted guerrilla, Roberto Santucho, and his second in command, police sources reported.

Intelligence officials said the slaying Monday night of Santucho and Enrique Gorriaran Merlo might be a death blow to their Marxist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), considered the more important of the two leftist guerrilla organizations at war with the government.

Security forces killed Juan N. Carrizo, the fourth man in the ERP high command, earlier this month and captured a number of records and documents of the organization. The ERP's third in command, Domingo Mena, is still at large.

Santucho, a 42-year-old former accountant, was the founder of the ERP and was also reputed to head a center for international terrorism in Paris.

He and Gorriaran Merlo, 34, were reported killed when troops stormed an ERP hideout just north of Buenos Aires. Other guerrillas and two army officers reportedly died in the attack.

Girl, 3, survives 5 days locked in home after mother dies

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A 3-year-old girl survived five days locked in a mobile home after her mother died. She tried to feed her baby sister, but the infant died of dehydration, police say.

Michelle Lynn Percifield told authorities she lived on milk and other food she found in the refrigerator after her mother died sometime last Wednesday.

Joyce Marie Percifield, 28, a divorcee, apparently fell out of bed while taking a nap, officials said Monday after piecing together the child's account. Monroe County Coroner Dr. Charles Ellis said that although there were no signs of foul play on the woman's body, he was unable to determine the exact cause of death.

According to pathologist John Pless, the 4-month-old baby, Angel Marie, probably died Saturday of dehydration. Michelle said she tried to feed her baby sister food from the refrigerator.

The deaths were discovered Sunday when relatives tried to visit the Percifields.

Neighbors in Heatherwood Mobile Home Park told investigators they did not see or hear anything unusual during the five days and the women's car was parked in its regular spot.

Michelle was taken to Bloomington Hospital for examination and later released to the care of her grandmother.

Reading matter

Originally a magazine was a storehouse, not a periodical. "The Gentleman's Magazine," introduced to the public in 1731, was the first publication to use the word in its new meaning, stating in its introduction that the publication was intended to "store up" a collection of various subjects, "as in a magazine."

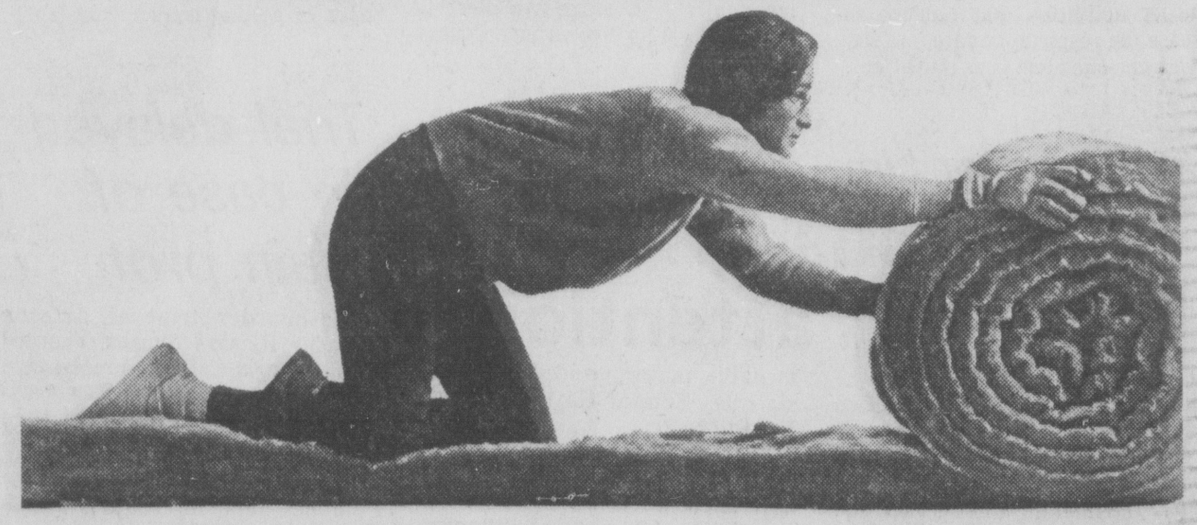
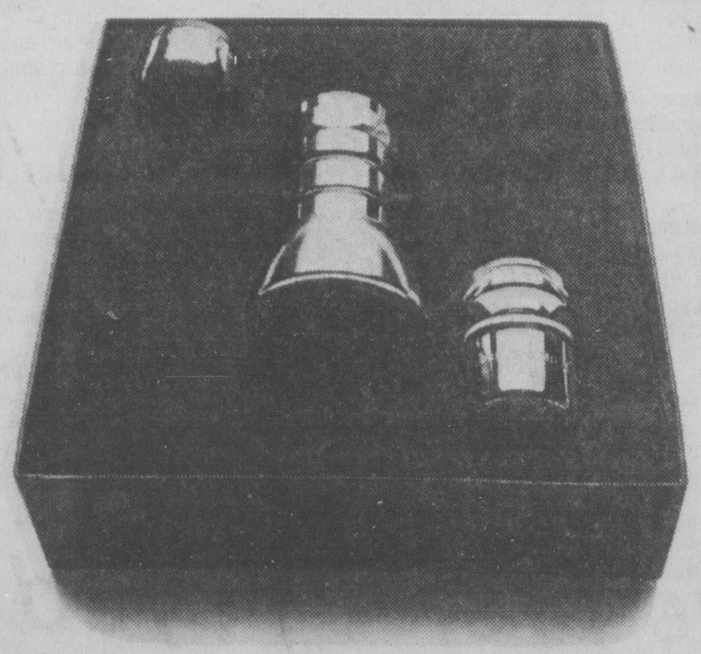
SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY

Do this.



Get this free.



The person in the picture is installing R-19 whole house insulation in his attic. It's a very smart way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

For one thing, he'll keep his house warm and cozy during the cold winter months. And reduce the amount of gas he uses for heating by up to 20%.

When summer rolls around, insulation will help keep the heat out. And, if he has air conditioning, insulation can help him save on cooling costs, too. He'll also save on the cost of installation. Simply by doing it himself.

But he's even smarter than you think. Because just for installing insulation, the Gas Company is giving him a free water saver kit. It includes an energy-saving shower head and two sink faucet aerators. All three are designed to save hot water and still give an excellent water spray.

If you'd like to find yourself in this person's position, visit a participating Do-It-Yourself Insulation Dealer. He'll explain how easy it is to get the job done. And get your free water saver kit.

So don't wait. Insulate. Spend a few hours fighting the energy crisis.

Then shower yourself with our gift.

DON'T WAIT. INSULATE.

A.E. NORTON

Norton new Red Cross chairman

The new chairman of the Claremont Red Cross sees emergency preparedness as a main thrust of the chapter's program during the next year.

"We've got to be ready and know what to do when natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods or fires trike," chairman A.E. "Bill" Norton said this week.

A native Pomonan, Norton served as chapter treasurer last year and his new post is another responsibility on a long list of civic activities.

Long active in a preparedness program for the city, Norton headed a procedures and security section for Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association before he retired.

As an assistant vice president, Norton was responsible for the departments of security, safety, emergency and disaster preparedness.

He expects an expansion of the chapter's blood program through publicity and more intensive enlistment of volunteers.

"The past year students at San Antonio High conducted their first bloodmobile with great success," he said. "We would like to see more programs like that through the colleges and the churches."

Norton said that first aid and multi-media programs will be more developed.

"Our Vietnamese program has developed well. I hope to see it continue," Norton commented.

Dog license fees are due by July 31

Dog license fees are due no later than July 31 at the Pomona Valley Humane Society, Bruce Richards, director, announced.

The Humane Society serves the communities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas.

Fees paid after the deadline will be subject to an additional penalty fee. Persons who do not license their dog will be subject to a citation and fine.

Cost of licenses are $4 for spayed or neutered dogs, which must be proved with a certificate, and $8 for unaltered dogs.

The Humane Society's shelter in Pomona is located at 500 Humane Way, which is just north of Mission Boulevard about one-half mile west of the Corona Expressway.

For information, persons may call the Humane Society at 623-9777.

Big water

The California legislature named a large lake on the California-Nevada Border Lake Bigler, in honor of Gov. William Bigler (1814-1880), but the people ignored the official name and continued to call it Lake Tahoe, an Indian term meaning "big water."

What's going on around here

GUIDANCE CLINIC — The Scott Clinic, a family guidance center, in West Covina has scheduled five Thursday evening meetings dealing with help for the child with learning and behavorial problems.

The lectures Thursday and on July 29, Aug. 5, 12 and 19 will be from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Maxson Medical Building, 933 S. Sunset Ave., West Covina.

The program is designed to assist parents and concerned adults in improving and understanding adult-child relationships. The program will build skills for effective interpersonal relationships.

The discussion leader is Mary McConahay, a licensed educational psychologist and family counselor.

Registrations may be made by calling (213) 963-2163.

TOASTMASTER AWARDS .. "Lost Treasure" was the title of the speech which won Wilson Gillingwaters the best speaker of the week award at Pomona Toastmasters Club 12 meeting July 12 at Griswold's Restaurant in Claremont.

Don Remer was voted most improved speaker. Bob Haage was spark plug winner and best table topic speaker. Best evaluator was Bob Messmer.

The club is conducting a membership drive and has as a goal one new member per month for the next six months.

YMCA DAY CAMP — Youths from 5 to 12 may still sign up for summer day camp sponsored by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

Five one-week sessions of day camp remain, beginning each Monday through Aug. 16. Cost per week is $12.50 for YMCA members and $17.50 for non-members. Lunches are included.

Daily hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with such activities as swimming, hiking, games, crafts, and trips to the beach.

Also available are extended hours for working parents, with supervision of children available from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at a cost of $20 per week for YMCA members and $25 for non-members.

FOLK DANCING — An evening of Balkan and European folk dancing, including a one-hour instruction period, will be presented Saturday, July 24, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. at Washington Park in Pomona.

The program is sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department and the Covina Valley Folk Dancers.

AARP tours listed

Chapter 227 of the American Association of Retired Persons has planned a number of one-day and extended tours this summer.

On Wednesday, AARP has scheduled a trip to see the Barnum and Bailey Circus at The Forum. The bus will leave Pomona at noon, Upland at 12:20 p.m. and Ontario at 12:40 p.m.

On July 26 through 29, a trip to Lake Tahoe is scheduled. Included will be visits to Reno, Sparks, Carson City and Virginia City, Nev.

The Laguna Festival of Living Arts tour scheduled for Aug. 11 is already filled.

Other tours include a visit to San Sylmar to see the world's largest collection of antique cars on Sept. 1 and a 10-day tour to Hawaii on Oct. 21 to 30.

Information about the tour may be obtained by calling 982-2808.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY C. CLANTON

Clantons observe 65th anniversary

The 65th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Clanton of Claremont was celebrated at a reception hosted by their children and grandchildren.

Fifty guests attended the reception at the home of the honored couple's children, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Clanton, in Claremont. The four grandchildren also assisted.

Mr. and Mrs. Clanton were married on July 7, 1911, in Warren, Ark., and have resided in the valley 11 years. They moved to California from Pine Bluff, Ark.

Before his retirement, Mr. Clanton was a service representative for S. A. Woods Machine Co., Boston, Mass.

They are members of the First Baptist Church of Pomona.

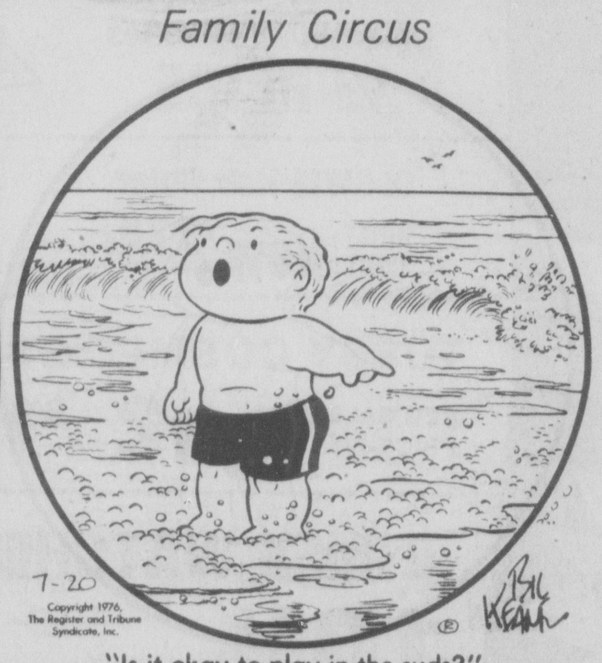
Secretaries plan dinner

The Pomona Chapter of the National Secretaries Association will meet July 28 at 7 p.m. at the Mission Family Restaurant, 888 W. Holt Ave., Pomona.

"Travel Anyone?" will be the topic for Mrs. Florence Minto of the Pomona Travel Agency when she addresses the group.

Reservations may be made by calling Jessie Hart at 985-0140 or 598-4715.

Family Circus



"Is it okay to play in the suds?"

Aug. 28 nuptials planned

Mr. and Mrs. Robert F. Boies of Upland announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa, to Steven Feaster of Upland.

The bride-to-be is employed at General Telephone Co. in Pomona and attends Chaffey College majoring in business.

Mr. Feaster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Feaster of Upland. He is employed by Riley's Cabinet Shop, Upland. A graduate of Upland High School, he attended Chaffey College.

The couple will be married on Aug. 28 at the Trinity United Methodist Church in Pomona.

Archaeology is the scientific study of the remains of past civilizations, or ways of life. "Archaeology" comes from two Greek words that have the meanings "old" and "study."

The earliest civilizations did not leave written records of their history and customs.

Wherever men have lived, however, they have left evidence of their existence — bits of pottery, tools and coins, or the remains of ancient buildings.

An archaeologist is like a detective. By collecting and studying these clues he is able to tell us much about how people lived and worked long ago.

Some archaeological sites are easy to find, because they lie above ground. But most often the site is buried below the surface and must be carefully excavated (dug up).

The archaeologist may rely on old maps, ancient writings and legend to give him hints and some facts as to where to look for remains of ancient civilizations.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

Sir, the kid behind me keeps calling me names . . .

Point him out to me when we get to camp, Marcie, and I'll shorten his life span!

That's okay, sir . . . I already hit him . . . Maybe he's hurt . . . do you have a first aid kit?

That's what I hit him with!

6 valleyites named to DMV panel

Six valley residents have been appointed to the Department of Motor Vehicles "Backseat Driver" public panel in the Pomona office, Manager L.F. Souders announced today.

The Pomona office serves the communities of Pomona, Claremont, Montclair, San Dimas, La Verne, Chino, Walnut, Diamond Bar and Rowland Heights.

The newly appointed members are Cassaundra Fairman, Kathy Johnston, Maynard Lenhert, John Muter, Myron Shrago and Martha Wellington.

Miss Fairman resides in Pomona. She is a student at Mt. San Antonio College, where she is majoring in sociology.

Mrs. Johnston, also a resident of Pomona, is active in the Church at Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and serves as school advisory chairman for the School Advisory Council of Kellogg School in Pomona.

Lenhert, a resident of Montclair, is a driving instructor for the General Telephone Co. and is active in the American Red Cross and National Safety Council. In addition he has served 20 years as a reserve police officer.

Muter is a resident of Claremont and an insurance salesman for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Shrago, of Pomona, is an auto dismantler. He is past president of Inland Auto Dismantler Board and Ontario-Oiniba Bnai Brith and an active member of the Rotary Club of Ontario, Masonic bodies and National Conference of Christian and Jews.

Mrs. Wellington, of San Dimas, is retired and works part time as in interviewer and store auditor. She has been in public relations most of her life.

Formation of the Backseat Driver panel is part of a statewide program announced last month by DMV Director Herman Sillas to involve the public in government "by providing a forum through which local residents can convey their community's concerns to the department."

The citizen group will provide suggestions into departmental policies and programs at both the local and state levels.

While the panelists will receive no remuneration for their services, Souders said that it is expected they will achieve satisfaction for having played a role in making the bureaucracy more responsive to their community.

Also serving as DMV resource personnel to the panel will be investigator Bob Poling, Claremont, with expertise in consumer protection, and driver improvement analyst John Walker, Pomona, who works in the department's traffic safety program.

L.V. passes plan to regulate growth

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A growth management plan that calls for the construction of no more than 2,000 homes over the next five years was adopted Monday night by the La Verne City Council — but not without some casualties.

Julie Stewart, chairman of the City's Commission on Environmental Quality for the past two years and a member of CEQ since its inception five years ago, resigned in protest.

She told the council "We'll surely lose La Verne if we grow that fast."

And Gerald Borges, newly elected chairman of the Planning Commission, charged that the council in approving the plan, was charting a growth for the next five years that was twice as fast as the growth during the past half decade.

The plan itslef was a compromise nobody seemed to like. Its approval came on the heels of three unseconded motions for the adoption of other proposals.

As finally adopted by the council 4-1, with Councilman Robert Neher dissenting, the growth plan directed the staff to provide guidelines for the next five years on how it would handle the additional homes in terms of police and fire services, parks, sewer and water facilities.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that the five-year plan would have to fluctuate from year to year to allow for unexpected contingencies. The plan, as directed by the council, sets the ultimate population of the city at 32,000 to 1990, up 14,000 from the present count.

The growth management plan is the outgrowth of studies conducted independently since last April by Councilmen Melvin Belcher and Allan Mackay as well as the Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission and the CEQ.

The plans were triggered off by reports that La Verne was becoming the fastest growing city in Los Angeles County. Planning director Charles Le Gros recently disclosed that more than 1,500 single family lots have been approved by his department the past 2½ years.

The growth plans as submitted to the city ranged from a maximum of 4,100 units over the next 20 years, advocated by CEQ to 4,625 suggested by Mackay over the next 15 years.

Councilman Frank Johnson suggested that no numbers be used because "economic conditions would serve as better and more up-to-date guidelines than setting quotas."

He and Mayor Mike M. Morales felt that the guidelines, instead, should be based on how well the city could serve the additional residents.

But Neher was concerned with the influx of an unprecedented number of tentative maps calling for approval of subdivisions in the near future, and sought some limits on those to be approved.

Mrs. Stewart tried several times during the discussion to win the council over to her point of view. When she was unable to do so, she announced that she was resigning.

Developer Dan Murray told the council that the city's anticipated growth was not likely to continue for long. He said the building boom in the city was the result of improved financial conditions.

"When we get money, we build; when we don't get money, we don't," he told the council. "Maybe you'll hit 400 units this year, and maybe 400 next year. But after that no one can say."

He as well as developer Everett Hughes contended that there really was no need for growth management in the city. They felt economic conditions would act as a brake.

Chino school board approves budget, reduction in taxes

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A $16.3 million publication budget reflecting a 15-cent drop in the general purpose tax rate was approved by the Chino school board Monday night.

Trustees had rejected an administrative recommendation last month to increase the tax rate, and instead ordered a cut of about 19 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

By law, the new appointee cannot take his seat for 30 days to allow time for citizens wishing to petition the board for a special election. If petitions are presented, it may declare the appointment invalid.

Only a 15-cent drop was possible, administrators explained, because of revised assessed valuation figures, reducing anticipated state aid. The $4.1395 general purpose rate is reduced from $4.2922.

The assessed valuation will increase 18.8 per cent instead of the earlier estimate of only 10 per cent, said Al Searfoss, assistant superintendent for business. That results in $70,592 in increased income and a four-cent hike in the "local tax rate."

In order to reduce the general purpose tax rate by 15 cents, administrators trimmed $274,446 from expenditures in the tentative budget. Of that, $119,551 was in the area of teacher salaries which will be computed differently for certain positions. Other areas cut were utilities, office machines, operations, transportation, and capital outlay.

Adult education, release time for elementary vice principals, a continuation high school program, and a proposed nurses clinic were other items chopped from the budget.

Searfoss said recently-passed state legislation will provide the district with $593,935 in new income. Thus, added spending is recommended for inclusion in the final budget to be adopted on Aug. 3.

About $316,000 would be spent for various areas such as reading, curriculum development, supplies, buses and equipment.

Also, another 14-cent reduction in the tax rate is recommended, bringing a final general purpose rate to $4. The total tax rate which includes bond payments would be $4.84.

Reserves in the $16,344,667 publication budget now stand at $1,574,652.

No salary increases for teachers are included in the budget yet. Teachers will be negotiating soon for raises and a master contract under the new state collective bargaining law.

PAUL PETERSON

No 'Kotter' fan

Advocate of basics gets Chino post

Paul Peterson, a Cal Poly professor who feels the television show "Welcome Back Kotter" is an "insult to education," was appointed to the Chino school board Monday night.

Trustees selected Peterson from a field of eight candidates who had been interviewed publicly last week. On a unanimous vote, he was picked to fill the seat vacated by Roy Ward on June 22.

By law, Peterson cannot take his seat for 30 days, to allow citizens an opportunity to petition the board for a special election. If the petitions are presented, it could invalidate the appointment.

The 39-year-old Peterson, an advocate of fundamental education, was the first choice of Citizens for Improved Education (CIE) for the vacant seat.

A spokeswoman for CIE, a pro-fundamental and anti-year-round school group, indicated she favored Peterson over Patrick Hooven, despite the fact Hooven was backed by the organization in the March 1975 election.

Peterson said he had made "no commitments" to CIE or other groups. He admitted, however, that he was one of the original members of CIE.

Peterson, the coordinator of agricultural education at Cal Poly Pomona, is the father of five children. He says he is opposed to constant television watching which takes away educational reading time from youngsters. "Welcome Back Kotter," a show about a teacher with innovative ideas, is "the exact reverse of what good education should be," he emphasized.

Peterson favors basic education stressing reading, writing and arithmetic.

Board member Pete Vander Poel made the motion to name Peterson. He said at first he wanted to call for an election rather than appointing anyone, because he felt the appointment would be challenged.

"But the board needed to appoint a fifth member," he noted. "In reviewing the candidates it came down to four or five equally qualified persons. I then narrowed it down to one with a dynamic personality who was deserving and had integrity.

"He (Peterson) reflected my own philosophy of the strong family structure."

Trustee Augustine Tapia said he changed his mind "three or four times" on the appointment, but now agreed with Vander Poel.

Lyle Briggs, another board member, said "I have to agree on this wholeheartedly. I've known him for a while. Dr. Peterson is a very honest person."

Hooven, who lost a tie breaker drawing for a board seat in March 1975, had vowed to challenge the appointment of anyone other than himself. But after Peterson was named, Hooven said he was "undecided" on whether to petition for a special election.

During the meeting Monday, he congratulated the board for "open, honest interviews" of the candidates in public. But later, he charged the final decision was made with "preconceived ideas. And that's against the law."

Pomona staff proposal rebuffed

Strains showing between city, library over cuts

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Strained relations between the city staff and Pomona Public Library's board of trustees were evident Monday night as a board spokesman rejected a staff proposal for combining city-library printing services.

Board member Ralph E. Bayer, speaking on behalf of the board, told the Pomona City Council that the staff's projections of savings in the plan were incorrect and that loss of the library's independent printing operation would "downgrade the library's capabilities."

Describing the staff study as "beautiful and expensive," Bayer claimed that whatever benefits might exist in the plan were stacked in the city's favor, not the library's.

The report, presented to the council by Bob Norquist, director of management systems for the city, indicates that the separate printing operations at City Hall and in the library currently require six full parttime employes, while a combined operation would need only five workers.

Norquist estimated the city could save about $14,000 per year by combing the operations, plus $4,000 by selling the library's printing press.

Between Bayer's sarcasm about the study and the admitted lack of communication between the board and city staff, the council found itself forced to postpone any decision on the matter.

The conflict over the report is only the latest example of the chilled relationship between the city staff on one side and the library staff and library board on the other.

With cost reductions uppermost in the priorities of the city staff and City Council, the library during the past year has seen its workforce reduced by attrition, its operating hours cut severely and a proposal for a tax rate increase denied.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa called the lack of communication between the two groups "appalling."

The council directed the city staff and library staff to reanalyze the report and bring it back before the council in two weeks.

In other business Monday night Joe Gendron, president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, gave the City Council a progress report on the "Discover Pomona Campaign."

Gendron said the campaign, jointly sponsored by the city, Pomona School District and chamber, during the past five months "has done a very fine job of improving the image of Pomona."

He said the campaign, which has included radio and newspaper advertisements, plus newsletters and special programs, would continue for another five months and that plans "for continuing the good work" were already forming.

A group of new appointees to the city's commissions were sworn into office, including June M. Hyman and Nancy L. Lopez to the Cultural Arts Commission; Sheldon Nicholas to the Redevelopment Commission; Beth Page to the Library Board; and David E. Bess, William M. Gary, Jean M. Hill and David Whitaker to the Planning Commission.

Several other commissioners were administered the oath for a new term.

Boating mishap victim critical

Scott A. Poet, the 20-year-old Pomonan injured in a boating mishap Sunday, remained in critical condition today after surgery at County-USC Medical Center while sheriff's deputies attempted to determine exactly how he was injured.

Poet originally was reported to have been run over by an another ski boat after he fell from his skis while waterskiing at Puddingstone Lake. But investigators have not ruled out the possibility that he may have been run over by his own boat although its crew, the driver and spotter, said that did not happen.

Deputies said there were 193 boats using the lake that day and tracing them is a difficult and time-consuming task.

Investigators added that they really do not know how Poet was injured.

Meanwhile, they have asked for the public's assistance in locating a white outboard ski boat which was loaded on a trailer and driven away shortly after the incident. It may have been involved in the mishap, deputies said.

Chino Hills tract reduced once more

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday reduced the number of homes that Kent Land Co. can build on its Chino Hills development.

Supervisors approved only 415 homes on the 166 acres located south of Glenmeade and near Pipe Line Avenue.

The developer had previously sought to build 500 homes in the project but the county Planning Commission reduced the scope to 461 homes.

In approving the tract, supervisors agreed the developer must build an extension of Peyton Drive from Carbon Canyon Road to Soquel Canyon.

The developer will be responsible for that section of road within his project and will be reimbursed by other developers as the area served by the new road is developed.

Supervisor Robert Townsend said the Kent Land Co. development is divided into five tracts. The density limit for all five tracts will be 2.5 homes per acre, with all the home sites having a minimum usable lot area of 7,200 square feet, he added.

In addition, the lots will have a minimum average width of 75 feet and depth of 120 feet. These minimum averages are hoped to give the builder a flexibility to construct different types of houses, said Townsend.

The supervisors also directed the developer to maintain two existing wooded areas and develop an equestrian trail to connect with an existing riding area established for horses. These will be maintained by the county service district.

The developer will also be responsible for obtaining a letter indicating available sewer capacity before each tract can be recorded, said Townsend.

The supervisors' action partially satisfied the Glenridge Hills Homeowners Association which complained the developer was designing the tracts without regard to hill contours and in a way that would completely destroy the area's rural scenery.

Prior to Monday's board meeting, Townsend had taken Supervisors Dan Mikesell and James Mayfield on a tour of the area. The board's vote was unanimous in the revised project approval.

Truck burns on Pomona Freeway

A truck loaded with asphalt shingles burned alongside the Pomona Freeway in Pomona Monday, but the driver escaped uninjured.

According to firemen, the operator of the rented one-ton truck, Frederick Herrick, 28, of Van Nuys, was eastbound on the freeway west of Dudley Avenue when a gas leak was apparently ignited by the truck's muffler.

The fire sent a huge column of black smoke into the air as fire units from Pomona and Los Angeles County responded to the scene.

Herrick managed to pull the truck safely off the freeway lanes before fleeing the vehicle and freeway traffic was not stopped.

Firemen said the truck was a total loss.

Montclair approves $12,000 study of commercial parcels

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A $12,000 program aimed at bringing development on four commercial parcels was narrowly approved by the Montclair City Council Monday night.

The marginal vote to authorize the expenditure of federal Community Development Act funds for a contract with Municipal Services Inc. swung to the support side when Councilman Nelson Gentry decided to "put faith in the community development director Mike Loehr."

Loehr, CDA coordinator Lee McDougal and City Administrator Lauren Wasserman presented strong arguments supporting the Tustin firm's proposal to study four large vacant commercial parcels at Central Avenue and Arrow Highway, across from City Hall at Benito Street and Fremont Avenue and on the southwest and southeast corners of Holt Boulevard and Central.

Mayor Harold Hayes and Councilman Tom McClure remained opponents to the study, charging that Central Avenue and supplemental commercial developments have been studied and restudied and the main results have been stacks of unused documents.

McDougal defined the contract's purpose as identifying "development possibilities and viable land uses in order to strengthen the economic potential of the whole area; analyze land prices; evaluate the developments in the best interests of the city and General Plan; test and verify market conditions; provide condensed statistics for future use; make contact with brokers and developers; and make recommendations to the city on funding and implementation programs."

This final point of providing alternate means of financing is the key to the study, McDougal added, and will create a working document for development of the total area. A staff study of the residential factor will be linked to the MSI information and both will be a triangular effort of the city, Montclair Chamber of Commerce and MSI.

Manuel Dedios and Patrick Barry of MSI pointed out that the cost of commercial land in Montclair is presently prohibitive to development. The study will implement a program to bring together the land owner and developer in order to produce sound commercial development and supplemental residential development and curb the rippling effect of blighted residential areas along Central, they said.

Hayes, however, remained unconvinced, saying that "this is a repetition of what has already been done. We know the problems. It's a question of dollars and cents investment. I only see methodology in your program. What are you going to do that the staff can't do and hasn't done?"

Wasserman replied that the staff does not have the expertise to examine financing possibilities, and the Tustin firm does. This has been the most frequent stumbling block to development in the past, he said.

"The Chamber of Commerce and city have been encouraged to attract development to our town," Loehr said. "In order to do that we must have the latest and most effective tools. We have no tools as a city to go to the developer and say we can make it work."

Councilman Paul Jones said: "This is not a study as we think of studies. It's a cooperative plan of action between the city and chamber to come up with exact formulas for development. I hate to see it being torn down."

Councilman Ernest Rowley explained his support vote, noting that "this should or could be the tool for eventual development. The primary cost of the land is prohibitive, but if you look at the ways to help develop that land, if that financing can be found, the intrinsic cost of the land will proportionately decrease. That is the job that these consultants will do."

Gentry, who raised some concerns at the beginning of the debate, admitted that his vote had changed at the last minute for passage. The main reason for that change was "the decision to put faith in the community development director Mike Loehr." He said he hoped the results of the study are spelled out in concrete terms that people can understand.

New Upland planning director is approved

Gene William Young, 44, an associate planner in Anaheim since 1972, was approved as Upland planning director by the City Council Monday.

While his appointment is effective Aug. 1, Young is starting his new duties this week. His starting salary is $20,604, slightly less than his annual salary in Anaheim.

He replaces Rod Anderson, who has been the city's only planning director since the position was established Aug. 1, 1964.

Anderson will remain with the city as coordinator of the programs financed by Federal funds under the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act. Anderson will also be charged with seeking federal grants for the city.

Young's duties in Anaheim included heading the city's work in housing and community development. He was senior planner in Buena Park from 1969 to 1972 and served as assistant planner in Anaheim from 1965 to 1969.

Young holds a certificate in planning from UC Irvine and a bachelor's degree from Cal State Long Beach.

He is credited with redrafting Anaheim's zoning code to make it more readable.

Young was selected from some 20 applicants who were chosen for review after resumes from many candidates were received by the city.

At the final selection, Young was one of two candidates interviewed by the City Council.

Pay teachers by the hour?

Reports that organized teacher groups in the valley are proposing overtime pay for attendance at PTA meetings and other after-school activities do not come as any great surprise. Other working condition demands can be anticipated now that the teachers have collective bargaining rights similar to any other craft union.

However, we are unable to reconcile the proposal for overtime pay with the manner in which teachers are presently paid. Overtime pay is historically tied to the hourly rated employe, while teachers are salaried.

Perhaps school districts have been paying teachers on the wrong basis all this time. Teacher pay based on hourly rates may not be a bad thing, provided the teachers put in for and are paid for hours actually worked.

The placebo of 'House' cleaning

The major payoff for members of the House of Representatives is in the "perks" — the free airplane rides, hotel rooms, special entertainment, honorariums, inside information on money-making opportunities and a variety of assorted service — all from friendly people who hope the Congressman will vote the right way.

There are no reliable figures available but it is likely from informal studies that perhaps a fifth to a fourth of our Representatives take advantage of these extracurricular payoffs. With clear conscience, of course.

There was much talk on Capitol Hill after Watergate of a house cleaning. That talk withered.

The Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) scandal revived the talk with a vengeance. There was enough sex in the story to focus national attention on what Congressmen were doing with tax money. But it appears that this matter may well end, too, with the demotion of Hays, partial emasculation of the Administration Committee and a rechanneling of the route by which expense account funds reach Congressmen. For all the excitement over the Hays-Ray affair, this was peanuts compared with the influence peddling that determines how hundreds of millions, sometimes billions of tax dollars are spent.

There was hope for a time that the combination of Watergate and Hays-Ray might coerce Congress to pass some sort of meaningful bill to make public gifts of value to legislators by lobbyists; and a companion bill to require legislators to report special favors received —

Now it appears that one way or another, both of these bills may be stalled permanently in the House.

Surveys indicate that everyone — almost — is in favor of disclosure.

Then comes a push to introduce amendments which can emasculate disclosure bills past all understanding.

It has been customary to describe opposition to lobbying disclosure bills as coming from big business — and only big business. In matter of fact, Ralph Nader's organization, The Public Citizen, the AFL-CIO, as well as the Chamber of Commerce and a myriad of liberal organizations, conservative and middle of the road, pro-business, anti-business and the rest, all have been in the forefront of the fight against full, detailed disclosure of where lobbying funds come from and where they go.

All wave the flag, except where their own organization is concerned. And all have silent cooperation from a wide range of Congressmen.

As one man working to push the law through put it: "It's hard to tell the white hats from the black hats.

"Our only hope is to somehow get these measures on the floor of the House where most members won't dare vote against for fear of what voters might do to them this November."

But the battle is not being fought on the House floor but rather in committee, where the maneuvering is fast and shifty. A seemingly innocuous amendment is offered here and another one there which, in analysis, would gut the proposals. This means more delays for reconsideration and new maneuvering.

The prospect is that the maneuvering will go on until adjournment. Then the fight will be over for this Congress. By next year, the Hays affair will have gathered dust. Members of the House will be peacefully able to pass cosmetic bills to impress their constituents.

Games not vehicle for politics

Every four years, the Olympic Games capture the spotlight as world athletes compete to set new standards of athletic accomplishment and skill.

Recently, political complications threatened to cancel the Olympics this year at Montreal. The Canadian government at the last minute refused to allow Taiwan to be the official representative of China. For the innocent Olympic athletes and millions of spectators who have patiently awaited — how disgustingly stupid!

The Olympic Games have always managed to be controversial in some respect. Created in 1896, to glorify the Greek ideal of athletic sport and sportsmanship, the Olympics instead are being prostituted by entrepreneurs and social politicking. Jesse Owens, gold medal winner of 1936, said that the Olympic Games are not the proper battleground for social protest or political causes. I wholeheartedly agree. Did the clenched fists by black American athletes in the '68 Olympics eradicate racial injustice and discrimination? Hardly.

In a world plagued by power politics, the Olympic Games are our last acceptable international institution that attempts to foster understanding among the nations of the world. At the Olympics, smaller less known countries can win equal recognition among the superpowers without making war. Until the Ethiopian and Kenyan distance runners won at the '68 and '72 Olympics, who ever heard of the African athlete?

There is no bigger thrill than winning for your country and yourself a gold medal at the Olympic Games. In the proper perspective there is nothing wrong with this. As a former distance runner, I can appreciate the valor, courage and will to win of the Olympic athlete. The Olympic experience lasts for a lifetime.

One can point to numerous wrongs with the Olympic Games. The Olympics however, were never meant to be used as a vehicle for nationalistic politics and commercial extravagance. Realistically, it seems foolish to throw out the baby with the dirty bath water. Yes, the Olympic Games can be better staged and reformed to reflect the true spirit of friendship through sport.

Reagan may have tax dodge

WASHINGTON — President Ford's campaign aides are trying to make a case of tax avoidance against Ronald Reagan. The President's men, searching for material to embarrass Reagan, have asked a law firm to analyze the information he has released about his finances. The tax lawyers concluded, according to a confidential campaign memorandum, that he must be using his children to escape paying full taxes.

The confidential analysis indicates that Reagan's taxable income is "extraordinarily low for a man with his financial background and assets." The lawyers, therefore, believe that Reagan "most likely has a number of irrevocable trusts for his children. In that way, income derived from such trusts would not be reported by Mr. Reagan but would be reported by his children or their tax returns."

A spokesman for Reagan categorically denied that the former California governor has established irrevocable trusts for his children. We called this to the attention of the Ford aides, who were upset that we had obtained their confidential memo.

They acknowledged that they had no "hard evidence" to prove their case against Reagan. But if Reagan isn't hiding income in irrevocable trusts, they said, he must be hiding it somewhere else.

Reagan has only himself to blame for the questions that have been raised about his tax returns. Several months ago, we asked all the major presidential candidates for their income tax returns for the past five years. To avoid future Washington scandals, we contended, the public has the right to know whether presidential aspirants have a clean financial record.

Reagan was the only candidate who refused to open up his tax returns. It would violate his privacy, he said.

A month after our stories appeared, Reagan yielded under the pressure and released some general information about the taxes he had paid from 1970 through 1975. But he combined all his federal, state, property and sales taxes and revealed only the lump sum.

It was impossible to ferret out how much federal income tax Reagan had paid each year. Earlier, a story had leaked out that Reagan paid no state income taxes in 1970, even though his income for the year was $73,000.

"The tax lawyers have noted," states the confidential memo, "that if their understanding of Mr. Reagan's 1970 tax returns is correct, that is, no state taxes paid that year, they believe that . . . he most likely paid no federal taxes because the same tax base is used" to calculate both state and federal taxes.

A spokesman insisted that Reagan had paid "several hundred dollars" in federal taxes in 1970 but refused to specify the exact amount.

TERRORIST TIES: Israel has claimed that Uganda's madcap President Idi Amin enthusiastically cooperated with the pro-Palestinian terrorists who hijacked a French airliner and flew the hostages to his country.

Israeli commandos made a daring, 2,500-mile stab into the jungle, landed at Uganda's Entebbe airport and freed the hostages. The raid has stirred up an international controversy, which culminated in a full-scale United Nations debate.

The irrepressible Idi Amin, meanwhile, has issued plaintive statements, wailing that he had tried to save the hostages and that the Israelis had repaid his kindness by shooting up his soldiers. The available information, according to our intelligence sources, confirms the Israeli account. Here's what our sources have been able to establish:

— The hijackers planned from the start to land in Uganda. They told the hostages their destination, and they took on enough fuel during a stopover in Libya to reach the Uganda airport.

— When the hijacked plane landed on Entebbe, a German terrorist was heard by witnesses to say: "now it is okay. I can see Ugandan soldiers are here."

— In the airport lounge, Ugandan waiters already had food prepared for the hostages. One prisoner asked how so many meals could be prepared so fast. The head waiter laughed and said; "We knew well in advance you were coming."

— Amin personally embraced the terrorists, calling them "My brothers." He loudly proclaimed that he was their frined and that he would liberate all the Palestinian prisoners in Israel.

Paul Harvey

Ford and Truman

President Ford has made no secret of his abiding admiration for former President Truman. A portrait of Truman dominates the presidential office. Mr. Ford makes frequent references, in public and in private, to the "gutsiness" of his predecessor.

This admiration for a liberal Democrat by a conservative Republican has to relate mostly to the "common man" image which both share. And the historical upset victory of Truman over Dewey in 1948 is right now all that's keeping President Ford's hopes alive.

Many White House staffers are deserting what they consider a sinking ship. We can read the polls just like everybody else," says an official of the Transportation Department.

So Administration insiders are looking for private jobs outside and it is increasingly difficult for the President to recruit outsiders for Administration positions.

The lame-duck syndrome almost emptied the Truman White House in 1948. Then, as now, departments and agencies of the executive branch were vacant, policy decisions stalled, former party faithful were throwing in the towel.

Truman's surprise victory proved a humiliation to the defectors and an encouragement to every underdog since. Another thing: Some of the Washington bureaucracy are offended by the persistent attacks by the candidates on the so-called "Washington Establishment." Even President Ford has made jokes about the inefficiency of government employees. Of course, not all are.

Truman, on the other hand, never allowed himself to be anything less than totally loyal to all who had remained loyal to him. Another dissimilarity between then and now is that Truman was assured his only nomination for the Presidency while Mr. Ford is having to preoccupy himself with the solicitation of convention delegates. Perhaps no incumbent President ever faced a stiffer challenge.

President Ford has made some courageous decisions. When confronted with a choice between political expediency and responsible government he has voted or vetoed in favor of responsible government.

He has rescued the economy from recession without drastic countermeasures. Yet he has somehow failed to inspire the electorate. His audiences come to their feet respectfully but not enthusiastically.

When he has tried to assert his presidentiality — in SALT talks or on Africa or on swine flu — his best intentions seem to drift into difficulty and demise.

President Ford would argue that he inherited a nation in need of policies of moderation, that it was time to take the pressure off, and so he has. And in anything but an election year this "peace and quiet" would be both appropriate and welcome.

I do not know what President Ford will do with these next weeks but I remember what Harry Truman did. Like a feisty terrier yapping at a larger adversary, he whistle-stopped the nation sounding more like a challenger than a Chief Executive.

And the "sympathy vote" tipped the scales.

Just in jest

What would this world do if there were no ghost writers? Without them heads of state and politicians would be virtually inarticulate. Actors could make no scintillating acceptance speeches when they were awarded Oscars. Comedians would be about as humorous as a recorded weather report. And half the college students in the country would never be able to graduate. In fact, the time has now arrived when one wonders not only what this world would do without ghost writers but also how the world hereafter would manage to function. For at least one of those anonymous literary experts is now making a nice living ghost writing sermons for lazy preachers.

Oh, say can you sing . . .

NEW YORK (NEA) — Once again the Democratic Convention delegates have survived a participatory rendition of the National Anthem. As Peter Duchin's orchestra provided the music, the delegates passed treacherously but safely through the words. Chords popped out of necks, faces colored — yet according to attending physicians there were no fatalities and only a suspected coronary threat.

Fortunately, just the first stanza was required. There are four verses to the Star Spangled Banner, and the hazards after the first are truly awesome. Just reading the morass is painful:

Oh! Thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved home and the war's desolation,
Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a nation.
Then conquer we must, when our cause is just.
And this be our motto, "In God is our Trust."
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

I'm serious. That's verse four. Two and three are best not resurrected. Once a group of Nebraska school children are said to have sung the whole thing, and the dogs in Omaha howled for a week. People who witnessed that phenomenon said the dogs sounded better. One mother commented that whoever wrote the score must have thought fugue was something that went on between the Hatfields and McCoys.

Ah, the Star Spangled Banner. Oh! Say can you sing it? Most people cannot. Robert Goulet once forgot the words at the ringside of a heavyweight boxing championship. Metropolitan Opera basso George London has said the difficulties of the tune "awe me." A minor league baseball executive used to tell his singers to move around the park while singing the anthem, "to present a moving target."

Francis Scott Key, of course, is partly to blame for the matter. A Baltimore attorney, he was on a British warship arranging for the release of a captured friend when Fort McHenry was attacked (in 1814). For the most part, the attack was a minor incident in a minor war, but Key recorded it as an epic poem. Historians believe he fudged a bit; for instance he could not see the flag still waving, because it was wet with rain and because he was too far out in the Patapsco River. Nonetheless, his description caught the fancy of a nation that needed it.

However, it did not become the national anthem until 117 years later, when the nation needed it even more. In 1931, as Depression gripped the people, and as government searched for anything to lift the spirits, a Maryland congressman guided a bill through Congress to make Key's poem the national tune. An old English drinking song of no particular merit was selected as the music, and President Herbert Hoover asked all Americans to sing it as they stood in the soup lines.

Early on, the only criticism of the song came from musicians who claimed it straightened out their tubas. More recently, however, it has suffered vicious attacks from people with hernias. And too, there are complaints that the words are inappropriately combative. In verse three, for example, Key wrote about the blood of the British which had washed out their "polluted footsteps." The gripe is you can't sing that on a full stomach without an air bag.

While accurate, the complaints of the anthem's chauvinism are not convincing. National anthems are traditionally hard-nosed. The second verse of England's God Save the Queen exhorts God to scatter the nation's enemies, confuse their politics and "frustrate their knavish tricks." And even mild-mannered Denmark has an anthem which glories in swords that pass through Gothic brains.

As for the complaint that it is unsingable, even unsayable, a spokesman at the modern-day Fort McHenry says: "Hell, it wasn't written for convenience." Indeed, Key did not compose with the weak-lunged in mind, or the Democratic convention for that matter. He wrote it in praise of an idea, a philosophy, a people if you will who need not hit all its notes to be stirred by its notions.

Hence, to criticize its meter may be unfair, and to suggest its change is futile. Except. Except now that Jimmy Carter is among us, there is hope.

On leading a horse to water

DEAR DR. MILLER: Both Flame, my Irish Setter, and Amble, my Appaloosa, drink tons of water in this hot weather. That doesn't surprise me, but sometimes Flame throws the water up again. When this happens, I just give her a little at a time for a while and she's OK again. Amble never vomits, but then I guess horses don't. Do they ever drink too much? — C.A.

DEAR C.A.: Cramps and colic could occur if you allow Amble to load up and then simply stand around with a bellyful. Her water intake should be somewhat restricted also, unless she's going to continue moving, in which case she should be able to handle her tankful without trouble. Ideally, when on the trail, both species should be allowed to have water breaks along the way. Thus they can maintain body fluids and won't tend to drink too much at trail's end.

DEAR DR. MILLER: If rabies in bats is all that dangerous, then if you find a pet bat, is it safest to have it shot for rabies right away? — A.R.

DEAR A.R.: It's safest not to "find" a "pet" bat. A wild bat that acts "friendly" or even unfriendly — in fact, a wild bat that for any reason remains near a human, is undoubtedly ill, possibly from rabies. Rabid animals, bats or anything else, aren't helped by rabies shots. An animal which already has a disease can't be effectively vaccinated against it. It's too late for that. Anyone taking a chance on handling a potentially rabid animal of whatever species has to be more than a bit batty themselves. This is foolhardy and frequently fatal . . . forget it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Regarding the birds crashing into windows, we've placed a wind chime in front of the picture window and have had no bird casualties since. We thought other readers who may not like either dirty windows or mesh curtains would be interested in this solution. The wind chimes are also attractive. — E. R.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I read where you can greatly reduce bird mortality as far as crashing into windows is concerned by placing full-size cardboard cutouts of hawks in the windows. Small birds won't come near it. — W. C.

DEAR DR. MILLER. Our answer to keeping birds from crashing into our big window was to have that reflective sunscreen material applied to the inside of the front window. You look right through it from inside the room, but from the birds' point of view, it's a reflective curtain and they never fly into it. — N. J.

COMMENT: Windowpanes and birdbrains are a bad mix. All of the above suggestions prevent cracked craniums and necks by steering birds away from otherwise inapparent windows. Yet another letter made an important point, namely that some netting material outside the windows is far more effective, albeit messier, than any placed inside since it then directly breaks up the window's reflective surface.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Monetary rewards can run larger than usual today. If you have something good going for you, milk it for all it's worth.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be far more fortunate to today in situations where you can lay down the terms. Don't let the control slip from your hands.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you need financial or material assistance today, go to the people you've helped in the past. They'll open their hearts and purses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Accept any invitation to a gathering that includes influential people. You stand a good chance of making valuable contacts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're capable of surviving challenging situations today that would intimidate a weaker type. Don't be afraid to swim against the current.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't hide your light under a bushel today. If you've done something you're proud of, toot your horn.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The boss might ask you for a large favor today. You'd be smart to do the best you can to grant it. His gratitude could be on the super side.

SCROPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Should you have anything pending requiring legal service, today is a good day to tackle it. It could be a contract or an agreement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be alert for a big opportunity at work today. It's there, but you'll have to root it out. It may be only partially visible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) New people who come into your presence will notice and admire you today. Their impression will be lasting and favorable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The way things end today is likely to be far more fortunate than the way they began. Keep the faith. Think positively.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Social contacts are lucky for you today. Have no qualms about asking serious favors of those who meet in a lighthearted moment.

Your Birthday, July 21, 1976

Organizations or groups you're affiliated with will be fortunate for you this coming year. Good things will come from the friends and contacts you make through them.

Rand Alcohol report assailed

Dear Ann Landers: I am a recovered alcoholic and a long-time member of AA. Something I read in the paper recently bothered me so much I was up all night. I hope and pray you will print my letter and undo some of the damage done by the Rand Corporation.

The Rand Corp. study released only recently stated, "Some alcoholics can return to normal drinking after treatment with no more danger of excessive imbibing than teetotalers." That statement is tantamount to tossing a firebomb into the crowd at a football stadium. Millions of alcoholics would love to believe it — that's all they need to go back to the bottle. And you can bet, after reading that release, many of them will. What a tragedy!

The suggestion that sober alcoholics might experiment with controlled drinking is completely erroneous. I have spent the greater part of my adult life studying and working with alcoholics. I can tell you that this approach has proven to be almost universally disastrous.

The announcement by the Rand Corp. study group conveys appalling ignorance. They say, "The majority of improved patients are either drinking moderate amounts of alcohol — but at levels far below what could be described as alcoholic drinking — or they are engaging in alternating periods of drinking and abstention."

Anyone who has studied alcoholism knows QUANTITY has little to do with the alcoholic's problem. It is HOW the person responds to alcohol that determines whether or not he is a problem drinker. Once a person has crossed the line between social drinking and alcoholism, he should not have even a single drop.

Rand deserves a kick in their collective pants for their irresponsibility in releasing such destructive material. Sign me — A Chicago Reader

Dear Reader: Thank you for writing. I, too, saw the Rand Corp. release and was horror-stricken. I earnestly hope that enough high-powered experts in the field of alcoholism will clobber that report sufficiently so that we will soon be reading a retraction.

Dear Ann: I agree with "I'm P.K." It's HER face. Why should she alter what God gave her just to please others?

And why do you rate yourself above God by encouraging the woman to have plastic surgery?

I look at your picture every day and your forehead is too high, your cheeks are too fat, your eyes are too small, and your mouth is crooked.

God made no rules as to what people are supposed to look like and neither should you. I look at my friends from the inside out. How about you? — Face To Face

Dear Face: Thanks for your sweet letter. I hope you will view me as a friend — even though my forehead is too high, my cheeks are too fat, my eyes are too small, and my mouth is crooked.

CONFIDENTIAL to Ready to Flip: You are bisexual. Counseling WOULD help you adjust and understand your problem.

Changing times?—not really

A group of us indulged ourselves recently in a walk down memory lane in the year 1940 B.C. (Before Crime).

"Remember when we were kids and slept on our front porch in the summer and your only worry was catching cold?"

"Remember when the only time Daddy locked his car was when his keys were in it?"

"Remember when a sign in the window was for the bread man and not an emergency help station?"

"Remember when you could go into a public restroom and hang your purse on the hook inside the door?"

"Remember when you weren't afraid to open the door on Halloween?"

"Remember when your biggest problem was keeping kids from walking on the grass . . . not smoking it?"

We were all on a pretty good nostalgia trip when my mother came into the room. "I'll bet Mom remembers those good old days."

"What days are those?"

"The days when pens in banks weren't chained to the desk."

"Why should they be? They never worked anyway."

"The days when we went on vacation and never locked our house."

"There wasn't anything in there worth stealing."

"When there wasn't heavy breathing on the phone at night."

"That's because you never knew your asthmatic grandfather."

"When police didn't have to walk their beat in twos."

"So nuns have been doing it for years."

"Oh c'mon, Mom, you know what we mean. I can remember leaving my tricycle out on the street at nights. You couldn't do that nowadays. By the way, what happened to that tricycle?"

"Someone ripped it off," she said. "Are you saying someone stole it?" We looked at her like she had just reported that the Yellow Brick Road was linoleum.

"Yep. Same week someone pinched my girdle off the back clothesline and a box of canning jars from the garage."

"You never told me that before."

"When we told you Alan Ladd was short, you cried for 15 days. We didn't think you could handle it."

Dr. Lamb

What causes prostate trouble?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column on prostate gland trouble, but it did not answer one question. If a person (who has been a dieabetic since 1965 and is now 56) quit sex would he increase his prostate gland trouble, which is nearly nothing now? I go to the doctor once a year. In other words does lack of sex cause prostate gland trouble?

DEAR READER — There is a lot of confusion about the role of sexual activity in prostate gland trouble. That is partly because "prostate gland trouble" covers a lot of different problems.

The prostate gland forms secretions and when it is stimulated frequently it forms more scretions. Young men at the peak of their sex drive tend to form the most secretions. When the secretions accumulate, the gland becomes boggy or swollen from distention. In this condition it is ripe for bacteria to set up housekeeping and cause an acute infection. The infection in this instance is something like an abscess. It may cause chills and fever. When the bacteria are eliminated by nature's own defense mechanisms or by proper antibiotic treatment the infection and its symptoms disappear. It would seem that a normal amount of sexual activity helps to prevent his problem.

The acute infections have nothing to do with chronic prostate trouble that is more common in middle-aged and older men. The chronic inflammation may be associated with a variety of organisms but often the real cause of the inflammation is not known. It is doubtful that sexual activity either harms or helps such a condition.

There is now evidence that the enlargement of the prostate that causes obstruction of the bladder is related to the accumulation of one chemical type of testosterone, the male hormone. Having demonstrated the accumulation of this fraction of the hormone in the gland itself there is not hope that it will be possible to block its action or storage and in this way correct or prevent prostate enlargement. This might be done without affecting the function of the other fractions of male hormone. At present no medicince in available that will do this.

I am sending you The Health Letter 1-6, Prostate Gland to give you more information on this subject. Others who desire more information on the prostate can send a long stamped self-addressed evelope with 50 cents in it. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to know if a vasectomy causes prostate gland trouble? And once a man has had prostate surgery does than mean no more sex?

DEAR READER —.No, a vasectomy will not cuase prostate gland trouble. In fact vasectomies were originally done when the prostate was operated upon to try to prevent inflammation of the testicles as a complication of the procedure. All a vasectomy will do is prevent sperm cells from reaching the prostate. The gland will continue to function as it always did or would have without the vasectomy.

Most men can return to normal sexual function after prostate surgery. The type of surgery does make some difference. The problem is that many men who have surgery are already at an age or have enough other medical problems that they may be near the end of their active sexual life anyway. In which case the man may incorrectly think that impotence after surgery was because of the operation.

Why did they put the model in a trash compactor before they measured him as the "average" passenger for bus seat kneeroom?"

The American Bridge Teachers' Association quarterly always contains some interesting and instructive hands. Here is one by Dave Smith.

Forget about the bidding. North's two-spade response is a tremendous overbid and while six clubs is unbeatable, it got declarer to six notrump.

Dave used the hand to illustrate a point we have made many times in this column. The less you talk about your hand, the better.

When dummy hit the table East remarked "I should have doubled". Then East took his ace of hearts and returned the queen, which South won.

South trusted East. His normal play would have been to take the diamond finesse and go one down. Instead he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds and ran off seven clubs to wind up holding one spade and the queen-jack of diamonds while dummy held ace-king-10 of spades. East was unmercifully squeezed. He had to chuck his king of diamonds or unguard his queen-hack of spades.

Dave points out also that East could have insured defeat of the contract by playing his queen of spades at trick two, but he was too busy talking.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know why we lead the king from either ace-king of king-queen.

The answer is that it has been done that way since long before Oswald Jacoby started to play bridge and he has played for 65 years.

There are some disadvantages, but the great majority of experts find that it is better to continue this practice than to try something else.

BIG HORN BATTLE

Q — "We know that Gen. Custer lost his own life, plus the lives of 264 of his men at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. But how many Indian lives were lost there?"

A — Nobody knows. Maybe 30, may 300. The Indians carried away their casualties.

Although most everybody has heard the name, not one citizen in 10 can now identify that lady known as Nellie Bly. A journalist was she. New York World Publisher Joseph Pultizer — you've heard of him — sent her around the world on a feature-writing assignment. The trip took her 72 days 6 hours 11 minutes. It was on Jan. 25, 1890, when she returned. Nobody ever before Neillie — her real name was Elizabeth Cochrane — had done the thing so swiftly.

The Latin word "salarium," which meant "salt allowance," is where we got our word "salary," reports our Language man. Our phrase — "he isn't worth his salt" — goes all the way back to that one, incidentally.

Q — "Don't suppose your Language man knows how many words the average person speaks every day?"

A — Maybe 30,000 words would be typical, he says. That discounts the particularly windy types as well as the strong silent characters.

CROCODILES

Client asks if a crocodile ever has been known to eat more than one person at a time. Can't come up with a precise reply, regret to report. Do know, though, that crowds of crocodiles disposed of about 150 people at one time. And it wasn't so long ago. In 1965, the Liowande Ferry sank in the Shire River in Malawi, Africa. That many passengers were goners. The water flowed red quite a ways.

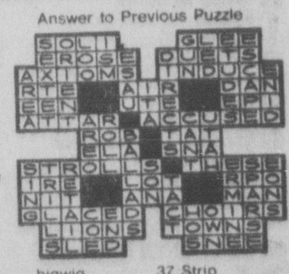
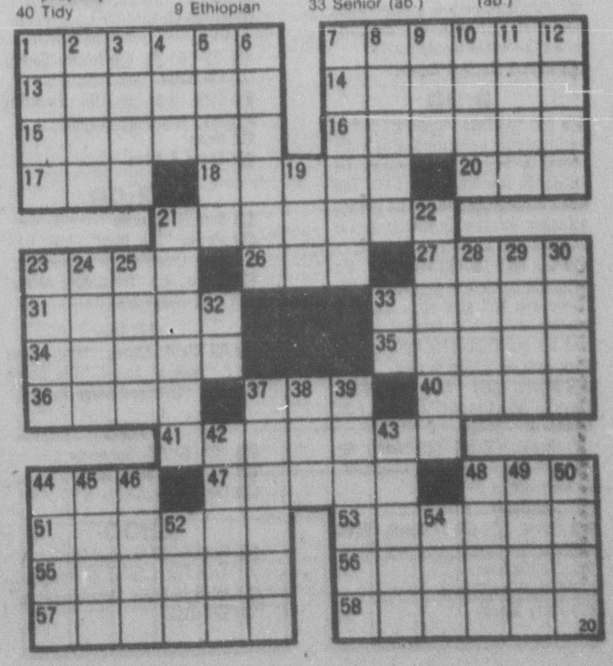
Answer to Previous Puzzle





Max 'Baers' it all

Films for public, not the director

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood is still the place where the lightning can strike, where a man (or a woman) can become a millionaire on the strength of one picture, where dreams do come true.

"This is what 'Macon County Line' bought," said Max Baer, with a broad gesture of his immense arms.

The gesture took in the rear of his house, high up in a Beverly Hills canyon. There was a huge swimming pool with a built-in waterfall behind it.

Then he took me around the front of the house, where a platoon of workmen were working with bricks and concrete and mounds of dirt.

"It's all being landscaped," Baer said. "Over here will be a brick patio, and there will be brick and iron gates. That hillside will be covered with flowers.

"I'm putting in 8,500 plants. I want to make this like the Botanical Gardens. I don't like to go out much."

He said he was going to have a projection room built in the house. And a new editing room, because he edits his pictures at home. Before he's through, he said, he'd have one of the showplaces of the Los Angeles area. His claim is believable.

The implication was that all this was the fruits of his three films, the three he produced. They were "Macon County Line," "The McCullochs" and the just-released "Ode to Billy Joe." Baer derected the latter two, as well as producing them.

You might think that some of his money came from his nine years on the huge TV hit, The Beverly Hillbillies. Baer played Jethro on the show for all thos years.

He says no. A divorce and some other things saw to that.

"After nine years on the Hillbillies and my divorce," he says, "I had $30,000 left. That's all."

But today the house he lives in is his, all his. He doesn't owe a dime.

"It cost me $210,000 when I bought it a year and a half ago," he says. "And I guess I've put another $175,000 in it. But it's all mine.

"I'm realistic about money and about life. It's a personal thing with me. I want to own my home outright. You never know what can happen — but if you own your home, you can't be too bad."

After Hillbillies mosied off into the TV sunset, Max Baer floundered for a few years. He wanted to act, but it was hard to find jobs because he was so closely involved with the role of Jethro and his semi-stupidity.

He'd still like to act. But he's discovered, in producing and directing, that he has the key to the mint.

MAX BAER

"I love acting," he says, "but nobody'll give me a job. And I won't hire myself."

He sayd he'd rather be Steve McQueen or Burt Lancaster than anybody. To him, seeing Lancaster in "Birdman of Alcatraz" was a major event.

"That was Burt the way he really is," Baer says. "In real life, he's quiet, soft-spoken, and the only film in which he played himself was 'Birdman.' "

Baer is a self-proclaimed "movie nut." He's always been one. Even as a kid growing up, the son of a one-time heavyweight boxing champion, he loved movies more than anything else.

He has seen so many films and absorbed so much of what he's seen and read that he has become an expert on movie trivia. He knows the name of the art director of obscure films of the '40s.

"Did you know," he'll say, "that Robert Wise, before he became a director, was the editor on 'Citizen Kane'?"

Now he finds he loves making films as much as seeing them. He loves the putting together of what Hollywood calls "packages" — the script, the stars, the director — and loves shepherding the whole project to its conclusion.

"Other people like to go on vacation, but making movies is my vacation," he says. "I'm like a kid with a toy. And I feel fortunate making a good living doing something I'd do for free."

He plans his films from start to finish. And the finish he guards jealously, now that he has the muscle to get his own way. He has the final cut on his films; even Warner Bros., his current studio, had no cut at all on "Ode to Billy Joe." Baer did it all himself, with nobody telling him yes or no.

His next one, which is now being prepared, is a comedy about women in the Army. It's about 12 girls going through boot camp. He thinks he'll use 12 unknowns, although he'd like Shelley Winters as one of the officers. The big climax is an ice hockey game between the recruits and the non-coms, and the prospect of Shelley on skates is tantalizing.

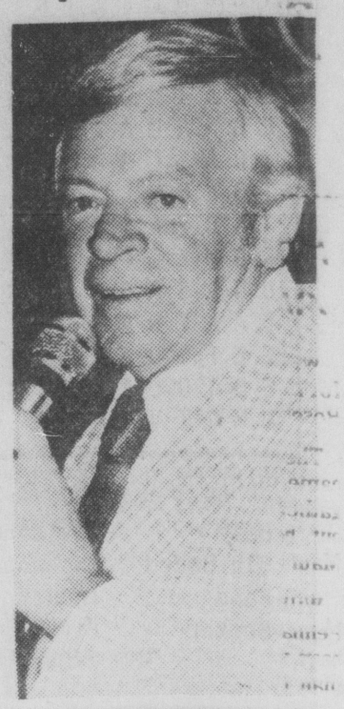
Baer's pictures have, so far, done well. He believes one reason is that he makes films for the public, not for himself.

"I think," he says, "that I can put myself in the audience's mind and tell what they're going to like. A picture has to work with an audience, not just in the director's head.

"Too many directors today feel they must make their films just for themselves. They're imbeciles. If they feel that way, they should put up their own money.

He believes strongly that a film can be both an artistic hit and a commercial success.

Rock star set for Disneyland



LES BROWN

Rock star Elvin Bishop and Les Brown and his band will headline the musical entertainment at Disneyland for the week of July 25.

Bishop will offer his popular "Fooled Around and Fell in Love" in Fantasyland's "It's A Small World" stage at 9:15 and 11:15 p.m. on Sunday through Friday, July 30.

Les Brown and his Band of Renown will render contemporary music for dancing and listening, recapturing the hits of the big band era at Main Street's Plaza Gardens from 8:15 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., Sunday through Saturdays, July 31.

Disneyland's All-American College Singers and All-American College Marching Band will showcase their talents in daily performances throughout the park.

Tinker Bell will spark the red, white and blue fireworks extravaganza at 9 each evening from atop the Matterhorn Mountain. Performances of the park's Bicentennial salute "America on Parade" continues each day at 3 and 10 p.m.

The park is open daily 8 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Roseboro is an Alston supporter

Walter Alston has his critics, but former Dodger catcher John Roseboro is not one of them.

The chance to talk with Roseboro came during the recent Old Timers' gathering. I was interested in finding out how "Gabby" felt in view of Maury Wills' criticism.

Wills, in his book "How to Steal a Pennant," says the Dodgers should have won four or five more pennants than they did under Alston.

Since Roseboro was right there with Maury, he was a natural source to consult.

"Well, first of all, I think Maury's a little frustrated," Roseboro said. "He's hung around baseball since he retired doing different things for different ball clubs hoping to get a shot at managing. I think he's frustrated in that he hasn't become a manager."

But Roseboro left no doubt of his support for Alston's managing.

"I think Maury's evaluation of Walter Alston is wrong," Roseboro continued. "After I left the Dodgers, I went to other ball clubs and after seeing guys like Cal Ermer, Ted Williams and you name 'em. I'd have to say I consider Alston God compared to the rest of those guys as managers."

Roseboro played or coached under six managers after leaving the Dodgers.

At Minnesota as a player in 1968 and '69, his managers were Ermer and Billy Martin. He was a player-coach under Ted Williams with Washington in 1970.

3 years with Halos

His last three years in baseball were with the Angels. The managers during that span were Del Rice, Bobby Winkles and Winkles-Dick Williams in the last year.

Two of the managers he played under, Billy Martin and Dick Williams are highly regarded for their ability in most baseball circles.

Yet Roseboro feels Alston is far superior.

In all fairness, it must be mentioned that Roseboro also is somewhat bitter over his lack of advancement since leaving the Dodgers.

Gabby currently has a public relations and advertising agency on Sunset Blvd. in Los Angeles. He used to live in West Covina and had a nightclub in Pomona that he says "bombed out." Now he lives in South Los Angeles.

He admits he'd like to get back into baseball but not as a coach. "I want to go back as a manager or in the front office (as an executive)," he said. "I could coach the rest of my life and never get anywhere.

"I'm bitter that there are no positions of consequence for minority athletes in baseball. Oh, they'll have another black manager soon. I believe that. But until they open up the doors to the front offices and put a minority athlete, I'm not saying just a black but a minority athlete, in any position I'm not changing my philosophy."

Roseboro is proving his capability as an executive. It's too bad it isn't in baseball where he has the background to be a definite asset to some club.

Parker, Wills agree

HERE 'N THERE — Wes Parker put himself on Wills' side. The former Dodger first baseman, who earlier had declined to comment on the Dodger managing, told Hank Hollingworth (Long Beach Independent) at the Angels' Hollywood Stars night, "Maury is absolutely right. The Dodgers in no way should have lost in 1962. That's just one Alston blew."

1962 was the year the Dodgers blew a five-game lead in the final week of the season and then lost the playoff to the Giants.

Creditors of the Long Beach Grand Prix Association have been offered 35 cents on the dollar in cash and 20 cents on the dollar in stock.

Debts amount to more than $500,000. However plans are already being made to televise the next race live for two hours with sponsors reported hot for the move.

Green Bay's John Brockington has joined the parade of NFL players asking to be traded to contending teams. Brockington, who lives in La Jolla, says he would prefer to play for the Miami Dolphins, Rams or Oakland Raiders.

Louie Kelcher, giant defensive tackle of the San Diego Chargers is down to a sleek 279 pounds this year. The 6-5 Kelcher reported at 314 pounds last year. This year he came in under 290.

Among the last six JC transfers added by San Diego State were 6-4, 270-pound Harold Cotton of Los Angeles Harbor and 5-11, 205-pound fullback Mark Dobbs of Saddleback.

Perfection graces Olympics

Egypt goes home

MONTREAL (AP) — The very imperfect Olympics—with all its troubles and strife, fears and police forces, threats and boycotts—suddenly has been graced by perfection.

It's a tiny package, this little bit of perfection, standing only 4-feet-11 and weighing in at 88 pounds of pure grace and rhythm, topped by a ponytail and occasionally spiced by a saucy gesture.

It's magnificent little Nadia Comaneci, a 14-year-old Romanian girl, who has captured the imagination of the world, one billion of whose people have watched on television her performances that are truly unbelievable.

She opened the Games with a perfect score of 10—the first ever achieved in the Olympics—on the uneven parallel bars Sunday. And she followed that with a mind-boggling, second perfect score on the hazardous balance beam yesterday.

And still she wasn't done. There was more to come—more of that which is supposed to be unattainable by mortals.

She recorded still another perfect score last night in optional performances on the uneven parallel bars.

"I was very glad," she said. "But it wasn't the first time. I've done it 19 times."

But no one had ever done it in the Olympics.

Her spectacular performances brought to their feet a wildly-cheering crowd of 18,000, some of them almost tearful in their adoration of this flying, twisting little girl who usually wears a poker face devoid of expression.

But she can, and does on perfect occasions, flash that appealing, beguiling smile of youth.

Her fantastic displays overshadowed another 1-2-3 sweep by the American men's swimming team, this in the 200-meter freestyle.

And the performance of young Miss Comaneci also was a much needed tonic for a politically troubled Olympiad which saw yet another country, Egypt, pull out today.

Egypt joined 28 other nations in a boycott because of a New Zealand rugby team's tour of South Africa. Egypt failed to show up for a basketball game against Italy this morning and a spokesman at the Egyptian delegation headquarters in the Olympic Village said the team had withdrawn and was preparing to leave for home.

She was more impressive than the powerful East Germans who have won every event on the women's swimming program so far.

She made secondary a cheating incident that resulted in the disqualification of a Russian star in the Modern Pentathlon.

World records fell in profusion. But what are world records when pefection is offered?

The Russians won the team gold in the women's gymnastics, but it was almost overlooked in the outpouring of praise and affection for Nadia, who is now the overwhelming favorite to take the individual all-around title Wednesday night.

Long John Naber was the star of the American swim team that collected two more gold medals and helped push the United States' accumulation for the Games to three gold, four silver and two bronze. East Germany leads with a four gold, three silver, three bronze. Russia has three gold and one bronze.

The 6-foot-6 Naber, a senior at Southern California, won the 100 backstroke in world record time of 55.49, then just missed in his bid for a double-gold evening. He was outtouched by Bruce Furniss, Santa Ana, Calif., an hour later in the men's 200 freestyle.

Furniss won in world record time of 1:50.29. Nabor was timed in 1:50:50 and Jim Montgomery, Madison, Wis., made it the second American sweep of the Games with his 1:50.58 for third.

"I'm very glad," said the gregarious Naber. "I couldn't have swum a better backstroke race."

No one ever has. He was the first to crack 56 seconds in the event and foiled East Germany's Roland Matthes' hopes of winning a gold in three consecutive Olympics. Matthes, the world record holder until these Games started, finished third behind Peter Rocca, Orinda, Calif., and said he wouldn't compete at the event again.

John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., also set a world record with a clocking of 1:03.02 in leading the qualifying for the men's 100 breaststroke and prompted a happy coach Doc Counsilman to observe: "We'll just have to wait 'til it's over and count the medals."

The East German women, like the American men, remained unbeaten with two more swimming triumphs. Andrea Pollack led an East German sweep of the women's 200 butterfly in Olympic record time of 2:11.41. Kornelia Ender, Matthes' fiance, won the 100 freestyle in 55.65, a world record. Petra Primer of East Germany was second and Enith Brigintha of Holland third.

Bulgarian Norair Nurikian won the bantamweight weightlifting gold with a world record combined lift of 577.5 pounds. Grzegorz Cziura of Poland was second and Kenkichi Ando of Japan third.

In the only other gold medal event, Romania finished second to Russia in the women's gymnastics and East Germany took the bronze. It was Romania's highest finish ever and Russia's seventh consecutive team title.

Russia's hopes for a repeat team title in the Modern Pentathlon took a severe jolt, however, when Boris Onischenko was disquified by a jury of appeal for using an epee that had double wiring in it and could register a touch even though he had not touched his opponent.

"There is no doubt whatsoever in our minds that it was a deliberate attempt to fraudently alter the results," said William O. Grut of Sweden, secretary-general of the International Union for the Modern Pentathlon.

Dodger relief corps hurting

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Where is Mike Marshall now that the Dodgers need him?

Of course, the outspoken Marshall is now working in an Atlanta Braves' uniform after being traded mainly because of all the problems he created while with the Dodgers.

But without Marshall, the Dodgers' bullpen corps is suddenly hurting.

Charlie Hough, the knuckleballer who won his first seven decisions this season, couldn't find the plate Monday night when the Philadelphia Phillies scored three runs in the ninth inning to take a 5-3 victory over the Dodgers to drop L.A. seven games behind Cincinnati in the National League West.

Besides Hough, the other Dodger relief pitchers are newcomer Elias Sosa, ineffective Stan Wall and forgotten Al Downing.

So when starter Burt Hooton was literally knocked out of the box by a vicious line drive in the ninth inning, it was natural Manager Walt Alston would call for Hough.

But Hough didn't have it. He walked Jay Johnstone on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases and did the same to Garry Maddox to force in the tying run.

Exit Hough and bring on Sosa. But it was the same story as Sosa walked Tom Hutton on five pitches to force in the go-ahead run to the groans of the 37,109 customers.

Sosa finally got out of the jam with the Phillies adding one more run on Bob Boone's sacrifice fly.

"Every time I bring in Hough, I think about bases on balls," Alston told the writers. "But he has been our best relief pitcher over the first half of the season. You have to look at the overall picture. I feel all of our relief pitchers are suffering from a lack of work because of the All-Star break plus three consecutive complete games by our starters."

Hough didn't want any alibis.

"This was just one of those nights," the knuckleballer said. "I just couldn't get the ball over the plate."

Hooton, who saw his string of seven consecutive victories over the Phils end, allowed only two hits through the first six innings but gave up six in his final two plus frames.

The Phils, behind 3-1, cut the deficit to one run with an unearned tally in the eighth when Davey Lopes made a wild throw trying for a double play. The bad throw enabled Boone to take second base and it cost the Dodgers when Dave Cash singled him home.

Mike Schmidt opened the ninth with a solid single to right and Greg Luzinski followed with his liner which struck Hooton on the right hip and bounced away to short leftfield for a double.

It was amazing Hooton wasn't injured.

"It got me square on the belt," he said. "There's no pain."

But Hooton was in pain watching what developed after he left when the Phils scored two runs without swinging a bat.

Philadelphia opened the scoring Monday when Hutton tripled in the third inning and scored on Boone's sacrifice fly.

It was then all Dodgers for awhile as L.A. tagged starter Larry Christenson for three runs and nine hits.

Reggie Smith singled home Lopes to tie the game in the bottom on the third. Doubles by Steve Garvey and Bill Russell put L.A. ahead in the fourth and Ron Cey belted his 13th home run of the season in the sixth.

Relievers Gene Garber and Ron Reed held the Dodgers down the rest of the way with Reed coming out of the bullpen to retire Smith for the final out.

DODGER DATA — The St. Louis Cardinals come to town tonight for another brief two-game series. Doug Rau (8-6) will pitch against Lynn McGlothen (8-8) tonight with Don Sutton (10-8) facing John Denny (5-4) in Wednesday's 1 p.m. contest.

Philadelphia won the season series, 7-5, over the Dodgers. The Phils won five-of-six at Dodger Stadium while the Dodgers were 4-2 in Philly.

Kingman out for 6 weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league home run leader Dave Kingman of the New York Mets will be sidelined for about six weeks as the result of a thumb injury sustained in Monday night's game against Atlanta.

Kingman underwent surgery Monday night at Manhattan Roosevelt Hospital for torn ligaments in his left thumb.

Kingman was injured diving for a double down the left field line in the third inning of the Mets-Braves game. After being examined on the field, Kingman finished the inning but was removed in the fourth.

Kingman had hit 32 home runs and had driven in 72 runs in the first 92 Met games prior to tonight.

Angels pitching gets 2 victories

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Don Kirkwood and Paul Hartzell did much to dispel the popular notion that the California Angels' pitching staff consists of Nolan Ryan, Frank Tanana and a revolving door of a faceless few.

John Verhoeven, former La Verne College star, picked up his first save with two scoreless innings of relief work. The 6-5, 210-pound Verhoeven struck out three while giving up one hit and no walks.

And they also all but smothered the traces of what for a time had seemed to be a midsummer drive to respectability by the Milwaukee Brewers.

Bobby Bonds' three runs batted in on two singles helped Hartzell (1-2) earn his first major league victory as California beat the Brewers 4-2 in the first game of a doubleheader Monday night. The Angels scored five times in the third inning of the nightcap and won 6-1, giving Kirkwood (3-7) his first victory since June 13.

"I was too strong at first and couldn't put the ball where I wanted, but getting that big lead helped me relax. I kept the ball in tight on practically every righthand hitter the rest of the night," said Kirkwood, 30 against the Brewers and 6-12 against the rest of the American League in his less than three big league seasons.

The Angels, while still last in the AL West, have won four games in a row. The Brewers, who had won nine of 12 starts prior to the All-Star break, are 1-5 since.

Three of the Angels' runs in the first game were unearned, results in part of three errors and a passed ball. A throwing error and a misjudgement by shortstop Robin Yount fueled California's big inning in the second game.

A double by Bruce Bochte, the passed ball and a two out error by Don Money gave the Angels the lead to stay at 1-0 in the second inning of the first game. They added another unearned run an inning later on an error by George Scott, a sacrifice and Bonds' first hit.

The Brewers got one back in the fourth on a single by Darrell Porter, a walk and a single by Tim Johnson. However, the Angels made it 4-1 with two in the fifth on an infield hit by Andy Etchebarren, a sacrifice, a throwing error by Yount and a two run single by Bonds.

The Brewers chased Hartzell with a sixth inning run on a double by Six-to Lezcano and singles by Bernie Carbo and Yount.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Don Zimmer, replacing fired 1975 American League Manager of the Year Darrell Johnson, says he would be "the happiest man in the world" if the Boston Red Sox continue to show the same fighting spirit they displayed Monday night in a 4-3 loss to the Texas Rangers.

"This was the first time in my life I've been on a losing team that I liked what I saw," said Zimmer, who will serve as interim Red Sox manager until the end of the season. "The players acted in the dugout tonight like a team that is fighting for a pennant. That's what I want to see and that's what I saw."

The fact that Boston is not fighting for a pennant is precisely why Johnson is no longer with the team.

The Red Sox, who took the Cincinnati Reds down to the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series, were solid favorites to win the American League East again. Instead, they are languishing in fifth place, 14 games behind the New York Yankees.

"The way the team has been going lately, I don't blame (General Manager) Dick O'Connell or the Red Sox one bit," Johnson said of his firing. "In my opinion it was time for a change."

He attributed his downfall to the Red Sox "not scoring runs the way they are capable of and the way they did last year."

Johnson said he would not change the way he handled the team if he played the season over, but Zimmer implemented some immediate changes in the starting line-up.

Zimmer said he plans to keep Steve Dillard at third base on a regular basis and play Carl Yastrzemski at first base on the road and in left field at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox fought back from a 3-0 deficit to tie Monday's game on a two-run homer by Cecil Cooper and a solo shot by Dwight Evans, but the Rangers won the contest in the 11th on a run-scoring single by Toby Harrah.

"Close only counts in horseshoes, but if I continue to see the fighting spirit I saw tonight, we'll start winning some ball games," Zimmer said. If I see this from now until Oct. 3, I'll be the happiest man in the world."

Of his interim status, Zimmer said, "I wanted it that way. I feel if I do the job I'll be rehired. I'm not worried about getting a job. If O'Connell wants to make a change at the end of the year, I'll be happy to go back and coach third base."

Johnson, who had managed the team since the start of the 1974 season, is the second manager of the year in a row to lose his job before August of the following season.

Billy Martin won that honor in 1974 for overhauling the Texas Rangers but was fired last July 20, exactly a year ago.

"We cannot blame everything on Darrell Johnson, but it is easier to change a manager than the team," said O'Connell. "Darrell Johnson did a great job of managing the team last year and we are sorry this decision had to be made."

Zimmer, 45, has been the Red Sox third base coach since the start of the 1974 season. He previously managed the San Diego Padres in 1972-73. He spent 12 years as an active player for five major league teams.

"You can bet your life that if we had won five of six at Kansas City instead of losing five of six, Johnson would still be here," said Zimmer. "But it wasn't just that. We haven't hit all year. In my heart I know we're gonna hit better, but we've been saying that all year."

Campbell tough in relief

By Associated Press

Bill Campbell stuck to his fast ball, a decision that enabled the Minnesota relief pitcher to capture his 11th victory of the season.

"I haven't thrown in a couple of days, but I felt pretty good out there," said Campbell, a 6-foot-3 190-pound righthander from Ganesha High and Mt. San Antonio College. "AFter we had the lead, I just stuck to my fast ball and got the last four batters."

With a strong wind blowing toward left field Detroit blasted four home runs off the Minnesota pitching staff, including one off the fast-balling Campbell. But the Twins outlasted the Tigers 6-5 to snap a three-game American League losing streak.

Detroit led 6-4 on Lyman Bostock's two-run single when Detroit's Willie Horton caught a Campbell fast ball to narrow the score to one run.

"I simply got it over the middle of the plate," Campbell said of Horton's homer. "But I can't second guess myself ... Horton's home run scared me a little, and so did the wind."

Detroit wasn't alone in finding the fences. Larry Hisle smacked a three-run homer, his eighth of the season, in the third inning in the seesaw contest. Besides Horton, Mickey Stanley, Bill Freehan and Pedro Garcia homered for the Tigers.

Campbell, who has lost twice this season, went the final 31-3 innings to pick up the victory.

"I just try and pitch as hard as I can every time I go out," he said. "It's up to those guys (the team) to get the runs."

Orioles 4, Royals 3

Jim Palmer hurled his 13th victory of the season—tops in the AL—as Baltimore slipped by Kansas City. The veteran righthander, who has won six of his seven starts, worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the third but needed relief in the eighth.

The Royals jumped out to a 1-0 lead on Al Cowens' solo home run, but Baltimore went ahead 2-1 in the fifth and Reggie Jackson's two-run homer—his 12th of the year—sealed the verdict for the victorious Orioles.

Yankees 3, White Sox 2

With the score tied 2-2 in the ninth, Thurman Munson scored from second to lift New York to victory when Chris Chambliss laid down a perfect drag bunt and Chicago pitcher Jack Brohamer threw the ball past first base.

Munson had opened the ninth with a double. Then Chambliss bunted.

"I let him swing at the first pitch," said Yankees Manager Billy Martin, "and when they didn't come in I put on the bunt sign."

Chicago Manager Paul Richards agreed. "We should have been playing in, but I guess I fell asleep after he swung at the first pitch. They crossed us up."

Boston continued its nosedive despite a new manager. Toby Harrah's two-out single in the bottom of the 11th scored the winning run and handed Don Zimmer his first loss after he replaced Darrell Johnson, the 1975 Manager of the Year, at the Red Sox helm earlier in the day.

Texas jumped out to a 3-0 lead before Boston came back to tie the game, sparked by Cecil Cooper's two-run homer. But reliever Jim Willoughby walked six batters after entering the game in the ninth. The first hit Willoughby gave up was Harrah's game-winning shot.

Indians 3-3, A's 2-10

Cleveland used pitching to capture its fourth straight victory before Oakland erupted behind its hitting to capture the nightcap.

Jim Bibby and reliever Jim Kern limited the A's to just six hits in the first game as catcher Ray Fosse, playing his first game since coming off the disabled list, scored two of the Indians' runs.

In the nightcap, Billy Williams pounded a two-run homer and Don Baylor and Bill North each smacked two-run doubles to pace the A's attack.

D'Acquisto finally getting untracked

By Associated Press

Some walks, some runs and John D'Acquisto usually headed for the nearest exit. It got so bad that one writer nicknamed him "Ball Four" D'Acquisto.

After posting San Francisco rookie records with 12 wins and 167 strikeouts in 1974, D'Acquisto underwent elbow surgery last year that limited him to 10 appearances with a 24 record and a dismal 10.29 earned run average.

Eight starts and seven relief jobs this season weren't much better—an 0-5 record and 6.47 ERA—but the hard-throwing righthander worked eight promising innings Monday against St. Louis. He allowed only four hits and two runs and walked off with his first victory as a starter since April 16, 1975, as the Giants defeated the Cardinals 5-3.

Never blessed with pinpoint control, D'Acquisto issued eight walks—62 in 56 innings—but five came in the first three innings. He didn't walk anyone from the fourth through the seventh and when he returned to the dugout the small Candlestick Park crowd of 1,587 gave him a standing ovation.

"I never gave up on myself, and the fans were behind me all the way," D'Acquisto said. "I had everything going. It was a big stepping stone for me."

D'Acquisto took a 5-1 lead into the ninth but walked pinch hitter Jerry Mumphrey and threw two balls to Bake McBride before being relieved by Mike Caldwell, who was nicked for a two-run single by Lou Brock.

D'Acquisto also helped himself with his bat. He singled in the third inning and eventually scored the tying run and doubled and scored in the sixth.

Reds 4, Pirates 2

Dave Concepcion's tie-breaking two-run double snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning and Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh behind the five-hit pitching of Pat Zachry. Concepcion's blow off Jim Rooker followed Cesar Geronimo's single, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Pete Rose. Pittsburgh's runs came on solo homers by Bill Robinson.

"Zachry is a pitcher who really wants to learn and he has a big future," said Manager Sparky Anderson.

Astros 3, Expos 1

Greg Gross and Bob Watson drove in seventh-inning runs with a single and sacrifice fly respectively as the streaking Astros posted their fifth consecutive triumph and 11th in the last 13 games behind the five-hit pitching of J.R. Richard.

"We're getting good pitching, our clutch hitting is better and our defense has improved a lot since the start of the season," said Manager Bill Virdon, whose club has climbed into third place.

Braves 4, Mets 2

Phil Niekro limited the Mets to a pair of singles over the first six innings and notched his 10th victory with seventh-inning help from Mike Marshall. Niekro also delivered a run-scoring single in Atlanta's three-run fourth.

The Mets suffered a severe blow when Kingman, who has 32 home runs, suffered torn ligaments in his left thumb while trying to make a diving catch of Niekro's pop fly double in the third inning. Kingman underwent surgery Monday night.

Padres 3, Cubs 2

Dave Winfield tripled to start the eighth inning and scored the winning run on John Grubb's sacrifice fly while Brent Strom scattered seven hits in handing the Cubs their seventh consecutive defeat. Chicago tied the game in the eighth on singles by Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal and rookie Wayne Tyrone's sacrifice fly but Cardenal was nailed when he tried to score on a pitch into the dirt that bounced a few feet away from catcher Bob Davis.

Knox looks at his QBs

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — James Harris is still the starting quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams, a team spokesman says, but Coach Chuck Knox is also reportedly looking closely at Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden.

The spokesman said all three quarterbacks looked sharp in drills Monday.

Rod Perry, who is trying to make the starting team as left cornerback, returned to practice Monday after missing four days with a minor knee injury.

Dave Fleming, a National Football League rookie who had played eights years in Canada, retired Monday, and Steve Bustanoby, a rookie linebacker out of Fullerton State, was placed on waivers, bringing the Ram squad down to 90.

Sparky has new opinion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Sparky Anderson admits now he might have been barking up the wrong tree in his criticism of Houston pitcher Joaquin Andujar.

Earlier this baseball season, when Andujar, a former pitcher in the Reds farm system, beat the Reds, Anderson remarked: "Every dog has his day."

Andujar has beaten Cincinnati three times this year and won his last two starts with 1-0 shutouts.

"That guy is a pedigree now," said Anderson.

'Bird' wins June honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, Detroit's rookie All-Star pitcher, finished first in the June voting for the 27th annual Hickok Award, which represents recognition as the top professional athlete of the year.

Fidrych, a 20-year-old righthander, received 43 first place votes and 186 points in the voting for June. He finished 20 points ahead of runner-up Jerry Pate, who won the U.S. Open golf tournament.

Others in the top 10, in order, were boxer George Foreman, pitcher Randy Jones of San Diego, guard Jo Jo White of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics, boxer Carlos Monzon, center Dave Cowens of the Celtics, tennis star Roscoe Tanner, major league home run leader Dave Kingman of the New York Mets and National League batting leader Al Oliver of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this, it is necessary for you TO TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results.

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money

Free lunches insure no one goes hungry in valley

Cost averages out to about 80 cents per meal.

Dates of the summer program vary in valley communities but generally extend from late June to late August or early September. Serving times range from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

In Pomona, the city is sponsoring the program at 40 sites, and with Pomona Unified School District as a subcontractor preparing food, is serving approximately 4,000 meals a day.

This is the maximum number to be served, and it is anticipated participation will decline near the end of the program, which began June 14 and will extend through Aug. 27.

Rowland Unified School District is serving free meals each day June 29 through Aug. 19, at six sites. Service there began June 29 and will end Aug. 19. Workers served 7,640 children the first week, school officials reported.

Chaffey Union High School District is not participating in the Summer Food Service Program. Its food services department is, however, operating snack bars for morning breaks for summer school students attending high schools in Ontario, Upland, Alta Loma, and Montclair.

In Claremont, Park and Recreational personnel serve 440 lunches to children at Oakmont Elementary School, and Wheeler, El Barrio, Lewis, Blaisell, and Memorial parks. A federal grant handled through the city Human Resources office pays a vendor to deliver the lunches to Memorial Park.

The Bonita School District in La Verne and San Dimas is not involved in the federally sponsored lunch program. However it provides snack services at Bonita and Damien high schools.

In conjunction with the Ontario Police Department, the Ontario-Montclair School District is providing 1,100 free meals a day under the federally funded program. The schools prepare the food and the police provide supervision.

The meals are served at Vineyard Park, D Street Park, De Anza Park, Sultana School and the Bon View Community Center, all in Ontario. The program runs from June 21 to Sept. 3.

The Chino Unified School District is not participating in the summer lunch program. Children on the year-round school program continue to participate in the national school lunch program through the summer months. Those pupils who opted for the traditional nine-month schedule in Chino, however, are left without a summer meal program.

Other districts not participating in the food program are Walnut Valley Unitied, Upland Elementary, Alta Loma and Central in Cucamonga.

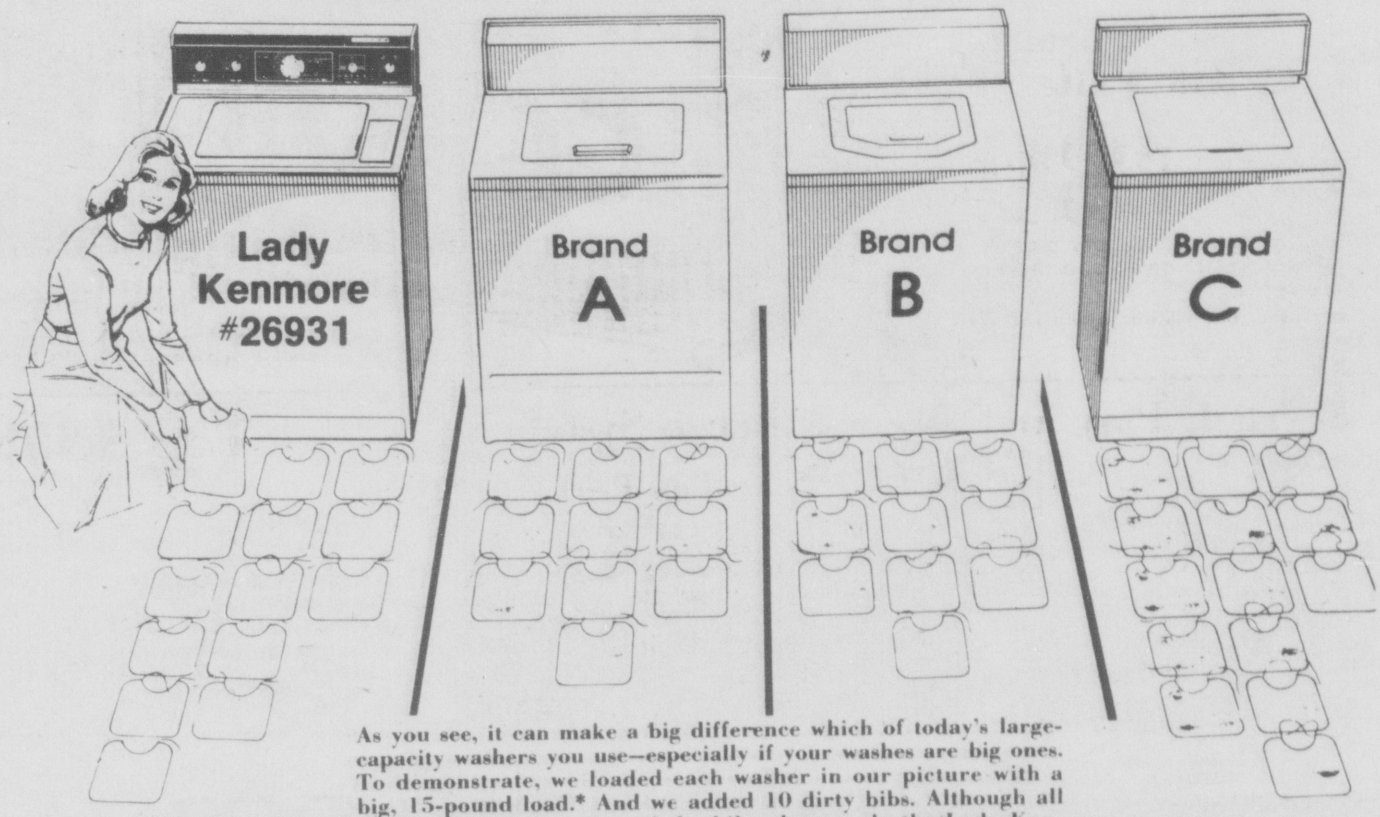
This Lady Kenmore® washer gets big loads cleaner than the next best-selling brands. And we mean cleaner.



As you see, it can make a big difference which of today's large-capacity washers you use—especially if your washes are big ones. To demonstrate, we loaded each washer in our picture with a big, 15-pound load.* And we added 10 dirty bibs. Although all of the washers got some of the bibs clean, only the Lady Kenmore washer got them all clean. Why? Because only the Lady Kenmore washer has the Dual Action™ agitator!

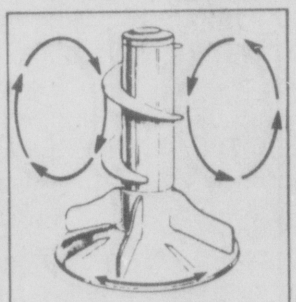
LIMITED TIME ONLY

$100 OFF

Regular Price of DUAL ACTION LADY KENMORE PAIR



Dual Action Agitator

. . . standard on Lady Kenmore washer. Available for large-capacity Kenmore washers from 1971.

How the Dual Action agitator works

This remarkable agitator has a top and bottom that move separately, the top pulls the clothes down into the wash, and the bottom whirls them side-to-side. Results? Testing proved that compared to a conventional agitator, clothes get cleaner.

*Tests were conducted using a standard 15-pound A.H.A.M. load. Load contained: 3 sheets, 2 tablecloths, 4 shirts, 6 bath towels, 4 "T" shirts, 4 pillow cases, 6 shorts, 6 wash cloths, 5 handkerchiefs. Test results available on written request.

Ford camp claims gain of 16 in heated delegate battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's campaign claimed 16 more Republican National Convention delegates today, including two plucked from Ronald Reagan's total in Virginia and seven from Suffolk County, N.Y.

The latest announcement from Ford headquarters came less than 24 hours after the Reagan camp named three new converts from the uncommitted ranks and contended the former California governor would have 1,140 votes on the first ballot.

James Baker, Ford's chief delegate hunter, said the President now has 1,119 of the 1,130 delegates necessary to secure the GOP nomination at Kansas City Aug. 18.

The Associated Press count of legally bound and publicly declared candidates now stands at 1,081 for Ford, 1,023 for Reagan, 154 uncommitted and 1 for Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee.

In addition to the seven New Yorkers, the new Ford claims list five delegates from Virginia and one each from Illinois, Delaware, Louisiana and South Carolina.

Edwin M. Schwenk, Suffolk County GOP chairman, said his group of seven decided to switch to the President last Friday. Earlier, said Schwenk, he had met for about 10 minutes with Ford to discuss the county's need for federal help on a major sewer project.

But Schwenk denied that the sewer project help would be any quid pro quo for the seven votes in Kansas City. "We're just asking fair consideration," he told a news conference at Ford campaign headquarters.

Richard Rosenbaum, the New York state GOP chairman, claimed that of the 154 New York delegates, Ford has 131, Reagan 18 and 5 remain uncommitted.

Ford, at a news conference Monday, said he expected good news from his delegate hunters later in the week. Ford claimed he already has 1,103 of the 1,130 delegates needed to sure nomination on the first ballot at the Aug. 16-19 convention.

Ford acted at his news conference on the White House front lawn Monday like a man already certain of nomination and looking toward the general election campaign against Jimmy Carter.

He said his campaign will be pitched on economic recovery, maintenance of peace and restoration of faith in government. Asked what his biggest issue with Carter would be, Ford said, "I'm not going to discuss this campaign from that point of view. It is important for me to act affirmatively. I'll let Mr. Carter decide the issues where he has some difference."

He said he believed the GOP could achieve unity at its convention because its delegates "have a basic philosophical identity," which the Republican candidate will put forward against the Democrats.

Ford again would not speculate on who he might pick as his running mate if he is nominated. He said no one, including Reagan and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller, was excluded from consideration.

Ford even threw out the notion that he might look outside GOP ranks for a running mate, but when asked to elaborate, said "use your imagination."

He said competence to serve as president would be the principal qualification for a running mate, but that "a whole raft of potential criteria" would also be considered.

Reagan campaign manager John Sears, at a news conference Monday, said he has never been more confident of a Reagan win. He said some of Ford's claimed delegate strength is soft, that "in many parts of the country it makes little political sense to come out too early" against a sitting President.

Viking photos show 'incredible detail'

Nobody on Mars but the rocks

PASADENA (AP) — America's Viking 1 spacecraft landed today on a dusty plain of Mars to search for life on the red planet. In a spectacular space achievement, Viking began sending back razor-sharp photos of the planet's surface.

The pictures arrived dramatically, appearing line-by-line on television monitors after traveling 213 million miles at the speed of light. The failure of two earlier Soviet Mars landing crafts had heightened the tension in the project laboratory.

"The details are just incredible," said Dr. Thomas Mutch, head of the lander imaging team.

" It just couldn't be better," he said as the first picture, a portion of the surface directly under one leg of the lander appeared on television monitors at Jet Propulsion Laboratory. It was of the Chryse Planitia, the Gold Plain of Mars — the smoothest place on a planet marked by volcanic peaks and deep valleys and craters.

Later, the unmanned three-legged lander will make life-detection and soil sampling tests. For more than 100 years scientists have thought Mars might harbor some form of life.

Scientists cheered and hugged each other as the 1,300-pound craft radioed that it touched down on Mars at 4:55 a.m. PDT. The signal took 19 minutes to reach Earth. For many, the achievement was a childhood dream come true — a Mars landing.

President Ford telephoned his congratulations to the project headquarters, calling the mission a "wonderful and most remarkable success."

He said, "I think it's amazing that in the span of a single lifetime, the exploration of space has grown from the dreams of very, very few individuals to such a massive cooperative reality."

Science fiction writer Ray Bradbury was at JPL for the touchdown, his dreams racing ahead of the Viking mission.

"I know in the next 20 years we'll have a manned landing on Mars — eventually we'll have colonized and taken over the planet," Bradbury said.

The first picture showed an area of soil strewn with what seemed to be chunks of rock of varying sizes. Mutch said it looked as though some of the rocks had tails of dirt formed by the rushing of strong Martian winds across the surface.

Scientists had expected the landing site, a low plain where streams may once have run, would be covered by a blanket of material deposited by the water. Although the pictures showed a rocky surface, the lander apparently avoided any geologic hazards that project officials had feared might imperil the touchdown.

In the corner of the first picture could be seen one of Viking's round metal landing footpads. The rivets on the footpad were visible and the footpad cast an oval shadow in the late afternoon sun as it rested on the soil among the rocks, which Mutch described as "a beautiful collection of boulders."

The second picture was to be a panoramic view of the Martian landscape.

Viking 1, the first of two unmanned American spacecraft scheduled to land on Mars this summer, was launched last August 20. It arrived near Mars and went into orbit around the planet — which is about half the size of earth — a month ago.

Viking 2 is an identical lander and is soaring through space and is due to enter Martian orbit August 7.

Coincidentally, the touchdown schedule of the Viking 1 lander was on the seventh anniversary of man's first walk on the moon, Neil Armstrong's and Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin's monumental achievement on July 20, 1969.

President Ford took note of the coincidence of the two events Monday, and proclaimed today as Space Exploration Day.

Ford called the Mars mission "brilliant" and "the most ambitious of all space explorations."

America's exploration of the Red planet would eclipse two Soviet Union landings on the Red Planet, both of which ceased transmissions soon after landing, either destroyed or damaged.

A landing site several hundred kilometers to the southeast of today's landing site — along with a planned July Fourth Bicentennial landing — was rejected by the Viking team as being too hazardous. The newest area, though seemingly much flatter, was not thought to be any less interesting, scientists said.

The most recent pictures from Viking showed the site for the touchdown to be a relatively flat area on the slope of a huge basin called Chryse Planitia. Scientists think some fine material from Martian highlands may have been deposited there.

Similar areas on earth are often rich with such minerals as gold, platinum and diamonds. Some scientists have suggested that such minerals may be found on Mars.

Under the Viking plan, eight days after landing, a telescoping claw attached to the 1,300-pound lander was cheduled to reach out and scoop a handful of Martian soil then dump into miniaturized biochemical laboratories to be analyze for signs of life.

Most scientists think Mars is too dry and barren to support life.

VIKING TAKES A LOOK

Cannery workers prepare to strike

PALO ALTO (AP) — As the peak harvest season nears, crucial cannery workers prepared to strike today.

The Teamsters Union and California Processors, Inc. were reported far apart in negotiations as the 10 a.m. strike deadline approached.

Assemblyman Gordon Duffy, R-Hanford, sent a telegram Monday to President Ford, urging him to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act and order an 80-day cooling off period requiring workers stay on the job.

President Fred Heringer of the California Farm Bureau also sent a telegram to Labor Secretary William J. Usery urging him to "exert every possible effort" to prevent a strike.

"Millions of dollars worth of fruit and tomatoes will rot on the ground" if there is a strike, said Heringer.

"These losses ultimately will be felt in every household in America in the form of higher canned food prices," he said

John Scalone, president of California Processors, a management group representing 95 per cent of the state's canning industry, said his organization is "willing to go into marathon, 24-hour-a-day sessions or anything that is required to reach a settlement."

The strike deadline, the second set by Teamsters since their contract expired June 30, was called because negotiations had shown little progress.

The strike could shut down 76 canneries, mostly located in the Santa Clara, Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. They process about 95 per cent of the state's canned fruits and vegetables.

The strike could also idle up to 70,000 cannery workers employed during the summer harvest, which peaks soon with tomatoes, pears and peaches.

The California Canning Peach Association estimated cling peach growers stand to lose $6.3 million if 60,000 tons of peaches go undelivered this week by the strike.

Pomona youth killed in collision; 2 hurt

A 16-year-old Pomona youth was killed early today when the car he was driving ran through a red traffic signal and slammed broadside into another auto, Pomona police reported.

The accident occurred at Towne Avenue and Mission Boulevard shortly after midnight.

The victim, Rickey Michael Figueras, 2124 Virginia Ave., apparently suffered internal injuries and was pronounced dead at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. His passenger, Carl G. Heuss, 17, of 527 Alcott St., Pomona, suffered head cuts and was reported in fair condition at the hospital this morning.

The other driver involved, Jose Valencia Ramirez, 1006 Friar Lane, Pomona, was in fair condition there with a broken shoulder and head cuts.

Police said that Figueras was northbound on Towne Avenue at about 60 miles per hour, when his small coupe failed to stop for a red traffic light and slammed into Ramirez' westbound station wagon.

The damage to Figueras' car was so extensive that officers were unable to determine if mechanical failure may have played a part in the accident.

Tips flooding police

Bus kidnapers' names, photos expected soon

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — Authorities investigating the mass kidnaping of a busload of 26 school children say they are being flooded with tips and hope to have names and photographs of the three abductors by today.

"We've got so many leads, I can't say which one will lead to the breaking of this case," Alameda County Sheriff Tom Houchins said Monday.

Asked if the investigation was progressing satisfactorily, Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said, "You'd better believe it."

Authorities said they were using computers to check many of the leads, including the descriptions of possible suspects and vehicles.

"There's a lot of brainstorming going on," said Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Clayton Paxton. "Most of the work is being done over the telephones and with computers."

Two fresh leads came to investigators Monday.

Authorities also reported they had located some clothing taken from the victims by the kidnapers beside a highway near Saratoga, 150 miles northwest of this small farming community where the 27 were abducted.

The masked trio hijacked the bus Thursday, left the 26 school children and the bus driver in an underground bunker in a gravel quarry at Livermore, 95 miles north of Chowchilla. The victims dug their way out and escaped Friday evening.

One new lead came from an unidentified former inmate at San Quentin prison who told Tuolumne County Sheriff Jack Litteral "that while he was in the joint he knew of three or four guys who talked incessantly about a kidnap operation they intended to pull when they got out, in which they would use a group of children for hostages."

Investigators also checked on a report that a man tried to get an unlicensed van painted in Oakland on Monday, but "took off" when a suspicious shop worker asked the driver for the vehicle's serial number.

Alameda County Sheriff's Lt. Edward Volpe said the paint shop owner gave a description of the man which closely resembled descriptions of one of the suspects.

But he said a composite drawing from the owner's description did not resemble any of the three known suspects. Authorites, however, have hinted there might have been a fourth party involved.

Volpe said a bag of clothing belonging to the children was found Sunday by children in the Santa Cruz mountains south of San Jose.

Gunman gets $8-9,000 in city market holdup

A lone gunman speaking in a low voice escaped with between $8,000 and $9,000 Monday in a robbery of the Stater Bros. Market at 1045 N. Garey Ave., Pomona police reported.

The holdup occurred while 15 customers and employes went about their business unaware of what was happening.

Store Manager Paul D. Harmon, 28, said the robber approached him and asked if he was the manager. When Harmon replied that he was, the man pulled back his jacket showing a revolver stuck in his belt and ordered Harmon into the store office.

Once inside he taped Harmon's mouth shut and his hands behind his back and looted the safe of cash, mostly in $500 bundles. He placed it in a cloth sack he brought with him.

After obtaining the cash he left the store, went to a car parked nearby and sped away.

The robber was described as black, 29 to 33 years old, 5 feet 9, weighing 150 pounds. He wore a green jump suit and jacket.

Spotlight on area crime

Woman raped in Upland; $19,000 check recovered

A 42-year-old woman was raped in the UPLAND AREA EARLY Monday and her car and purse stolen, according to police.

Officers said the woman sought help at a home in the 700 block of Raymond Street after the incident. She suffered a cut on her face in the attack.

The woman told officers that the rapist had taken her 1965 station wagon containing her purse. She said she had $70 in cash in her purse and a check for over $19,000 she had received from a legal settlement. About 9:11 a.m. a resident found the woman's purse, still containing the cash and check at A Street and the Southern Pacific Railroad tracks. The station wagon, with the keys in the ignition was found parked in the 400 block of N. Sixth Avenue, police said.

Tool shop burglarized

Burglars using some sort of pry tool forced their way into the E.C. DeYoung Inc. firm at 633 W. State St. in ONTARIO Monday and made off with numerous shop tools and other items valued at $5,745, police reported.

The burglary was discovered about 8:30 a.m. by company employes who found that various business machines had been moved around in the building and grinders, impact wrenches, drills and other shop equipment missing from the work cubicles.

Police said the burglars apparently forced open the front door of the business and left out the back door.

Two truckers robbed

Two truck drivers were robbed in POMONA Sunday after they parked their vehicle because of engine trouble.

The victims, Donaly L. Mayer, 31, and Gerald W. Riddle, 52, both of Modesto, stopped along the San Bernardino Freeway between Towne Avenue and Indian Hill Boulevard because of failing oil pressure shortly after 4 a.m. An auto parked behind them and its occupants, two men, approached their truck and one warned he had a pistol in a sack. He demanded their money. The truckers surrendered their wallets and the pair sped away.

The leader was described as black, 35, 5 feet 7 and 160 pounds.

Chino horse wins Del Mar contest

Copy's Count Marco, a horse owned by Edwin E. Sims of Chino, won the walking horse competition, a $500 amateur stake, during the final day of the National Horse Show at Del Mar.

The horse was ridden by Russel Sampson.

Sharp drop in growth rate

GNP is not so gross

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Gross National Product, the broadest measure of the nation's economic well-being, registered a sharp drop in the growth rate during the spring quarter, the government reported today. The drop was attributed primarily to a stabilization of business inventory accumulation.

In another economic report Monday, the Federal Reserve Board had estimated that manufacturers in the nation were operating at 73 per cent of capacity in the second quarter of the year. That compared to a 72.1 per cent rate of capacity utilization in the previous quarter and was the highest since 75.7 per cent in the last three months of 1974.

Capacity utilization is an indicator of the inflationary pressures in the economy, because as manufacturers operate close to their limits of capacity, the strong demand usually enables them to get better prices for their products. The general rate is still well below, however, the 83 per cent in 1973 when inflation was strongest and shortages were cropping up in the economy.

The fact that economic performance was somewhat sluggish in the second quarter was no surprise. Industrial production, retail sales and other economic statistics released on a monthly basis have already shown a less robust economy this spring.

The trend has been particularly striking in the unemployment picture. The unemployment rate currently stands at 7.5 per cent or precisely where it was at the end of the first quarter. But because of growth in the number of people looking for work and holding jobs, that unemployment rate represents a 116,000 growth in the number of people out of work, leaving the number unemployed in June at 7.1 million.

The Commerce Department said the GNP grew at an annual rate of 4.4 per cent in volume for April through June, compared to a 9.2 per cent annual rate of growth in the year's first quarter.

Despite the decline in the rate of growth, most economists say they feel the drop will be temporary.

The GNP represents the nation's total output of goods and services and is a key determinent of how many new jobs the economy generates as well as the economic status of all Americans.

The Commerce Department said the slower growth rate was accompanied by a quickening of inflation. Prices as measured inthe GNP accounts, which include the prices ot all goods and services in the economy rather than just consumer prices, were up 5 per cent at an annual rate in the second quarter. The inflation rate in the first quarter was 3 per cent.

A sharp drop in the growth rate had been expected by Ford administration economists for at least a month.

Despite the slower growth rate, the GNP figures contained some encouraging signals. Demand in the economy, or the level of final sales, actually grew at a faster pace — 4.7 per cent at an annual rate. Final sales had climbed at a 3.7 per cent rate in the first quarter.

The reason that final sales managed to climb faster while the economy as a whole was growing more slowly is that the sharp boost in inventory accumulation of the first quarter was absent.

Businessmen satisfied demand in 1975 from inventories because they were overstocked with goods and raw materials in their storehouses. Then in the first three months of this year they suddenly began building inventories again.

The total value of GNP at an annual rate in the second quarter was placed at $1,673 billion.

Dr. Cella sentenced to five years

LOS ANGELES (AP) — California's largest political contributor in 1974 has been sentenced to five years in prison for misusing more than $608,000 fr two Orange County hospitals.

The sentence was imposed Monday on Dr. Louis J. Cella, 51, by U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne. He agreed to let Cella and two co-defendants remain free on bail.

Cella's sentence involved 22 counts of tax evasion, fraud and conspiracy.

After the 12-day non-jury trial, Byrne said he found Cella the most blameworthy of the defendants. He called the men's crimes an "outrageous type of fraud against the United States."

Attorneys for Cella and codefendants Theodore Schiffman, 53, of Santa Ana, and Stephen Evans, 31, former Mercy General Hospital administrator, said they will definitely appeal the convictions.

Codefendant George Ollendorf, 44, of Laguna Beach, former Mission Community Hospital administrator, earlier had pleaded guilty to two counts of Medicare fraud. He was called both as a prosecution and defense witness before Byrne.

Cella, the state's largest individual political contributor during 1974, was sentended to five years in federal prison on each of 12 counts and three years in prison on each of nine counts.

Ollendorf and Evans were wentenced to a year in federal prison, and Schiffman was ordered to serve 30 months.

The defendants had been indicted by a federal grand jury and charged with nultiple counts of conspiracy, tax evasion, filing false income tax returns, stealing government funds, mail fraud, forgery and submission of phony Medicare documents.

The indictments charged that the conspiracy began in 1971 when funds were diverted from the two hospitals. During the 12-day trial, Byrne heard witnesses testify that Cella and Schiffman opened bank accounts in the name of phony hospital supply firms, which then billed the two hospitals for nonexistent goods. Witnesses said Ollendorf and Evans approved the payments.

RADIO SHACK TO EXPAND MANUFACTURING FACILITIES

FORT WORTH, TX — Radio Shack, the nation's leading consumer electronics store chain, has announced plans for approximately $3,000,000 in plant and equipment expansion for several of its manufacturing operations.

Radio Shack, a division of Tandy Corporation, owns and operates extensive manufacturing facilities in the United States, Canada, Japan and South Korea. These plants produce a considerable share of the merchandise sold by Radio Shack's chain of nearly 5,000 stores and dealers in all 50 states and Canada, and overseas through Tandy International Electronics stores.

Tandy Wire & Cable, located in Fort Worth, Texas, produces all of the wire and calbe sold by Radio Shack stores. The company has been performing a multitude of encasing, braiding, insulating and molded cable/connection operations. Their facilities will be expanded to permit them to draw wire from regular copper rods, a process they have not previously performed.

Tandy Magnetics, also in Fort Worth, produces the three brands of tape sold by Radio Shack stores; Supertape, Realistic and Concertape, in open reel, 8-track cartridges and cassettes. Radio Shack is said to be the only retailer in the world making their own line of magnetic recording tape. This plant will be adding an additional audio tape coater, tape slitter, and an injection molding process to produce plastic products to house recording tape.

Along with the expansion of these domestic facilities, approximately $400,000 is being spent in Korea to enlarge the capacity of the factory there that produces some of Radio Shack's stereo receivers, Citizens Band walkie-talkies, multi-band radios, intercoms and multitesters.

According to Charles D. Tandy, chairman and chief executive officer of Radio Shack's parent company, Tandy Corporation (NYSE), "In addition to the planned expansion of Radio Shack's manufacturing facilities, a 180,000 square foot addition to the company's exisiting 360,000 square foot distribution center in Fort Worth is progressing on schedule, and the Boston, Massachusetts warehouse is being moved to a new 197,000 square foot facility."

Tax hike expectations shrink for Chaffey School District

By PHYLLIS CANNON
PB Staff Writer

A 1976-77 publication budget totaling $25.3 million and calling for about a 3½ cent tax increase was adopted Monday night by the Chaffey school board.

This document revealed almost $2 million income above the $23.9 million tentative budget the board adopted June 21, which called for a nearly 25 cent tax hike.

Schools Supt. Mike D. Dirksen called the additional revenues "good news" and said they resulted from an 11.97 per cent increase in the district's assessed evaluation. The tentative budget had been figured on an estimated increase of 7.5 per cent.

The publication budget shows income for 1976-77 estimated at $22.1 million, expenditures of $22.4 million and reserves of $2.8 million.

Russ Dickinson, assistant superintendent of business services, estimated the 1976-77 tax rate at $2.4306 per $100 of assessed valuation, compared to $2.3942 in 1975-76.

A breakdown showed only a one cent increase in the general purpose tax rate up to $2.2620, a continuance of the 5 cent community service tax, an almost 3 cent decrease in the earthquake safety tax, and the addition of a five cent meals for the needy tax.

Dickenson told the board he did not know what the new state aid bill, SB1641, would mean to the district. He said Chaffey district was one of six sites in the state selected for workshoops on SE 1641.

"Our meeting will be held Wednesday from 10 a.m. to noon in Hill Auditorium here on the Chaffey High School campus. We are hoping to learn then what SB 1641 will do for us," said Dickinson.

It is certain the new legislation will bring additonal money to the district and, Dickinson said, the "largest area of confusion is in adult education which is changing drastically."

"Nearly final" figures for 1975-76 placed before the board, showed income of $21.1 million, expenditures of $20.4 million and reserves of $3.2 million for a total budget of $23.6 million.

The board scheduled a public hearing for 7 p.m. Aug. 5 on the final 1976-77 budget.

Six capital outlay projects, at a combined estimated cost of almost $70,000, were approved by the board and the administration was authorized to put the projects to bid.

These projects are an outdoor living science lab at Upland High School, estimated to cost $12,000; security fencing for the staff parking lot at Ontario High School, $13,325; a public address, intercom and fire alarm system at Chaffey High School, $15,000; physical education lockers at Alta Loma and Ontario high schools, $11,600; a 22 by 40 foot second-floor addition to the girls' gym at Chaffey, $7,000; and a storage building at the west end of the girls' gym at Chaffey, $8,000.

A spring trip to Hawaii for approximately 225 Upland High School students to participate in the Second Annual Invitational Honolulu Music Festival won board approval despite an administrative recommendation that the request be denied.

Band director Al Warren said symphony, jazz and marching bands, the drill team, banner and flag groups and bagpipes would compete, with the students and some 20 adult chaperones paying their own way.

Dirksen's objectives were that the students, away April 29 to May 6, would lose five days of schooling, that fund-raising events would have a "material effect on the campus and the community" and that opportunities for such a trip were not available to the student body in general.

The board authorized the Ontario Eastern Little League Inc. to build a large playing field and a parking area in the northwest corner of the Valley View High School site and, if the organization had the manpower, to develop to smaller fields in the same area.

Board members agreed that the district could contribute financially to the project, through the use of community service monies, to pay engineering fees for site layout and sprinkler system design, and buy materials for the watering and sprinkler system and grass seed and fertilizer.

League president Joe Shirley presented the request. The Navy Seabees had volunteered to do what construction was necessary, he said.

2 Marines trapped, die in mine shaft

TWENTYNINE PALMS (AP) — Help reached a marine trapped in an open mine shaft with a dead companion just after he suffocated from a fire he started to attract attention, authorities said.

Bruce Aurnett, a deputy San Bernardino County coroner, said Monday that plumes of smoke from the fire started by Cpl. David Lumpkins, 22, helped rescuers to locate him. But they got there too late, he noted.

Authorities said rescuers had reached the mouth of the 50-foot-deep mine shaft about five miles southeast of here and had established voice contact with Lumpkins before he suffocated.

Lumpkins, and his 21-year-old companion, Cpl. Jeff Nober, had been the object of an intensive search ever since failing to return Friday from a target shooting trip. Authorities said they must have accidentally driven their Land Rover into one of many open mine shafts in the Pinto Mountains.

Coroner's deputies said Nober probably died in the shaft Saturday. On Monday, they said, Lumpkins set fire to one of the vehicle's tires in the hopes of getting help.

Alta Loma to air budget for elementary schools

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Aug. 2 is the date set by trustees for a public hearing on the $3.2 million Alta Loma Elementary School District budget — up 12 per cent over last year but reflecting a slight tax reduction.

Trustees approved preliminary budget figures at Monday night's meeting setting Aug. 2 as the date for public comment on the budget which increased $394,838 over the 1975-76 budget of $2.7 million.

In other action, trustees:

—Submitted a counterproposal to teacher representatives under the new state-dictated collective bargaining edict.

—Set Friday as a date for Supt. Floyd Stork to begin negotiations with teachers for a 1976-77 union contract.

—Set a tentative date of late September or early October for a bond sale to cover costs of a new addition to Jasper School.

Stork said the new budget reflects inflation and a housing boom in the district which is dumping scores of new students into classrooms.

But, according to preliminary budget figures, the tax rate should drop a penny per $100 assessed valuation due to increased assessment figures, Stork said. However, the superintendent said, the final tax rate could drop as much as three cents or increase that much depending on several variables including teacher wage and fringe benefit demands.

The trustees' counterproposal to teacher union representatives at the meeting covered 12 pages — condensed from the 96-page document of demands given the board by teachers last month. Precise pay hike and fringe benefit demands have not been discussed yet by either the board or teacher union representatives.

That aspect of negotiations is expected to begin Friday when Stork, as a representative of the board, meets with teacher union negotiators in a closed door session at Alta Loma Junior High School.

Trustees must act by the next scheduled meeting Aug. 2 to qualify the district for a bond sale of $690,000 in late September or early October. Such a sale would bring the district back to its legal bonding limit qualifying it for state school construction loans.

These bond-state loan funds amounting to $8.1 million, were approved by voters three months ago.

They are needed to build an addition to Jasper School doubling its size; buy the site and build the new Floyd Stork School in the district's northwest quadrant where much home building is underway; and construct still another school at a as yet designated site within three years, plus additions to the present junior high school.

He said street walking but meant something else

"There'll be a lot of street walking in the vicinity of our new school," Supt. Floyd Stork of Alta Loma Elementary School District told momentarily astonished school board members.

The slip of the tongue came at Monday night's board meeting.

Stork was explaining how the district is attempting to locate the school at the dead end of Jasper Street which would eliminate through traffic by the school.

"This will be beneficial since there'll be a lot of street walking in the vicinity," Stork said.

What Stork was attempting to say was that most new homes in the vicinity of the proposed school do not have sidewalks, forcing students who walk to school to use streets.

"Do you know what you said?" trustee Earle Anderson said.

"No," Stork replied.

Anderson briefly outlined the difference between street walkers and children who walk to school in the streets.

"Lete me reword that last bit," Stork said with a smile.

Students banned from activities during alert

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Students in the Los Angeles city school system have been banned from participating in physical education classes and outdoor interscholastic athletic events during stage-one smog health alerts.

The Board of Education approved the ban by a 6-1 vote Monday night amid rising pressure from groups demanding that the district take action to protect the health of students during the smog alerts.

Some 57 stage-one alerts were called on school days during a 20-month period in 1974 and 1975. Such alerts are issued when the ozone count reaches .20 parts per million of air. The new policy will go into effect when fall classes open Sept. 14.

It requires school authorities to interrupt any "strenuous or vigorous outdoor activities that tend to increase the respiratory rate" as soon as a stage-one alert goes into effect.

Groups urging such a policy included Stamp Out Smog, a citizen's group; the Los Angeles County and California Lung Associations, and the Southern California Air Pollution Control District.

However, board member Howard Miller said the ban would probably not affect most outdoor interscholastic athletics, which usually start in midafternoon when smog levels have begun to diminish.

Most school districts in the country already have issued similar bans or other restrictions on physical activities during smog alerts.

Under the board's previous policy, only students with special health problems were prevented from participating in outdoor physical activities during stage-one alerts.

The board will continue its existing policy of prohibiting all physical activities by students during stage-two smog alerts. A stage-two alert is than $608,000 for two Orange County hospitals.

City to honor him

Hijack bus driver is center of attention

CHOWCHILLA (AP) — When he pulled out of the Dairyland Unified School parking lot Thursday he was "reliable" Ed Ray. The man who'd been driving the school bus for 26 years. The man the kids all liked and the parents trusted.

When he returned 36 hours later, he was the same Ed Ray. But now he had a wildly improbable story to tell that assured him headlines around the country.

Newsmen from as far off as London dickered with Chowchilla police early Saturday morning when Ray and the kidnaped children returned from their mysterious ordeal.

After his news conference, Ray's version of the kidnaping and escape was published word for word on the front pages of many major newspapers.

A few days later, a national circulation magazine got Ray and his grandchildren to pose for exclusive pictures in the Chowchilla police station and then hustled Ray off in their car, fending off other news photographers.

Chowchilla Mayor Jim Dumas planned an Edward Ray Day. And then the mayor decided he would start an Edward Ray Scholarship Fund to boot.

To the 4,500 citizens of small, flat, rural Chowchilla, all this couldn't have happened to a nicer guy.

When the children were still missing and the mystery hit the citizens of Chowchilla with full force, two things were certain: Ray wasn't involved in any wrongdoing, and if anyone could keep those children in line during the ordeal, it was Ed Ray.

But was he the real hero?

"No," says Ed Ray. "Everyone says so. But I was just doing my best to get the kids and myself out of there."

According to Darla Daniels, one of the children on the bus, the real hero was not Ray but Mike Marshall, a husky 14-year-old.

"Mr. Ray was lying down praying and Mike opened a steel hatch weighted with heavy batteries, half way." Ray came to his aid, piling mattress for a working platform and then supporting the youngster on his broad shoulders for five hours as Marshall dug his way out.

Trial delayed in case of slain prof

The murder trial of Arizona teenager Richard Sinnott, charged with slaying a Cal Poly professor in the professor's Diamond Bar apartment Oct. 20 of last year, has been continued to Aug. 3.

The continuance was granted by Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain because Sinnot's attorney, Deputy Public Defender Robert Doddy, is involved in another trial.

Sinnott, 17, of Tempe, was returned from his home Oct. 30 by Los Angeles County sheriff's deputies who accused him of beating William C. Warner to death. Warner, 53, was an associate professor of urban planning at the college.

Solar heat is topic

Heating engineer Craig Adleman will discuss the future of solar heating when he addresses members of the La Verne Rotary Club Thursday noon at the Castaway Restaurant in Pomona.

Craig is presently supervising the installation of a solar heating system in West Covina.

Upland Inn, ruined by blaze, will be rebuilt within year

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

A demolition firm will remove the fire-damaged Upland Inn within two weeks and the inn will be rebuilt.

Barbara Vallon, an owner of the restaurant at 123 E. Ninth St., which was gutted by fire April 1, made this report to the Upland City Council Monday night.

In view of Mrs. Vallon's report, the council voted to continue until its Aug. 2 meeting a hearing on the abatement of the building as a nuisance.

After the meeting, Mrs. Vallon said that the inn would be rebuilt. She estimated that it will take about a year to have it back into operation.

Her insurance company has retained the demolition firm, Mrs. Vallon said.

Meanwhile, the construction of a 10-court handball-racquetball club and spa in Upland was approved by the council.

The council granted a conditional use permit for the construction of the Foothill Court Club on one acre of a five-care plot on Mountain Avenue south of Foothill Boulevard.

According to club President Gary Hofmann of San Diego, the club "will be a combination public and private facility" with a lounge, areas for competition viewing, locker and shower rooms and a sauna. It will be open to men and women.

The two-story building will be set back from Mountain Avenue near the end of Golden Rain Street but will not have access to the street which ends in a clu de sac.

A landscaped parking lot for 66 cars will be entered from Mountain Avenue. When the entire area is developed there will also be traffic flow to Foothill Boulevard.

Councilman Hal Bailin expressed concern over traffic flow onto Mountain Avenue and asked the City Engineering office to check this.

A conditional use permit was granted to Gwendolyn Chap for the operation of a guest house for 26 senior citizens in a former hospital on two lots at the corner of Ninth Street and Euclid Avenue.

This site had recently been proposed as a residential facility for juvenile girls which had faced strong opposition from residents of the area.

While two residents of nearby homes expressed approval of the permit for a guest home, council members questioned the safety of the building in case of fire.

The new owner has agreed to make a number of required corrections noted by the city's Building Department and fire inspectors as a condition for granting the permit.

A public hearing into the abatement of a dangerous building at 1418 Bowen St. was held over when Bob Sullivan, Building Department director, stated that the city has, to date, been unable to contact the owner of the home.

The council also denied a request by Winchell's Donut Shop to override a denial of the Planning Commission for a nonconforming sign permit in the Upland Square Shopping Center. There appeared to be confusion on several points, so the council referred the appeal to the City Attorney's Office and the Architectural Commission.

Claremont School District

Ethnic project eyed for nonteaching staff

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

The Claremont school board Monday night decided that, if possible, classified as well as certificated employes at five district schools should receive in-service training in ethnic awareness this coming school year.

Although the district has three schools — Vista, San Antonio High and Oakmont — which have 25 per cent or more students of diverse ethnic backgrounds and qualify for in-service training, the board felt that Mountain View and El Roble schools also should be included, if possible.

Margaret Hodder, assistant superintendent for instructional services, explained that the state law says that the in-service training should be designed to prepare teachers and other professional school service personnel to understand and relate effectively to the history, culture and current problems of such students and their environments.

Mrs. Hodder said that the goal of the program would be that all certificated staff assigned to those schools should participate in at least 30 hours of in-service training.

Beginning in September, the board will seek volunteers to serve on a planning committee to advise the administration in the development of such a training program.

Six or more of the 11 members on the committee should be representative of the minority groups in the district, Mrs. Hodder explained.

Board member Bob Stafford said that everyone in the district should be exposed to such a program, but suggested the district start with the three schools where minority enrollments are highest.

Board member Joseph Hough said he thought every staff member could be trained within the next two or three years.

He said he would like to implement the planning committee before the board sets up a larger district advisory committee, as proposed by the Claremont League of Women Voters.

Board member Mary Ellen Kilsby said she would like to include all schools in the training program.

Board member Marilyn Tipping said she would include Mountain View and El Roble this year.

Mountain View teacher Cris Ulrich noted that her school has 18 per cent minority, and that she feels she would profit from such training.

After a discussion the board agreed that classified employes should be included.

Hough asked that the names of prospective committee members be submitted to the board for consultation.

Judy Wright, League of Women Voters, said that her group would be glad to recommend names.

Camp openings

Openings are still available for a week of summer camp in the San Bernardino Mountains sponsored by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

The camp, to be held July 24 to July 31, is for youths from 8 to 13. The camp, Ta Ta Pochon, is located near Barton Flats. Cost is $66.50 for YMCA members and $74.50 for non-members.

For information, persons may call 623-6433.

Argentine guerrilla chief killed

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Army troops killed Argentina's most-wanted guerrilla, Roberto Santucho, and his second in command, police sources reported.

Intelligence officials said the slaying Monday night of Santucho and Enrique Gorriaran Merlo might be a death blow to their Marxist People's Revolutionary Army (ERP), considered the more important of the two leftist guerrilla organizations at war with the government.

Security forces killed Juan N. Carrizo, the fourth man in the ERP high command, earlier this month and captured a number of records and documents of the organization. The ERP's third in command, Domingo Mena, is still at large.

Santucho, a 42-year-old former accountant, was the founder of the ERP and was also reputed to head a center for international terrorism in Paris.

He and Gorriaran Merlo, 34, were reported killed when troops stormed an ERP hideout just north of Buenos Aires. Other guerrillas and two army officers reportedly died in the attack.

Girl, 3, survives 5 days locked in home after mother dies

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — A 3-year-old girl survived five days locked in a mobile home after her mother died. She tried to feed her baby sister, but the infant died of dehydration, police say.

Michelle Lynn Percifield told authorities she lived on milk and other food she found in the refrigerator after her mother died sometime last Wednesday.

Joyce Marie Percifield, 28, a divorcee, apparently fell out of bed while taking a nap, officials said Monday after piecing together the child's account. Monroe County Coroner Dr. Charles Ellis said that although there were no signs of foul play on the woman's body, he was unable to determine the exact cause of death.

According to pathologist John Pless, the 4-month-old baby, Angel Marie, probably died Saturday of dehydration. Michelle said she tried to feed her baby sister food from the refrigerator.

The deaths were discovered Sunday when relatives tried to visit the Percifields.

Neighbors in Heatherwood Mobile Home Park told investigators they did not see or hear anything unusual during the five days and the women's car was parked in its regular spot.

Michelle was taken to Bloomington Hospital for examination and later released to the care of her grandmother.

Reading matter

Originally a magazine was a storehouse, not a periodical. "The Gentleman's Magazine," introduced to the public in 1731, was the first publication to use the word in its new meaning, stating in its introduction that the publication was intended to "store up" a collection of various subjects, "as in a magazine."

You're Never Too Old To Hear Better

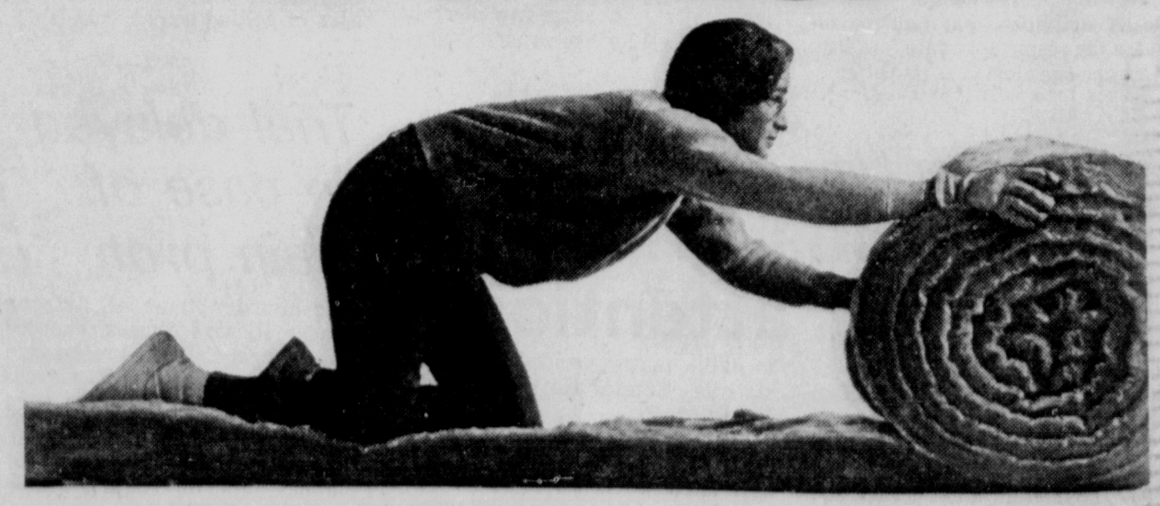
Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

Send for this non-operating model to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

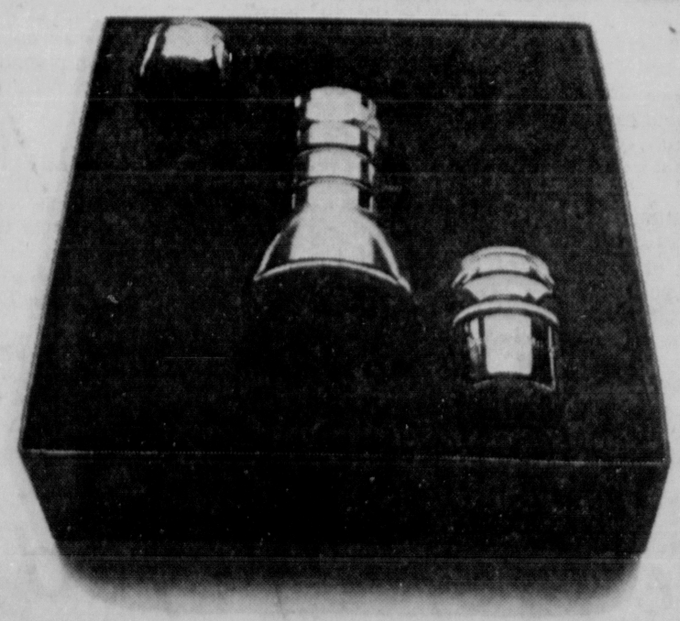
These models are free, so write for yours now. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 2796, Beltone Electronics Corp., 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Illinois 60646.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA GAS COMPANY

Do this.



Get this free.



The person in the picture is installing R-19 whole house insulation in his attic. It's a very smart way to spend a Saturday afternoon.

For one thing, he'll keep his house warm and cozy during the cold winter months. And reduce the amount of gas he uses for heating by up to 20%.

When summer rolls around, insulation will help keep the heat out. And, if he has air conditioning, insulation can help him save on cooling costs, too. He'll also save on the cost of installation. Simply by doing it himself.

But he's even smarter than you think. Because just for installing insulation, the Gas Company is giving him a free water saver kit. It includes an energy-saving shower head and two sink faucet aerators. All three are designed to save hot water and still give an excellent water spray.

If you'd like to find yourself in this person's position, visit a participating Do-It-Yourself Insulation Dealer. He'll explain how easy it is to get the job done. And get your free water saver kit.

So don't wait. Insulate. Spend a few hours fighting the energy crisis.

Then shower yourself with our gift.

DON'T WAIT. INSULATE.

A.E. NORTON

Norton new Red Cross chairman

The new chairman of the Claremont Red Cross sees emergency preparedness as a main thrust of the chapter's program during the next year.

"We've got to be ready and know what to do when natural disasters such as earthquakes, floods or fires trike," chairman A.E. "Bill" Norton said this week.

A native Pomonan, Norton served as chapter treasurer last year and his new post is another responsibility on a long list of civic activities.

Long active in a preparedness program for the city, Norton headed a procedures and security section for Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association before he retired.

As an assistant vice president, Norton was responsible for the departments of security, safety, emergency and disaster preparedness.

He expects an expansion of the chapter's blood program through publicity and more intensive enlistment of volunteers.

"The past year students at San Antonio High conducted their first bloodmobile with great success," he said. "We would like to see more programs like that through the colleges and the churches."

Norton said that first aid and multi-media programs will be more developed.

"Our Vietnamese program has developed well. I hope to see it continue," Norton commented.

Dog license fees are due by July 31

Dog license fees are due no later than July 31 at the Pomona Valley Humane Society, Bruce Richards, director, announced.

The Humane Society serves the communities of Pomona, Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas.

Fees paid after the deadline will be subject to an additional penalty fee. Persons who do not license their dog will be subject to a citation and fine.

Cost of licenses are $4 for spayed or neutered dogs, which must be proved with a certificate, and $8 for unaltered dogs.

The Humane Society's shelter in Pomona is located at 500 Humane Way, which is just north of Mission Boulevard about one-half mile west of the Corona Expressway.

For information, persons may call the Humane Society at 623-9777.

Big water

The California legislature named a large lake on the California-Nevada Border Lake Bigler, in honor of Gov. William Bigler (1814-1880), but the people ignored the official name and continued to call it Lake Tahoe, an Indian term meaning "big water."

What's going on around here

GUIDANCE CLINIC — The Scott Clinic, a family guidance center, in West Covina has scheduled five Thursday evening meetings dealing with help for the child with learning and behavorial problems.

The lectures Thursday and on July 29, Aug. 5, 12 and 19 will be from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Maxson Medical Building, 933 S. Sunset Ave., West Covina.

The program is designed to assist parents and concerned adults in improving and understanding adult-child relationships. The program will build skills for effective interpersonal relationships.

The discussion leader is Mary McConahay, a licensed educational psychologist and family counselor.

Registrations may be made by calling (213) 963-2163.

TOASTMASTER AWARDS .. "Lost Treasure" was the title of the speech which won Wilson Gillingwaters the best speaker of the week award at Pomona Toastmasters Club 12 meeting July 12 at Griswold's Restaurant in Claremont.

Don Remer was voted most improved speaker. Bob Haage was spark plug winner and best table topic speaker. Best evaluator was Bob Messmer.

The club is conducting a membership drive and has as a goal one new member per month for the next six months.

YMCA DAY CAMP — Youths from 5 to 12 may still sign up for summer day camp sponsored by the Pomona Valley YMCA.

Five one-week sessions of day camp remain, beginning each Monday through Aug. 16. Cost per week is $12.50 for YMCA members and $17.50 for non-members. Lunches are included.

Daily hours are 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with such activities as swimming, hiking, games, crafts, and trips to the beach.

Also available are extended hours for working parents, with supervision of children available from 7:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. at a cost of $20 per week for YMCA members and $25 for non-members.

FOLK DANCING — An evening of Balkan and European folk dancing, including a one-hour instruction period, will be presented Saturday, July 24, from 8 to 11:30 p.m. at Washington Park in Pomona.

The program is sponsored by the Pomona Parks and Recreation Department and the Covina Valley Folk Dancers.

Archaeology is the scientific study of the remains of past civilizations, or ways of life. "Archaeology" comes from two Greek words that have the meanings "old" and "study."

The earliest civilizations did not leave written records of their history and customs.

Wherever men have lived, however, they have left evidence of their existence — bits of pottery, tools and coins, or the remains of ancient buildings.

An archaeologist is like a detective. By collecting and studying these clues he is able to tell us much about how people lived and worked long ago.

Some archaeological sites are easy to find, because they lie above ground. But most often the site is buried below the surface and must be carefully excavated (dug up).

The archaeologist may rely on old maps, ancient writings and legend to give him hints and some facts as to where to look for remains of ancient civilizations.

Here's wonderful news! A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

PEANUTS

Sir, the kid behind me keeps calling me names . . .

Point him out to me when we get to camp, Marcie, and I'll shorten his life span!

That's okay, sir . . . I already hit him . . . Maybe he's hurt . . . do you have a first aid kit?

That's what I hit him with!

6 valleyites named to DMV panel

Six valley residents have been appointed to the Department of Motor Vehicles "Backseat Driver" public panel in the Pomona office, Manager L.F. Souders announced today.

The Pomona office serves the communities of Pomona, Claremont, Montclair, San Dimas, La Verne, Chino, Walnut, Diamond Bar and Rowland Heights.

The newly appointed members are Cassaundra Fairman, Kathy Johnston, Maynard Lenhert, John Muter, Myron Shrago and Martha Wellington.

Miss Fairman resides in Pomona. She is a student at Mt. San Antonio College, where she is majoring in sociology.

Mrs. Johnston, also a resident of Pomona, is active in the Church at Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and serves as school advisory chairman for the School Advisory Council of Kellogg School in Pomona.

Lenhert, a resident of Montclair, is a driving instructor for the General Telephone Co. and is active in the American Red Cross and National Safety Council. In addition he has served 20 years as a reserve police officer.

Muter is a resident of Claremont and an insurance salesman for Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Shrago, of Pomona, is an auto dismantler. He is past president of Inland Auto Dismantler Board and Ontario-Oiniba Bnai Brith and an active member of the Rotary Club of Ontario, Masonic bodies and National Conference of Christian and Jews.

Mrs. Wellington, of San Dimas, is retired and works part time as in interviewer and store auditor. She has been in public relations most of her life.

Formation of the Backseat Driver panel is part of a statewide program announced last month by DMV Director Herman Sillas to involve the public in government "by providing a forum through which local residents can convey their community's concerns to the department."

The citizen group will provide suggestions into departmental policies and programs at both the local and state levels.

While the panelists will receive no remuneration for their services, Souders said that it is expected they will achieve satisfaction for having played a role in making the bureaucracy more responsive to their community.

Also serving as DMV resource personnel to the panel will be investigator Bob Poling, Claremont, with expertise in consumer protection, and driver improvement analyst John Walker, Pomona, who works in the department's traffic safety program.

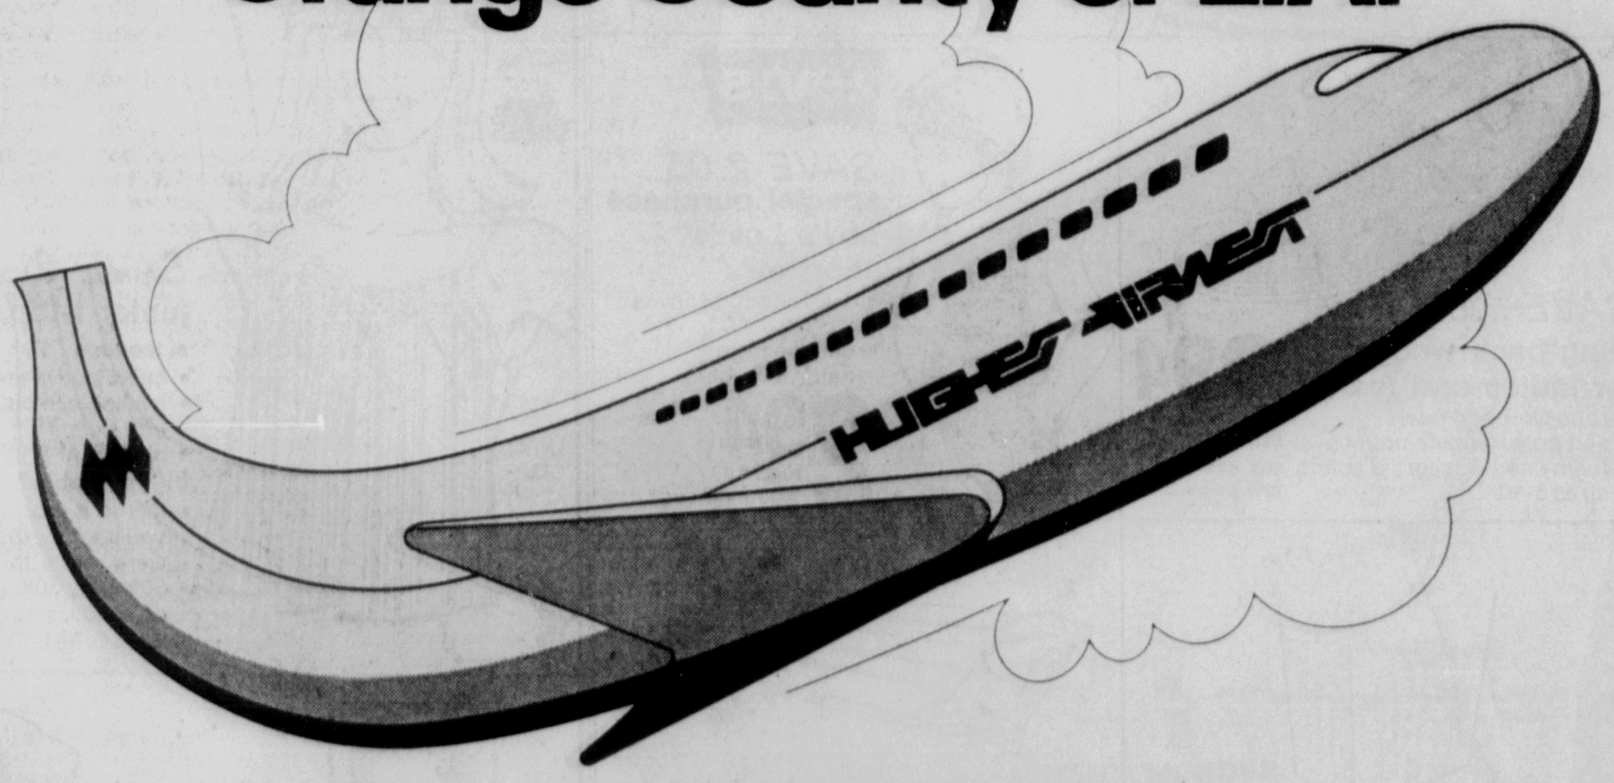
Hughes Airwest goes all out to Salt Lake City from Orange County or L.A.



And it's about time somebody did.

That's why on our new non-stop flights to Salt Lake we have Top Banana Service—going and coming.

When you check in for our morning non-stop at Santa Ana we give you coffee and other hot beverages. And a free morning newspaper. After takeoff, you get steak and eggs for breakfast.

When you fly out of L.A. International you get steak and eggs on our breakfast flights. On our lunch flight, hot soup and a sandwich. Our dinner menu varies. Depending on when you fly, you could have Rock Cornish game hen. Stuffed pork loin. Or steak.

And your trip will be a comfortable one—our jets have as much leg room as anybody going to Salt Lake. So stretch out and relax.

If you are heading to Montana or Wyoming, our schedule from L.A. International makes it convenient for you to make your connecting flights in Salt Lake City.

When you put it all together, that's Top Banana Service. And that's the way we want it. Because when you fly the Top Banana—you're the Top Banana.

Call a Travel Agent or Hughes Airwest. And remember, wherever you go in the West, fly Hughes Airwest. Because Hughes Airwest flies to more places in the West, Canada, and Mexico than anybody.

Hughes Airwest. Top Banana in the West.

L.V. passes plan to regulate growth

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

A growth management plan that calls for the construction of no more than 2,000 homes over the next five years was adopted Monday night by the La Verne City Council — but not without some casualties.

Julie Stewart, chairman of the City's Commission on Environmental Quality for the past two years and a member of CEQ since its inception five years ago, resigned in protest.

She told the council "We'll surely lose La Verne if we grow that fast."

And Gerald Borges, newly elected chairman of the Planning Commission, charged that the council in approving the plan, was charting a growth for the next five years that was twice as fast as the growth during the past half decade.

The plan itslef was a compromise nobody seemed to like. Its approval came on the heels of three unseconded motions for the adoption of other proposals.

As finally adopted by the council 4-1, with Councilman Robert Neher dissenting, the growth plan directed the staff to provide guidelines for the next five years on how it would handle the additional homes in terms of police and fire services, parks, sewer and water facilities.

City Manager George Caswell told the council that the five-year plan would have to fluctuate from year to year to allow for unexpected contingencies. The plan, as directed by the council, sets the ultimate population of the city at 32,000 to 1990, up 14,000 from the present count.

The growth management plan is the outgrowth of studies conducted independently since last April by Councilmen Melvin Belcher and Allan Mackay as well as the Planning Commission, Parks and Recreation Commission and the CEQ.

The plans were triggered off by reports that La Verne was becoming the fastest growing city in Los Angeles County. Planning director Charles Le Gros recently disclosed that more than 1,500 single family lots have been approved by his department the past 2½ years.

The growth plans as submitted to the city ranged from a maximum of 4,100 units over the next 20 years, advocated by CEQ to 4,625 suggested by Mackay over the next 15 years.

Councilman Frank Johnson suggested that no numbers be used because "economic conditions would serve as better and more up-to-date guidelines than setting quotas."

He and Mayor Mike M. Morales felt that the guidelines, instead, should be based on how well the city could serve the additional residents.

But Neher was concerned with the influx of an unprecedented number of tentative maps calling for approval of subdivisions in the near future, and sought some limits on those to be approved.

Mrs. Stewart tried several times during the discussion to win the council over to her point of view. When she was unable to do so, she announced that she was resigning.

Developer Dan Murray told the council that the city's anticipated growth was not likely to continue for long. He said the building boom in the city was the result of improved financial conditions.

"When we get money, we build; when we don't get money, we don't," he told the council. "Maybe you'll hit 400 units this year, and maybe 400 next year. But after that no one can say."

He as well as developer Everett Hughes contended that there really was no need for growth management in the city. They felt economic conditions would act as a brake.

Chino school board approves budget, reduction in taxes

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A $16.3 million publication budget reflecting a 15-cent drop in the general purpose tax rate was approved by the Chino school board Monday night.

Trustees had rejected an administrative recommendation last month to increase the tax rate, and instead ordered a cut of about 19 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

By law, the new appointee cannot take his seat for 30 days to allow time for citizens wishing to petition the board for a special election. If petitions are presented, it may declare the appointment invalid.

Only a 15-cent drop was possible, administrators explained, because of revised assessed valuation figures, reducing anticipated state aid. The $4.1395 general purpose rate is reduced from $4.2922.

The assessed valuation will increase 18.8 per cent instead of the earlier estimate of only 10 per cent, said Al Searfoss, assistant superintendent for business. That results in $70,592 in increased income and a four-cent hike in the "local tax rate."

In order to reduce the general purpose tax rate by 15 cents, administrators trimmed $274,446 from expenditures in the tentative budget. Of that, $119,551 was in the area of teacher salaries which will be computed differently for certain positions. Other areas cut were utilities, office machines, operations, transportation, and capital outlay.

Adult education, release time for elementary vice principals, a continuation high school program, and a proposed nurses clinic were other items chopped from the budget.

Searfoss said recently-passed state legislation will provide the district with $593,935 in new income. Thus, added spending is recommended for inclusion in the final budget to be adopted on Aug. 3.

About $316,000 would be spent for various areas such as reading, curriculum development, supplies, buses and equipment.

Also, another 14-cent reduction in the tax rate is recommended, bringing a final general purpose rate to $4. The total tax rate which includes bond payments would be $4.84.

Reserves in the $16,344,667 publication budget now stand at $1,574,652.

No salary increases for teachers are included in the budget yet. Teachers will be negotiating soon for raises and a master contract under the new state collective bargaining law.

PAUL PETERSON

No 'Kotter' fan

Advocate of basics gets Chino post

Paul Peterson, a Cal Poly professor who feels the television show "Welcome Back Kotter" is an "insult to education," was appointed to the Chino school board Monday night.

Trustees selected Peterson from a field of eight candidates who had been interviewed publicly last week. On a unanimous vote, he was picked to fill the seat vacated by Roy Ward on June 22.

By law, Peterson cannot take his seat for 30 days, to allow citizens an opportunity to petition the board for a special election. If the petitions are presented, it could invalidate the appointment.

The 39-year-old Peterson, an advocate of fundamental education, was the first choice of Citizens for Improved Education (CIE) for the vacant seat.

A spokeswoman for CIE, a profundamental and anti-year-round school group, indicated she favored Peterson over Patrick Hooven, despite the fact Hooven was backed by the organization in the March 1975 election.

Peterson said he had made "no commitments" to CIE or other groups. He admitted, however, that he was one of the original members of CIE.

Peterson, the coordinator of agricultural education at Cal Poly Pomona, is the father of five children. He says he is opposed to constant television watching which takes away educational reading time from youngsters. "Welcome Back Kotter," a show about a teacher with innovative ideas, is "the exact reverse of what good education should be," he emphasized.

Peterson favors basic education stressing reading, writing and arithmetic.

Board member Pete Vander Poel made the motion to name Peterson. He said at first he wanted to call for an election rather than appointing anyone, because he felt the appointment would be challenged.

"But the board needed to appoint a fifth member," he noted. "In reviewing the candidates it came down to four or five equally qualified persons. I then narrowed it down to one with a dynamic personality who was deserving and had integrity.

"He (Peterson) reflected my own philosophy of the strong family structure."

Trustee Augustine Tapia said he changed his mind "three or four times" on the appointment, but now agreed with Vander Poel.

Lyle Briggs, another board member, said "I have to agree on this wholeheartedly. I've known him for a while. Dr. Peterson is a very honest person."

Hooven, who lost a tie breaker drawing for a board seat in March 1975, had vowed to challenge the appointment of anyone other than himself. But after Peterson was named, Hooven said he was "undecided" on whether to petition for a special election.

During the meeting Monday, he congratulated the board for "open, honest interviews" of the candidates in public. But later, he charged the final decision was made with "preconceived ideas. And that's against the law."

Pomona staff proposal rebuffed

Strains showing between city, library over cuts

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Strained relations between the city staff and Pomona Public Library's board of trustees were evident Monday night as a board spokesman rejected a staff proposal for combining city-library printing services.

Board member Ralph E. Bayer, speaking on behalf of the board, told the Pomona City Council that the staff's projections of savings in the plan were incorrect and that loss of the library's independent printing operation would "downgrade the library's capabilities."

Describing the staff study as "beautiful and expensive," Bayer claimed that whatever benefits might exist in the plan were stacked in the city's favor, not the library's.

The report, presented to the council by Bob Norquist, director of management systems for the city, indicates that the separate printing operations at City Hall and in the library currently require six full parttime employes, while a combined operation would need only five workers.

Norquist estimated the city could save about $14,000 per year by combing the operations, plus $4,000 by selling the library's printing press.

Between Bayer's sarcasm about the study and the admitted lack of communication between the board and city staff, the council found itself forced to postpone any decision on the matter.

The conflict over the report is only the latest example of the chilled relationship between the city staff on one side and the library staff and library board on the other.

With cost reductions uppermost in the priorities of the city staff and City Council, the library during the past year has seen its workforce reduced by attrition, its operating hours cut severely and a proposal for a tax rate increase denied.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa called the lack of communication between the two groups "appalling."

The council directed the city staff and library staff to reanalyze the report and bring it back before the council in two weeks.

In other business Monday night Joe Gendron, president of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce, gave the City Council a progress report on the "Discover Pomona Campaign."

Gendron said the campaign, jointly sponsored by the city, Pomona School District and chamber, during the past five months "has done a very fine job of improving the image of Pomona."

He said the campaign, which has included radio and newspaper advertisements, plus newsletters and special programs, would continue for another five months and that plans "for continuing the good work" were already forming.

A group of new appointees to the city's commissions were sworn into office, including June M. Hyman and Nancy L. Lopez to the Cultural Arts Commission; Sheldon Nicholas to the Redevelopment Commission; Beth Page to the Library Board; and David E. Bess, William M. Gary, Jean M. Hill and David Whitaker to the Planning Commission.

Several other commissioners were administered the oath for a new term.

Boating mishap victim critical

Scott A. Poet, the 20-year-old Pomonan injured in a boating mishap Sunday, remained in critical condition today after surgery at County-USC Medical Center while sheriff's deputies attempted to determine exactly how he was injured.

Poet originally was reported to have been run over by an another ski boat after he fell from his skis while waterskiing at Puddingstone Lake. But investigators have not ruled out the possibility that he may have been run over by his own boat although its crew, the driver and spotter, said that did not happen.

Deputies said there were 193 boats using the lake that day and tracing them is a difficult and time-consuming task.

Investigators added that they really do not know how Poet was injured.

Meanwhile, they have asked for the public's assistance in locating a white outboard ski boat which was loaded on a trailer and driven away shortly after the incident. It may have been involved in the mishap, deputies said.

Chino Hills tract reduced once more

San Bernardino County supervisors Monday reduced the number of homes that Kent Land Co. can build on its Chino Hills development.

Supervisors approved only 415 homes on the 166 acres located south of Glenmeade and near Pipe Line Avenue.

The developer had previously sought to build 500 homes in the project but the county Planning Commission reduced the scope to 461 homes.

In approving the tract, supervisors agreed the developer must build an extension of Peyton Drive from Carbon Canyon Road to Soquel Canyon.

The developer will be responsible for that section of road within his project and will be reimbursed by other developers as the area served by the new road is developed.

Supervisor Robert Townsend said the Kent Land Co. development is divided into five tracts. The density limit for all five tracts will be 2.5 homes per acre, with all the home sites having a minimum usable lot area of 7,200 square feet, he added.

In addition, the lots will have a minimum average width of 75 feet and depth of 120 feet. These minimum averages are hoped to give the builder a flexibility to construct different types of houses, said Townsend.

The supervisors also directed the developer to maintain two existing wooded areas and develop an equestrian trail to connect with an existing riding area established for horses. These will be maintained by the county service district.

The developer will also be responsible for obtaining a letter indicating available sewer capacity before each tract can be recorded, said Townsend.

The supervisors' action partially satisfied the Glenridge Hills Homeowners Association which complained the developer was designing the tracts without regard to hill contours and in a way that would completely destroy the area's rural scenery.

Prior to Monday's board meeting, Townsend had taken Supervisors Dan Mikesell and James Mayfield on a tour of the area. The board's vote was unanimous in the revised project approval.

Truck burns on Pomona Freeway

A truck loaded with asphalt shingles burned alongside the Pomona Freeway in Pomona Monday, but the driver escaped uninjured.

According to firemen, the operator of the rented one-ton truck, Frederick Herrick, 28, of Van Nuys, was eastbound on the freeway west of Dudley Avenue when a gas leak was apparently ignited by the truck's muffler.

The fire sent a huge column of black smoke into the air as fire units from Pomona and Los Angeles County responded to the scene.

Herrick managed to pull the truck safely off the freeway lanes before fleeing the vehicle and freeway traffic was not stopped.

Firemen said the truck was a total loss.

Montclair approves $12,000 study of commercial parcels

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A $12,000 program aimed at bringing development on four commercial parcels was narrowly approved by the Montclair City Council Monday night.

The marginal vote to authorize the expenditure of federal Community Development Act funds for a contract with Municipal Services Inc. swung to the support side when Councilman Nelson Gentry decided to "put faith in the community development director Mike Loehr."

Loehr, CDA coordinator Lee McDougal and City Administrator Lauren Wasserman presented strong arguments supporting the Tustin firm's proposal to study four large vacant commercial parcels at Central Avenue and Arrow Highway, across from City Hall at Benito Street and Fremont Avenue and on the southwest and southeast corners of Holt Boulevard and Central.

Mayor Harold Hayes and Councilman Tom McClure remained opponents to the study, charging that Central Avenue and supplemental commercial developments have been studied and restudied and the main results have been stacks of unused documents.

McDougal defined the contract's purpose as identifying "development possibilities and viable land uses in order to strengthen the economic potential of the whole area; analyze land prices; evaluate the developments in the best interests of the city and General Plan; test and verify market conditions; provide condensed statistics for future use; make contact with brokers and developers; and make recommendations to the city on funding and implementation programs."

This final point of providing alternate means of financing is the key to the study, McDougal added, and will create a working document for development of the total area. A staff study of the residential factor will be linked to the MSI information and both will be a triangular effort of the city, Montclair Chamber of Commerce and MSI.

Manuel Dedios and Patrick Barry of MSI pointed out that the cost of commercial land in Montclair is presently prohibitive to development. The study will implement a program to bring together the land owner and developer in order to produce sound commercial development and supplemental residential development and curb the rippling effect of blighted residential areas along Central, they said.

Hayes, however, remained unconvinced, saying that "this is a repetition of what has already been done. We know the problems. It's a question of dollars and cents investment. I only see methodology in your program. What are you going to do that the staff can't do and hasn't done?"

Wasserman replied that the staff does not have the expertise to examine financing possibilities, and the Tustin firm does. This has been the most frequent stumbling block to development in the past, he said.

"The Chamber of Commerce and city have been encouraged to attract development to our town," Loehr said. "In order to do that we must have the latest and most effective tools. We have no tools as a city to go to the developer and say we can make it work."

Councilman Paul Jones said: "This is not a study as we think of studies. It's a cooperative plan of action between the city and chamber to come up with exact formulas for development. I hate to see it being torn down."

Councilman Ernest Rowley explained his support vote, noting that "this should or could be the tool for eventual development. The primary cost of the land is prohibitive, but if you look at the ways to help develop that land, if that financing can be found, the intrinsic cost of the land will proportionately decrease. That is the job that these consultants will do."

Gentry, who raised some concerns at the beginning of the debate, admitted that his vote had changed at the last minute for passage. The main reason for that change was "the decision to put faith in the community development director Mike Loehr." He said he hoped the results of the study are spelled out in concrete terms that people can understand.

New Upland planning director is approved

Gene William Young, 44, an associate planner in Anaheim since 1972, was approved as Upland planning director by the City Council Monday.

While his appointment is effective Aug. 1, Young is starting his new duties this week. His starting salary is $20,604, slightly less than his annual salary in Anaheim.

He replaces Rod Anderson, who has been the city's only planning director since the position was established Aug. 1, 1964.

Anderson will remain with the city as coordinator of the programs financed by Federal funds under the 1974 Housing and Community Development Act. Anderson will also be charged with seeking federal grants for the city.

Young's duties in Anaheim included heading the city's work in housing and community development. He was senior planner in Buena Park from 1969 to 1972 and served as assistant planner in Anaheim from 1965 to 1969.

Young holds a certificate in planning from UC Irvine and a bachelor's degree from Cal State Long Beach.

He is credited with redrafting Anaheim's zoning code to make it more readable.

Young was selected from some 20 applicants who were chosen for review after resumes from many candidates were received by the city.

At the final selection, Young was one of two candidates interviewed by the City Council.

Pay teachers by the hour?

Reports that organized teacher groups in the valley are proposing overtime pay for attendance at PTA meetings and other after-school activities do not come as any great surprise. Other working condition demands can be anticipated now that the teachers have collective bargaining rights similar to any other craft union.

However, we are unable to reconcile the proposal for overtime pay with the manner in which teachers are presently paid. Overtime pay is historically tied to the hourly rated employe, while teachers are salaried.

Perhaps school districts have been paying teachers on the wrong basis all this time. Teacher pay based on hourly rates may not be a bad thing, provided the teachers put in for and are paid for hours actually worked.

The placebo of 'House' cleaning

The major payoff for members of the House of Representatives is in the "perks" — the free airplane rides, hotel rooms, special entertainment, honorariums, inside information on money-making opportunities and a variety of assorted service — all from friendly people who hope the Congressman will vote the right way.

There are no reliable figures available but it is likely from informal studies that perhaps a fifth to a fourth of our Representatives take advantage of these extracurricular payoffs. With clear conscience, of course.

There was much talk on Capitol Hill after Watergate of a house cleaning. That talk withered.

The Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) scandal revived the talk with a vengeance. There was enough sex in the story to focus national attention on what Congressmen were doing with tax money. But it appears that this matter may well end, too, with the demotion of Hays, partial emasculation of the Administration Committee and a rechanneling of the route by which expense account funds reach Congressmen. For all the excitement over the Hays-Ray affair, this was peanuts compared with the influence peddling that determines how hundreds of millions, sometimes billions of tax dollars are spent.

There was hope for a time that the combination of Watergate and Hays-Ray might coerce Congress to pass some sort of meaningful bill to make public gifts of value to legislators by lobbyists; and a companion bill to require legislators to report special favors received —

Now it appears that one way or another, both of these bills may be stalled permanently in the House.

Surveys indicate that everyone — almost — is in favor of disclosure.

Then comes a push to introduce amendments which can emasculate disclosure bills past all understanding.

It has been customary to describe opposition to lobbying disclosure bills as coming from big business — and only big business. In matter of fact, Ralph Nader's organization, The Public Citizen, the AFL-CIO, as well as the Chamber of Commerce and a myriad of liberal organizations, conservative and middle of the road, pro-business, anti-business and the rest, all have been in the forefront of the fight against full, detailed disclosure of where lobbying funds come from and where they go.

All wave the flag, except where their own organization is concerned. And all have silent cooperation from a wide range of Congressmen.

As one man working to push the law through put it: "It's hard to tell the white hats from the black hats.

"Our only hope is to somehow get these measures on the floor of the House where most members won't dare vote against for fear of what voters might do to them this November."

But the battle is not being fought on the House floor but rather in committee, where the maneuvering is fast and shifty. A seemingly innocuous amendment is offered here and another one there which, in analysis, would gut the proposals. This means more delays for reconsideration and new maneuvering.

The prospect is that the maneuvering will go on until adjournment. Then the fight will be over for this Congress. By next year, the Hays affair will have gathered dust. Members of the House will be peacefully able to pass cosmetic bills to impress their constituents.

Games not vehicle for politics

Every four years, the Olympic Games capture the spotlight as world athletes compete to set new standards of athletic accomplishment and skill.

Recently, political complications threatened to cancel the Olympics this year at Montreal. The Canadian government at the last minute refused to allow Taiwan to be the official representative of China. For the innocent Olympic athletes and millions of spectators who have patiently awaited — how disgustingly stupid!

The Olympic Games have always managed to be controversial in some respect. Created in 1896, to glorify the Greek ideal of athletic sport and sportsmanship, the Olympics instead are being prostituted by entrepreneurs and social politicking. Jesse Owens, gold medal winner of 1936, said that the Olympic Games are not the proper battleground for social protest or political causes. I wholeheartedly agree. Did the clenched fists by black American athletes in the '68 Olympics eradicate racial injustice and discrimination? Hardly.

In a world plagued by power politics, the Olympic Games are our last acceptable international institution that attempts to foster understanding among the nations of the world. At the Olympics, smaller less known countries can win equal recognition among the superpowers without making war. Until the Ethiopian and Kenyan distance runners won at the '68 and '72 Olympics, who ever heard of the African athlete?

There is no bigger thrill than winning for your country and yourself a gold medal at the Olympic Games. In the proper perspective there is nothing wrong with this. As a former distance runner, I can appreciate the valor, courage and will to win of the Olympic athlete. The Olympic experience lasts for a lifetime.

One can point to numerous wrongs with the Olympic Games. The Olympics however, were never meant to be used as a vehicle for nationalistic politics and commercial extravagance. Realistically, it seems foolish to throw out the baby with the dirty bath water. Yes, the Olympic Games can be better staged and reformed to reflect the true spirit of friendship through sport.

Reagan may have tax dodge

WASHINGTON — President Ford's campaign aides are trying to make a case of tax avoidance against Ronald Reagan. The President's men, searching for material to embarrass Reagan, have asked a law firm to analyze the information he has released about his finances. The tax lawyers concluded, according to a confidential campaign memorandum, that he must be using his children to escape paying full taxes.

The confidential analysis indicates that Reagan's taxable income is "extraordinarily low for a man with his financial background and assets." The lawyers, therefore, believe that Reagan "most likely has a number of irrevocable trusts for his children. In that way, income derived from such trusts would not be reported by Mr. Reagan but would be reported by his children or their tax returns."

A spokesman for Reagan categorically denied that the former California governor has established irrevocable trusts for his children. We called this to the attention of the Ford aides, who were upset that we had obtained their confidential memo.

They acknowledged that they had no "hard evidence" to prove their case against Reagan. But if Reagan isn't hiding income in irrevocable trusts, they said, he must be hiding it somewhere else.

Reagan has only himself to blame for the questions that have been raised about his tax returns. Several months ago, we asked all the major presidential candidates for their income tax returns for the past five years. To avoid future Washington scandals, we contended, the public has the right to know whether presidential aspirants have a clean financial record.

Reagan was the only candidate who refused to open up his tax returns. It would violate his privacy, he said.

A month after our stories appeared, Reagan yielded under the pressure and released some general information about the taxes he had paid from 1970 through 1975. But he combined all his federal, state, property and sales taxes and revealed only the lump sum.

It was impossible to ferret out how much federal income tax Reagan had paid each year. Earlier, a story had leaked out that Reagan paid no state income taxes in 1970, even though his income for the year was $73,000.

"The tax lawyers have noted," states the confidential memo, "that if their understanding of Mr. Reagan's 1970 tax returns is correct, that is, no state taxes paid that year, they believe that . . . he most likely paid no federal taxes because the same tax base is used" to calculate both state and federal taxes.

A spokesman insisted that Reagan had paid "several hundred dollars" in federal taxes in 1970 but refused to specify the exact amount.

TERRORIST TIES: Israel has claimed that Uganda's madcap President Idi Amin enthusiastically cooperated with the pro-Palestinian terrorists who hijacked a French airliner and flew the hostages to his country.

Israeli commandos made a daring, 2,500-mile stab into the jungle, landed at Uganda's Entebbe airport and freed the hostages. The raid has stirred up an international controversy, which culminated in a full-scale United Nations debate.

The irrepressible Idi Amin, meanwhile, has issued plaintive statements, wailing that he had tried to save the hostages and that the Israelis had repaid his kindness by shooting up his soldiers. The available information, according to our intelligence sources, confirms the Israeli account. Here's what our sources have been able to establish:

— The hijackers planned from the start to land in Uganda. They told the hostages their destination, and they took on enough fuel during a stopover in Libya to reach the Uganda airport.

— When the hijacked plane landed on Entebbe, a German terrorist was heard by witnesses to say: "now it is okay. I can see Ugandan soldiers are here."

— In the airport lounge, Ugandan waiters already had food prepared for the hostages. One prisoner asked how so many meals could be prepared so fast. The head waiter laughed and said; "We knew well in advance you were coming."

— Amin personally embraced the terrorists, calling them "My brothers." He loudly proclaimed that he was their frined and that he would liberate all the Palestinian prisoners in Israel.

Ford and Truman

President Ford has made no secret of his abiding admiration for former President Truman. A portrait of Truman dominates the presidential office. Mr. Ford makes frequent references, in public and in private, to the "gutsiness" of his predecessor.

This admiration for a liberal Democrat by a conservative Republican has to relate mostly to the "common man" image which both share. And the historical upset victory of Truman over Dewey in 1948 is right now all that's keeping President Ford's hopes alive.

Many White House staffers are deserting what they consider a sinking ship. We can read the polls just like everybody else," says an official of the Transportation Department.

So Administration insiders are looking for private jobs outside and it is increasingly difficult for the President to recruit outsiders for Administration positions.

The lame-duck syndrome almost emptied the Truman White House in 1948. Then, as now, departments and agencies of the executive branch were vacant, policy decisions stalled, former party faithful were throwing in the towel.

Truman's surprise victory proved a humiliation to the defectors and an encouragement to every underdog since. Another thing: Some of the Washington bureaucracy are offended by the persistent attacks by the candidates on the so-called "Washington Establishment." Even President Ford has made jokes about the inefficiency of government employees. Of course, not all are.

Truman, on the other hand, never allowed himself to be anything less than totally loyal to all who had remained loyal to him. Another dissimilarity between then and now is that Truman was assured his only nomination for the Presidency while Mr. Ford is having to preoccupy himself with the solicitation of convention delegates. Perhaps no incumbent President ever faced a stiffer challenge.

President Ford has made some courageous decisions. When confronted with a choice between political expediency and responsible government he has voted or vetoed in favor of responsible government.

He has rescued the economy from recession without drastic countermeasures. Yet he has somehow failed to inspire the electorate. His audiences come to their feet respectfully but not enthusiastically.

When he has tried to assert his presidentiality — in SALT talks or on Africa or on swine flu — his best intentions seem to drift into difficulty and demise.

President Ford would argue that he inherited a nation in need of policies of moderation, that it was time to take the pressure off, and so he has. And in anything but an election year this "peace and quiet" would be both appropriate and welcome.

I do not know what President Ford will do with these next weeks but I remember what Harry Truman did. Like a feisty terrier yapping at a larger adversary, he whistle-stopped the nation sounding more like a challenger than a Chief Executive.

And the "sympathy vote" tipped the scales.

Just in jest

What would this world do if there were no ghost writers? Without them heads of state and politicians would be virtually inarticulate. Actors could make no scintillating acceptance speeches when they were awarded Oscars. Comedians would be about as humorous as a recorded weather report. And half the college students in the country would never be able to graduate. In fact, the time has now arrived when one wonders not only what this world would do without ghost writers but also how the world hereafter would manage to function. For at least one of those anonymous literary experts is now making a nice living ghost writing sermons for lazy preachers.

Tom Tiede

Oh, say can you sing . . .

NEW YORK (NEA) — Once again the Democratic Convention delegates have survived a participatory rendition of the National Anthem. As Peter Duchin's orchestra provided the music, the delegates passed treacherously but safely through the words. Chords popped out of necks, faces colored — yet according to attending physicians there were no fatalities and only a suspected coronary threat.

Fortunately, just the first stanza was required. There are four verses to the Star Spangled Banner, and the hazards after the first are truly awesome. Just reading the morass is painful:

Oh! Thus be it ever when freemen shall stand
Between their loved home and the war's desolation,
Praise the power that hath made and preserved us a nation.
Then conquer we must, when our cause is just.
And this be our motto, "In God is our Trust."
And the Star Spangled Banner in triumph shall wave
O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

I'm serious. That's verse four. Two and three are best not resurrected. Once a group of Nebraska school children are said to have sung the whole thing, and the dogs in Omaha howled for a week. People who witnessed that phenomenon said the dogs sounded better. One mother commented that whoever wrote the score must have thought fugue was something that went on between the Hatfields and McCoys.

Ah, the Star Spangled Banner. Oh! Say can you sing it? Most people cannot. Robert Goulet once forgot the words at the ringside of a heavyweight boxing championship. Metropolitan Opera basso George London has said the difficulties of the tune "awe me." A minor league baseball executive used to tell his singers to move around the park while singing the anthem, "to present a moving target."

Francis Scott Key, of course, is partly to blame for the matter. A Baltimore attorney, he was on a British warship arranging for the release of a captured friend when Fort McHenry was attacked (in 1814). For the most part, the attack was a minor incident in a minor war, but Key recorded it as an epic poem. Historians believe he fudged a bit; for instance he could not see the flag still waving, because it was wet with rain and because he was too far out in the Patapsco River. Nonetheless, his description caught the fancy of a nation that needed it.

However, it did not become the national anthem until 117 years later, when the nation needed it even more. In 1931, as Depression gripped the people, and as government searched for anything to lift the spirits, a Maryland congressman guided a bill through Congress to make Key's poem the national tune. An old English drinking song of no particular merit was selected as the music, and President Herbert Hoover asked all Americans to sing it as they stood in the soup lines.

Early on, the only criticism of the song came from musicians who claimed it straightened out their tubas. More recently, however, it has suffered vicious attacks from people with hernias. And too, there are complaints that the words are inappropriately combative. In verse three, for example, Key wrote about the blood of the British which had washed out their "polluted footsteps." The gripe is you can't sing that on a full stomach without an air bag.

While accurate, the complaints of the anthem's chauvinism are not convincing. National anthems are traditionally hard-nosed. The second verse of England's God Save the Queen exhorts God to scatter the nation's enemies, confuse their politics and "frustrate their knavish tricks." And even mild-mannered Denmark has an anthem which glories in swords that pass through Gothic brains.

As for the complaint that it is unsingable, even unsayable, a spokesman at the modern-day Fort McHenry says: "Hell, it wasn't written for convenience." Indeed. Key did not compose with the weak-lunged in mind, or the Democratic convention for that matter. He wrote it in praise of an idea, a philosophy, a people if you will who need not hit all its notes to be stirred by its notions.

Hence, to criticize its meter may be unfair, and to suggest its change is futile. Except. Except now that Jimmy Carter is among us, there is hope.

Rand Alcohol report assailed

Dear Ann Landers: I am a recovered alcoholic and a long-time member of AA. Something I read in the paper recently bothered me so much I was up all night. I hope and pray you will print my letter and undo some of the damage done by the Rand Corporation.

The Rand Corp. study released only recently stated, "Some alcoholics can return to normal drinking after treatment with no more danger of excessive imbibing than teetotalers." That statement is tantamount to tossing a firebomb into the crowd at a football stadium. Millions of alcoholics would love to believe it — that's all they need to go back to the bottle. And you can bet, after reading that release, many of them will. What a tragedy!

The suggestion that sober alcoholics might experiment with controlled drinking is completely erroneous. I have spent the greater part of my adult life studying and working with alcoholics. I can tell you that this approach has proven to be almost universally disastrous.

The announcement by the Rand Corp. study group conveys appalling ignorance. They say, "The majority of improved patients are either drinking moderate amounts of alcohol — but at levels far below what could be described as alcoholic drinking — or they are engaging in alternating periods of drinking and abstention."

Anyone who has studied alcoholism knows QUANTITY has little to do with the alcoholic's problem. It is HOW the person responds to alcohol that determines whether or not he is a problem drinker. Once a person has crossed the line between social drinking and alcoholism, he should not have even a single drop.

Rand deserves a kick in their collective pants for their irresponsibility in releasing such destructive material. Sign me — A Chicago Reader

Dear Reader: Thank you for writing. I, too, saw the Rand Corp. release and was horror-stricken. I earnestly hope that enough high-powered experts in the field of alcoholism will clobber that report sufficiently so that we will soon be reading a retraction.

Dear Ann: I agree with "I'm P.K." It's HER face. Why should she alter what God gave her just to please others?

And why do you rate yourself above God by encouraging the woman to have plastic surgery?

I look at your picture every day and your forehead is too high, your cheeks are too fat, your eyes are too small, and your mouth is crooked.

God made no rules as to what people are supposed to look like and neither should you. I look at my friends from the inside out. How about you? — Face To Face

Dear Face: Thanks for your sweet letter. I hope you will view me as a friend — even though my forehead is too high, my cheeks are too fat, my eyes are too small, and my mouth is crooked.

CONFIDENTIAL to Ready to Flip: You are bisexual. Counseling WOULD help you adjust and understand your problem.

Discover how to be date bait without falling hook, line and sinker. Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," will help you be more poised and sure of yourself on dates. Just a case of identity

Chocolate is still second to vanilla on that list of favorite ice cream flavors in this country, but it's not a close second. Half the ice cream sold is vanilla.

"Men make love more intensely at 20, but make love better, however, at 30," So said Catherine, who was called "The Great," although I don't know why.

About those girls born under the sign of Aquarius, says our Zodiac man, it's known they just can't abide a man with an inferiority complex.

BIG HORN BATTLE

Q — "We know that Gen. Custer lost his own life, plus the lives of 264 of his men at the Battle of the Little Big Horn. But how many Indian lives were lost there?"

A — Nobody knows. Maybe 30, may 300. The Indians carried away their casualties.

Although most everybody has heard the name, not one citizen in 10 can now identify that lady known as Nellie Bly. A journalist was she. New York World Publisher Joseph Pultizer — you've heard of him — sent her around the world on a feature-writing assignment. The trip took her 72 days 6 hours 11 minutes. It was on Jan. 25, 1890, when she returned. Nobody ever before Neillie — her real name was Elizabeth Cochrane — had done the thing so swiftly.

The Latin word "salarium," which meant "salt allowance," is where we got our word "salary," reports our Language man. Our phrase — "he isn't worth his salt" — goes all the way back to that one, incidentally.

Q — "Don't suppose your Language man knows how many words the average person speaks every day?"

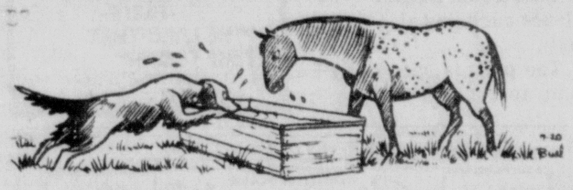
A — Maybe 30,000 words would be typical, he says. That discounts the particularly windy types as well as the strong silent characters.

CROCODILES

Client asks if a crocodile ever has been known to eat more than one person at a time. Can't come up with a precise reply, regret to report. Do know, though, that crowds of crocodiles disposed of about 150 people at one time. And it wasn't so long ago. In 1965, the Liowande Ferry sank in the Shire River in Malawi, Africa. That many passengers were goners. The water flowed red quite a ways.

Dr. Miller

On leading a horse to water



DEAR DR. MILLER: Both Flame, my Irish Setter, and Amble, my Appaloosa, drink tons of water in this hot weather. That doesn't surprise me, but sometimes Flame throws the water up again. When this happens, I just give her a little at a time for a while and she's OK again. Amble never vomits, but then I guess horses don't. Do they ever drink too much? — C.A.

DEAR C.A.: Cramps and colic could occur if you allow Amble to load up and then simply stand around with a bellyful. Her water intake should be somewhat restricted also, unless she's going to continue moving, in which case she should be able to handle her tankful without trouble. Ideally, when on the trail, both species should be allowed to have water breaks along the way. Thus they can maintain body fluids and won't tend to drink too much at trail's end.

DEAR DR. MILLER: If rabies in bats is all that dangerous, then if you find a pet bat, is it safest to have it shot for rabies right away? — A.R.

DEAR A.R.: It's safest not to "find" a "pet" bat. A wild bat that acts "friendly" or even unfriendly — in fact, a wild bat that for any reason remains near a human, is undoubtedly ill, possibly from rabies. Rabid animals, bats or anything else, aren't helped by rabies shots. An animal which already has a disease can't be effectively vaccinated against it. It's too late for that. Anyone taking a chance on handling a potentially rabid animal of whatever species has to be more than a bit batty themselves. This is foolhardy and frequently fatal . . . forget it.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Regarding the birds crashing into windows, we've placed a wind chime in front of the picture window and have had no bird casualties since. We thought other readers who may not like either dirty windows or mesh curtains would be interested in this solution. The wind chimes are also attractive. — E. R.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I read where you can greatly reduce bird mortality as far as crashing into windows is concerned by placing full-size cardboard cutouts of hawks in the windows. Small birds won't come near it. — W. C.

DEAR DR. MILLER. Our answer to keeping birds from crashing into our big window was to have that reflective sunscreen material applied to the inside of the front window. You look right through it from inside the room, but from the birds' point of view, it's a reflective curtain and they never fly into it. — N. J.

COMMENT: Windowpanes and birdbrains are a bad mix. All of the above suggestions prevent cracked craniums and necks by steering birds away from otherwise inapparent windows. Yet another letter made an important point, namely that some netting material outside the windows is far more effective, albeit messier, than any placed inside since it then directly breaks up the window's reflective surface.

Erma Bombeck

Changing times?—not really

A group of us indulged ourselves recently in a walk down memory lane in the year 1940 B.C. (Before Crime).

"Remember when we were kids and slept on our front porch in the summer and your only worry was catching cold?"

"Remember when the only time Daddy locked his car was when his keys were in it?"

"Remember when a sign in the window was for the bread man and not an emergency help station?"

"Remember when you could go into a public restroom and hang your purse on the hook inside the door?"

"Remember when you weren't afraid to open the door on Halloween?"

"Remember when your biggest problem was keeping kids from walking on the grass . . . not smoking it?"

We were all on a pretty good nostalgia trip when my mother came into the room. "I'll bet Mom remembers those good old days."

"What days are those?"

"The days when pens in banks weren't chained to the desk."

"Why should they be? They never worked anyway."

"The days when we went on vacation and never locked our house."

"There wasn't anything in there worth stealing."

"When there wasn't heavy breathing on the phone at night."

"That's because you never knew your asthmatic grandfather."

"When police didn't have to walk their beat in twos."

"So nuns have been doing it for years."

"Oh c'mon, Mom, you know what we mean. I can remember leaving my tricycle out on the street at nights. You couldn't do that nowadays. By the way, what happened to that tricycle?"

"Someone ripped it off," she said. "Are you saying someone stole it?" We looked at her like she had just reported that the Yellow Brick Road was linoleum.

"Yep. Same week someone pinched my girdle off the back clothesline and a box of canning jars from the garage."

"You never told me that before."

"When we told you Alan Ladd was short, you cried for 15 days. We didn't think you could handle it."

Dr. Lamb

What causes prostate trouble?

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column on prostate gland trouble, but it did not answer one question. If a person (who has been a dieabetic since 1965 and is now 56) quit sex would he increase his prostate gland trouble, which is nearly nothing now? I go to the doctor once a year. In other words does lack of sex cause prostate gland trouble?

DEAR READER — There is a lot of confusion about the role of sexual activity in prostate gland trouble. That is partly because "prostate gland trouble" covers a lot of different problems.

The prostate gland forms secretions and when it is stimulated frequently it forms more scretions. Young men at the peak of their sex drive tend to form the most secretions. When the secretions accumulate, the gland becomes boggy or swollen from distention. In this condition it is ripe for bacteria to set up housekeeping and cause an acute infection. The infection in this instance is something like an abscess. It may cause chills and fever. When the bacteria are eliminated by nature's own defense mechanisms or by proper antibiotic treatment the infection and its symptoms disappear. It would seem that a normal amount of sexual activity helps to prevent his problem.

The acute infections have nothing to do with chronic prostate trouble that is more common in middle-aged and older men. The chronic inflammation may be associated with a variety of organisms but often the real cause of the inflammation is not known. It is doubtful that sexual activity either harms or helps such a condition.

There is now evidence that the enlargement of the prostate that causes obstruction of the bladder is related to the accumulation of one chemical type of testosterone, the male hormone. Having demonstrated the accumulation of this fraction of the hormone in the gland itself there is not hope that it will be possible to block its action or storage and in this way correct or prevent prostate enlargement. This might be done without affecting the function of the other fractions of male hormone. At present no medicince in available that will do this.

I am sending you The Health Letter 1-6, Prostate Gland to give you more information on this subject. Others who desire more information on the prostate can send a long stamped self-addressed evelope with 50 cents in it. Address your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I want to know if a vasectomy causes prostate gland trouble? And once a man has had prostate surgery does than mean no more sex?

DEAR READER —.No, a vasectomy will not cuase prostate gland trouble. In fact vasectomies were originally done when the prostate was operated upon to try to prevent inflammation of the testicles as a complication of the procedure. All a vasectomy will do is prevent sperm cells from reaching the prostate. The gland will continue to function as it always did or would have without the vasectomy.

Most men can return to normal sexual function after prostate surgery. The type of surgery does make some difference. The problem is that many men who have surgery are already at an age or have enough other medical problems that they may be near the end of their active sexual life anyway. In which case the man may incorrectly think that impotence after surgery was because of the operation.

About this-that

Lesotho, the former British protectorate of Basutoland, is completely surrounded by the Republic of South Africa.

U.S. crude oil production has fallen from an average of about 9.2 million barrels a day in 1973 to 8.4 million, reports The Conference Board.

All snakes feed on other animals, especially veterbrates. Prey are always swallowed whole as no snake has teeth adapted for chewing. Many snakes simply engulf prey, swallowing it alive and killing it with digestive juices.

Astrographs

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Wednesday, July 21, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Monetary rewards can run larger than usual today. If you have something good going for you, milk it for all it's worth.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be far more fortunate to today in situations where you can lay down the terms. Don't let the control slip from your hands.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you need financial or material assistance today, go to the people you've helped in the past. They'll open their hearts and purses.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Accept any invitation to a gathering that includes influential people. You stand a good chance of making valuable contacts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're capable of surviving challenging situations today that would intimidate a weaker type. Don't be afraid to swim against the current.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't hide your light under a bushel today. If you've done something you're proud of, toot your horn.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The boss might ask you for a large favor today. You'd be smart to do the best you can to grant it. His gratitude could be on the super side.

SCROPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Should you have anything pending requiring legal service, today is a good day to tackle it. It could be a contract or an agreement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be alert for a big opportunity at work today. It's there, but you'll have to root it out. It may be only partially visible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) New people who come into your presence will notice and admire you today. Their impression will be lasting and favorable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) The way things end today is likely to be far more fortunate than the way they began. Keep the faith. Think positively.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Social contacts are lucky for you today. Have no qualms about asking serious favors of those who meet in a lighthearted moment.

Your Birthday, July 21, 1976

Organizations or groups you're affiliated with will be fortunate for you this coming year. Good things will come from the friends and contacts you make through them.

The American Bridge Teachers' Association quarterly always contains some interesting and instructive hands. Here is one by Dave Smith.

Forget about the bidding. North's two-spade response is a tremendous overbid and while six clubs is unbeatable, it got declarer to six notrump.

Dave used the hand to illustrate a point we have made many times in this column. The less you talk about your hand, the better.

When dummy hit the table East remarked "I should have doubled". Then East took his ace of hearts and returned the queen, which South won.

South trusted East. His normal play would have been to take the diamond finesse and go one down. Instead he cashed dummy's ace of diamonds and ran off seven clubs to wind up holding one spade and the queen-jack of diamonds while dummy held ace-king-10 of spades. East was unmercifully squeezed. He had to chuck his king of diamonds or unguard his queen-hack of spades.

Dave points out also that East could have insured defeat of the contract by playing his queen of spades at trick two, but he was too busy talking.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader wants to know why we lead the king from either ace-king of king-queen.

The answer is that it has been done that way since long before Oswald Jacoby started to play bridge and he has played for 65 years.

There are some disadvantages, but the great majority of experts find that it is better to continue this practice than to try something else.

Max 'Baers' it all

Films for public, not the director

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Hollywood is still the place where the lightning can strike, where a man (or a woman) can become a millionaire on the strength of one picture, where dreams do come true.

"This is what 'Macon County Line' bought," said Max Baer, with a broad gesture of his immense arms.

The gesture took in the rear of his house, high up in a Beverly Hills canyon. There was a huge swimming pool with a built-in waterfall behind it.

Then he took me around the front of the house, where a platoon of workmen were working with bricks and concrete and mounds of dirt.

"It's all being landscaped," Baer said. "Over here will be a brick patio, and there will be brick and iron gates. That hillside will be covered with flowers.

"I'm putting in 8,500 plants. I want to make this like the Botanical Gardens. I don't like to go out much."

He said he was going to have a projection room built in the house. And a new editing room, because he edits his pictures at home. Before he's through, he said, he'd have one of the showplaces of the Los Angeles area. His claim is believable.

The implication was that all this was the fruits of his three films, the three he produced. They were "Macon County Line," "The McCullochs" and the just-released "Ode to Billy Joe." Baer derected the latter two, as well as producing them.

You might think that some of his money came from his nine years on the huge TV hit, The Beverly Hillbillies. Baer played Jethro on the show for all thos years.

He says no. A divorce and some other things saw to that.

"After nine years on the Hillbillies and my divorce," he says, "I had $30,000 left. That's all."

But today the house he lives in is his, all his. He doesn't owe a dime.

"It cost me $210,000 when I bought it a year and a half ago," he says. "And I guess I've put another $175,000 in it. But it's all mine.

"I'm realistic about money and about life. It's a personal thing with me. I want to own my home outright. You never know what can happen — but if you own your home, you can't be too bad."

After Hillbillies mosied off into the TV sunset, Max Baer floundered for a few years. He wanted to act, but it was hard to find jobs because he was so closely involved with the role of Jethro and his semi-stupidity.

He'd still like to act. But he's discovered, in producing and directing, that he has the key to the mint.

MAX BAER

"I love acting," he says, "but nobody'll give me a job. And I won't hire myself."

He sayd he'd rather be Steve McQueen or Burt Lancaster than anybody. To him, seeing Lancaster in "Birdman of Alcatraz" was a major event.

"That was Burt the way he really is," Baer says. "In real life, he's quiet, soft-spoken, and the only film in which he played himself was 'Birdman.' "

Baer is a self-proclaimed "movie nut." He's always been one. Even as a kid growing up, the son of a one-time heavyweight boxing champion, he loved movies more than anything else.

He has seen so many films and absorbed so much of what he's seen and read that he has become an expert on movie trivia. He knows the name of the art director of obscure films of the '40s.

"Did you know," he'll say, "that Robert Wise, before he became a director, was the editor on 'Citizen Kane'?"

Now he finds he loves making films as much as seeing them. He loves the putting together of what Hollywood calls "packages" — the script, the stars, the director — and loves shepherding the whole project to its conclusion.

"Other people like to go on vacation, but making movies is my vacation," he says. "I'm like a kid with a toy. And I feel fortunate making a good living doing something I'd do for free."

He plans his films from start to finish. And the finish he guards jealously, now that he has the muscle to get his own way. He has the final cut on his films; even Warner Bros., his current studio, had no cut at all on "Ode to Billy Joe." Baer did it all himself, with nobody telling him yes or no.

His next one, which is now being prepared, is a comedy about women in the Army. It's about 12 girls going through boot camp. He thinks he'll use 12 unknowns, although he'd like Shelley Winters as one of the officers. The big climax is an ice hockey game between the recruits and the non-coms, and the prospect of Shelley on skates is tantalizing.

Baer's pictures have, so far, done well. He believes one reason is that he makes films for the public, not for himself.

"I think," he says, "that I can put myself in the audience's mind and tell what they're going to like. A picture has to work with an audience, not just in the director's head.

"Too many directors today feel they must make their films just for themselves. They're imbeciles. If they feel that way, they should put up their own money.

He believes strongly that a film can be both an artistic hit and a commercial success.

Rock star set for Disneyland

LES BROWN

Rock star Elvin Bishop and Les Brown and his band will headline the musical entertainment at Disneyland for the week of July 25.

Bishop will offer his popular "Fooled Around and Fell in Love" in Fantasyland's "It's A Small World" stage at 9:15 and 11:15 p.m. on Sunday through Friday, July 30.

Les Brown and his Band of Renown will render contemporary music for dancing and listening, recapturing the hits of the big band era at Main Street's Plaza Gardens from 8:15 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., Sunday through Saturdays, July 31.

Disneyland's All-American College Singers and All-American College Marching Band will showcase their talents in daily performances throughout the park.

Tinker Bell will spark the red, white and blue fireworks extravaganza at 9 each evening from atop the Matterhorn Mountain. Performances of the park's Bicentennial salute "America on Parade" continues each day at 3 and 10 p.m.

The park is open daily 8 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Perfection graces Olympics

Egypt goes home

MONTREAL (AP) — The very imperfect Olympics—with all its troubles and strife, fears and police forces, threats and boycotts—suddenly has been graced by perfection.

It's a tiny package, this little bit of perfection, standing only 4-feet-11 and weighing in at 88 pounds of pure grace and rhythm, topped by a ponytail and occasionally spiced by a saucy gesture.

It's magnificent little Nadia Comaneci, a 14-year-old Romanian girl, who has captured the imagination of the world, one billion of whose people have watched on television her performances that are truly unbelievable.

She opened the Games with a perfect score of 10—the first ever achieved in the Olympics—on the uneven parallel bars Sunday. And she followed that with a mind-boggling, second perfect score on the hazardous balance beam yesterday.

And still she wasn't done. There was more to come—more of that which is supposed to be unattainable by mortals.

She recorded still another perfect score last night in optional performances on the uneven parallel bars.

"I was very glad," she said. "But it wasn't the first time. I've done it 19 times."

But no one had ever done it in the Olympics.

Her spectacular performances brought to their feet a wildly-cheering crowd of 18,000, some of them almost tearful in their adoration of this flying, twisting little girl who usually wears a poker face devoid of expression.

But she can, and does on perfect occasions, flash that appealing, beguiling smile of youth.

Her fantastic displays overshadowed another 1-2-3 sweep by the American men's swimming team, this in the 200-meter freestyle.

And the performance of young Miss Comaneci also was a much needed tonic for a politically troubled Olympiad which saw yet another country, Egypt, pull out today.

Egypt joined 28 other nations in a boycott because of a New Zealand rugby team's tour of South Africa. Egypt failed to show up for a basketball game against Italy this morning and a spokesman at the Egyptian delegation headquarters in the Olympic Village said the team had withdrawn and was preparing to leave for home.

She was more impressive than the powerful East Germans who have won every event on the women's swimming program so far.

She made secondary a cheating incident that resulted in the disqualification of a Russian star in the Modern Pentathlon.

World records fell in profusion. But what are world records when pefection is offered?

The Russians won the team gold in the women's gymnastics, but it was almost overlooked in the outpouring of praise and affection for Nadia, who is now the overwhelming favorite to take the individual all-around title Wednesday night.

Long John Naber was the star of the American swim team that collected two more gold medals and helped push the United States' accumulation for the Games to three gold, four silver and two bronze. East Germany leads with a four gold, three silver, three bronze. Russia has three gold and one bronze.

The 6-foot-6 Naber, a senior at Southern California, won the 100 backstroke in world record time of 55.49, then just missed in his bid for a double-gold evening. He was outtouched by Bruce Furniss, Santa Ana, Calif., an hour later in the men's 200 freestyle.

Furniss won in world record time of 1:50.29. Nabor was timed in 1:50:50 and Jim Montgomery, Madison, Wis., made it the second American sweep of the Games with his 1:50.58 for third.

"I'm very glad," said the gregarious Naber. "I couldn't have swum a better backstroke race."

No one ever has. He was the first to crack 56 seconds in the event and foiled East Germany's Roland Matthes' hopes of winning a gold in three consecutive Olympics. Matthes, the world record holder until these Games started, finished third behind Peter Rocca, Orinda, Calif., and said he wouldn't compete at the event again.

John Hencken, Santa Clara, Calif., also set a world record with a clocking of 1:03.02 in leading the qualifying for the men's 100 breaststroke and prompted a happy coach Doc Counsilman to observe: "We'll just have to wait 'til it's over and count the medals."

The East German women, like the American men, remained unbeaten with two more swimming triumphs. Andrea Pollack led an East German sweep of the women's 200 butterfly in Olympic record time of 2:11.41. Kornelia Ender, Matthes' fiance, won the 100 freestyle in 55.65, a world record. Petra Primer of East Germany was second and Enith Brigintha of Holland third.

Bulgarian Norair Nurikian won the bantamweight weightlifting gold with a world record combined lift of 577.5 pounds. Grzegorz Cziura of Poland was second and Kenkichi Ando of Japan third.

In the only other gold medal event, Romania finished second to Russia in the women's gymnastics and East Germany took the bronze. It was Romania's highest finish ever and Russia's seventh consecutive team title.

Russia's hopes for a repeat team title in the Modern Pentathlon took a severe jolt, however, when Boris Onischenko was disquified by a jury of appeal for using an epee that had double wiring in it and could register a touch even though he had not touched his opponent.

"There is no doubt whatsoever in our minds that it was a deliberate attempt to fraudently alter the results," said William O. Grut of Sweden, secretary-general of the International Union for the Modern Pentathlon.

Dodger relief corps hurting

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — Where is Mike Marshall now that the Dodgers need him?

Of course, the outspoken Marshall is now working in an Atlanta Braves' uniform after being traded mainly because of all the problems he created while with the Dodgers.

But without Marshall, the Dodgers' bullpen corps is suddenly hurting.

Charlie Hough, the knuckleballer who won his first seven decisions this season, couldn't find the plate Monday night when the Philadelphia Phillies scored three runs in the ninth inning to take a 5-3 victory over the Dodgers to drop L.A. seven games behind Cincinnati in the National League West.

Besides Hough, the other Dodger relief pitchers are newcomer Elias Sosa, ineffective Stan Wall and forgotten Al Downing.

So when starter Burt Hooton was literally knocked out of the box by a vicious line drive in the ninth inning, it was natural Manager Walt Alston would call for Hough.

But Hough didn't have it. He walked Jay Johnstone on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases and did the same to Garry Maddox to force in the tying run.

Exit Hough and bring on Sosa. But it was the same story as Sosa walked Tom Hutton on five pitches to force in the go-ahead run to the groans of the 37,109 customers.

Sosa finally got out of the jam with the Phillies adding one more run on Bob Boone's sacrifice fly.

"Every time I bring in Hough, I think about bases on balls," Alston told the writers. "But he has been our best relief pitcher over the first half of the season. You have to look at the overall picture. I feel all of our relief pitchers are suffering from a lack of work because of the All-Star break plus three consecutive complete games by our starters."

Hough didn't want any alibis.

"This was just one of those nights," the knuckleballer said. "I just couldn't get the ball over the plate."

Hooton, who saw his string of seven consecutive victories over the Phils end, allowed only two hits through the first six innings but gave up six in his final two plus frames.

The Phils, behind 3-1, cut the deficit to one run with an unearned tally in the eighth when Davey Lopes made a wild throw trying for a double play. The bad throw enabled Boone to take second base and it cost the Dodgers when Dave Cash singled him home.

Mike Schmidt opened the ninth with a solid single to right and Greg Luzinski followed with his liner which struck Hooton on the right hip and bounced away to short leftfield for a double.

It was amazing Hooton wasn't injured.

"It got me square on the belt," he said. "There's no pain."

But Hooton was in pain watching what developed after he left when the Phils scored two runs without swinging a bat.

Philadelphia opened the scoring Monday when Hutton tripled in the third inning and scored on Boone's sacrifice fly.

It was then all Dodgers for awhile as L.A. tagged starter Larry Christenson for three runs and nine hits.

Reggie Smith singled home Lopes to tie the game in the bottom on the third. Doubles by Steve Garvey and Bill Russell put L.A. ahead in the fourth and Ron Cey belted his 13th home run of the season in the sixth.

Relievers Gene Garber and Ron Reed held the Dodgers down the rest of the way with Reed coming out of the bullpen to retire Smith for the final out.

DODGER DATA — The St. Louis Cardinals come to town tonight for another brief two-game series. Doug Rau (8-6) will pitch against Lynn McGlothen (8-8) tonight with Don Sutton (10-8) facing John Denny (5-4) in Wednesday's 1 p.m. contest.

Philadelphia won the season series, 7-5, over the Dodgers. The Phils won five-of-six at Dodger Stadium while the Dodgers were 4-2 in Philly.

Kingman out for 6 weeks

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league home run leader Dave Kingman of the New York Mets will be sidelined for about six weeks as the result of a thumb injury sustained in Monday night's game against Atlanta.

Kingman underwent surgery Monday night at Manhattan Roosevelt Hospital for torn ligaments in his left thumb.

Kingman was injured diving for a double down the left field line in the third inning of the Mets-Braves game. After being examined on the field, Kingman finished the inning but was removed in the fourth.

Kingman had hit 32 home runs and had driven in 72 runs in the first 92 Met games prior to tonight.

Angels pitching gets 2 victories

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Don Kirkwood and Paul Hartzell did much to dispel the popular notion that the California Angels' pitching staff consists of Nolan Ryan, Frank Tanana and a revolving door of a faceless few.

John Verhoeven, former La Verne College star, picked up his first save with two scoreless innings of relief work. The 6-5, 210-pound Verhoeven struck out three while giving up one hit and no walks.

And they also all but smothered the traces of what for a time had seemed to be a midsummer drive to respectability by the Milwaukee Brewers.

Bobby Bonds' three runs batted in on two singles helped Hartzell (1-2) earn his first major league victory as California beat the Brewers 4-2 in the first game of a doubleheader Monday night. The Angels scored five times in the third inning of the nightcap and won 6-1, giving Kirkwood (3-7) his first victory since June 13.

"I was too strong at first and couldn't put the ball where I wanted, but getting that big league helped me relax. I kept the ball in tight on practically every righthand hitter the rest of the night," said Kirkwood, 30 against the Brewers and 6-12 against the rest of the American League in his less than three big league seasons.

The Angels, while still last in the AL West, have won four games in a row. The Brewers, who had won nine of 12 starts prior to the All-Star break, are 1-5 since.

Three of the Angels' runs in the first game were unearned, results in part of three errors and a passed ball. A throwing error and a misjudgement by shortstop Robin Yount fueled California's big inning in the second game.

A double by Bruce Bochte, the passed ball and a two out error by Don Money gave the Angels the lead to stay at 1-0 in the second inning of the first game. They added another unearned run an inning later on an error by George Scott, a sacrifice and Bonds' first hit.

The Brewers got one back in the fourth on a single by Darrell Porter, a walk and a single by Tim Johnson. However, the Angels made it 4-1 with two in the fifth on an infield hit by Andy Etchebarren, a sacrifice, a throwing error by Yount and a two run single by Bonds.

The Brewers chased Hartzell with a sixth inning run on a double by Six-to Lezcano and singles by Bernie Carbo and Yount.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Don Zimmer, replacing fired 1975 American League Manager of the Year Darrell Johnson, says he would be "the happiest man in the world" if the Boston Red Sox continue to show the same fighting spirit they displayed Monday night in a 4-3 loss to the Texas Rangers.

"This was the first time in my life I've been on a losing team that I liked what I saw," said Zimmer, who will serve as interim Red Sox manager until the end of the season. "The players acted in the dugout tonight like a team that is fighting for a pennant. That's what I want to see and that's what I saw."

The fact that Boston is not fighting for a pennant is precisely why Johnson is no longer with the team.

The Red Sox, who took the Cincinnati Reds down to the ninth inning of the seventh game of the World Series, were solid favorites to win the American League East again. Instead, they are languishing in fifth place, 14 games behind the New York Yankees.

"The way the team has been going lately, I don't blame (General Manager) Dick O'Connell or the Red Sox one bit," Johnson said of his firing. "In my opinion it was time for a change."

He attributed his downfall to the Red Sox "not scoring runs the way they are capable of and the way they did last year."

Johnson said he would not change the way he handled the team if he played the season over, but Zimmer implemented some immediate changes in the starting line-up.

Zimmer said he plans to keep Steve Dillard at third base on a regular basis and play Carl Yastrzemski at first base on the road and in left field at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox fought back from a 3-0 deficit to tie Monday's game on a two-run homer by Cecil Cooper and a solo shot by Dwight Evans, but the Rangers won the contest in the 11th on a run-scoring single by Toby Harrah.

"Close only counts in horseshoes, but if I continue to see the fighting spirit I saw tonight, we'll start winning some ball games," Zimmer said. If I see this from now until Oct. 3, I'll be the happiest man in the world."

Of his interim status, Zimmer said, "I wanted it that way. I feel if I do the job I'll be rehired. I'm not worried about getting a job. If O'Connell wants to make a change at the end of the year, I'll be happy to go back and coach third base."

Johnson, who had managed the team since the start of the 1974 season, is the second manager of the year in a row to lose his job before August of the following season.

Billy Martin won that honor in 1974 for overhauling the Texas Rangers but was fired last July 20, exactly a year ago.

"We cannot blame everything on Darrell Johnson, but it is easier to change a manager than the team," said O'Connell. "Darrell Johnson did a great job of managing the team last year and we are sorry this decision had to be made."

Zimmer, 45, has been the Red Sox third base coach since the start of the 1974 season. He previously managed the San Diego Padres in 1972-73. He spent 12 years as an active player for five major league teams.

"You can bet your life that if we had won five of six at Kansas City instead of losing five of six, Johnson would still be here," said Zimmer. "But it wasn't just that. We haven't hit all year. In my heart I know we're gonna hit better, but we've been saying that all year."

Roseboro is an Alston supporter

Walter Alston has his critics, but former Dodger catcher John Roseboro is not one of them.

The chance to talk with Roseboro came during the recent Old Timers' gathering. I was interested in finding out how "Gabby" felt in view of Maury Wills' criticism.

Wills, in his book "How to Steal a Pennant," says the Dodgers should have won four or five more pennants than they did under Alston.

Since Roseboro was right there with Maury, he was a natural source to consult.

"Well, first of all, I think Maury's a little frustrated," Roseboro said. "He's hung around baseball since he retired doing different things for different ball clubs hoping to get a shot at managing. I think he's frustrated in that he hasn't become a manager."

But Roseboro left no doubt of his support for Alston's managing.

"I think Maury's evaluation of Walter Alston is wrong," Roseboro continued. "After I left the Dodgers, I went to other ball clubs and after seeing guys like Cal Ermer, Ted Williams and you name 'em. I'd have to say I consider Alston God compared to the rest of those guys as managers."

Roseboro played or coached under six managers after leaving the Dodgers.

At Minnesota as a player in 1968 and '69, his managers were Ermer and Billy Martin. He was a player-coach under Ted Williams with Washington in 1970.

3 years with Halos

His last three years in baseball were with the Angels. The managers during that span were Del Rice, Bobby Winkles and Winkles-Dick Williams in the last year.

Two of the managers he played under, Billy Martin and Dick Williams are highly regarded for their ability in most baseball circles.

Yet Roseboro feels Alston is far superior.

In all fairness, it must be mentioned that Roseboro also is somewhat bitter over his lack of advancement since leaving the Dodgers.

Gabby currently has a public relations and advertising agency on Sunset Blvd. in Los Angeles. He used to live in West Covina and had a nightclub in Pomona that he says "bombed out." Now he lives in South Los Angeles.

He admits he'd like to get back into baseball but not as a coach. "I want to go back as a manager or in the front office (as an executive)," he said. "I could coach the rest of my life and never get anywhere.

"I'm bitter that there are no positions of consequence for minority athletes in baseball. Oh, they'll have another black manager soon. I believe that. But until they open up the doors to the front offices and put a minority athlete, I'm not saying just a black but a minority athlete, in any position I'm not changing my philosophy."

Roseboro is proving his capability as an executive. It's too bad it isn't in baseball where he has the background to be a definite asset to some club.

Parker, Wills agree

HERE 'N THERE — Wes Parker put himself on Wills' side. The former Dodger first baseman, who earlier had declined to comment on the Dodger managing, told Hank Hollingworth (Long Beach Independent) at the Angels' Hollywood Stars night, "Maury is absolutely right. The Dodgers in no way should have lost in 1962. That's just one Alston blew."

1962 was the year the Dodgers blew a five-game lead in the final week of the season and then lost the playoff to the Giants.

Creditors of the Long Beach Grand Prix Association have been offered 15 cents on the dollar in cash and 20 cents on the dollar in stock.

Debts amount to more than $500,000. However plans are already being made to televise the next race live for two hours with sponsors reported hot for the move.

Green Bay's John Brockington has joined the parade of NFL players asking to be traded to contending teams. Brockington, who lives in La Jolla, says he would prefer to play for the Miami Dolphins, Rams or Oakland Raiders.

Louie Kelcher, giant defensive tackle of the San Diego Chargers is down to a sleek 279 pounds this year. The 6-5 Kelcher reported at 314 pounds last year. This year he came in under 290.

Among the last six JC transfers added by San Diego State were 6-4, 270-pound Harold Cotton of Los Angeles Harbor and 5-11, 205-pound fullback Mark Dobbs of Saddleback.

Campbell tough in relief

By Associated Press

Bill Campbell stuck to his fast ball, a decision that enabled the Minnesota relief pitcher to capture his 11th victory of the season.

"I haven't thrown in a couple of days, but I felt pretty good out there," said Campbell, a 6-foot-3 190-pound righthander from Ganesha High and Mt. San Antonio College. "AFter we had the lead, I just stuck to my fast ball and got the last four batters."

With a strong wind blowing toward left field Detroit blasted four home runs off the Minnesota pitching staff, including one off the fast-balling Campbell. But the Twins outlasted the Tigers 6-5 to snap a three-game American League losing streak.

Detroit led 6-4 on Lyman Bostock's two-run single when Detroit's Willie Horton caught a Campbell fast ball to narrow the score to one run.

"I simply got it over the middle of the plate," Campbell said of Horton's homer. "But I can't second guess myself ... Horton's home run scared me a little, and so did the wind."

Detroit wasn't alone in finding the fences. Larry Hisle smacked a three-run homer, his eighth of the season, in the third inning in the seesaw contest. Besides Horton, Mickey Stanley, Bill Freehan and Pedro Garcia homered for the Tigers.

Campbell, who has lost twice this season, went the final 31-3 innings to pick up the victory.

"I just try and pitch as hard as I can every time I go out," he said. "It's up to those guys (the team) to get the runs."

Orioles 4, Royals 3

Jim Palmer hurled his 13th victory of the season—tops in the AL—as Baltimore slipped by Kansas City. The veteran righthander, who has won six of his seven starts, worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the third but needed relief in the eighth.

The Royals jumped out to a 1-0 lead on Al Cowens' solo home run, but Baltimore went ahead 2-1 in the fifth and Reggie Jackson's two-run homer—his 12th of the year—sealed the verdict for the victorious Orioles.

Yankees 3, White Sox 2

With the score tied 2-2 in the ninth, Thurman Munson scored from second to lift New York to victory when Chris Chambliss laid down a perfect drag bunt and Chicago pitcher Jack Brohamer threw the ball past first base.

Munson had opened the ninth with a double. Then Chambliss bunted.

"I let him swing at the first pitch," said Yankees Manager Billy Martin, "and when they didn't come in I put on the bunt sign."

Chicago Manager Paul Richards agreed. "We should have been playing in, but I guess I fell asleep after he swung at the first pitch. They crossed us up."

Boston continued its nosedive despite a new manager. Toby Harrah's two-out single in the bottom of the 11th scored the winning run and handed Don Zimmer his first loss after he replaced Darrell Johnson, the 1975 Manager of the Year, at the Red Sox helm earlier in the day.

Texas jumped out to a 3-0 lead before Boston came back to tie the game, sparked by Cecil Cooper's two-run homer. But reliever Jim Willoughby walked six batters after entering the game in the ninth. The first hit Willoughby gave up was Harrah's game-winning shot.

Indians 3-3, A's 2-10

Cleveland used pitching to capture its fourth straight victory before Oakland erupted behind its hitting to capture the nightcap.

Jim Bibby and reliever Jim Kern limited the A's to just six hits in the first game as catcher Ray Fosse, playing his first game since coming off the disabled list, scored two of the Indians' runs.

In the nightcap, Billy Williams pounded a two-run homer and Don Baylor and Bill North each smacked two-run doubles to pace the A's attack.

D'Acquisto finally getting untracked

By Associated Press

Some walks, some runs and John D'Acquisto usually headed for the nearest exit. It got so bad that one writer nicknamed him "Ball Four" D'Acquisto.

After posting San Francisco rookie records with 12 wins and 167 strikeouts in 1974, D'Acquisto underwent elbow surgery last year that limited him to 10 appearances with a 24 record and a dismal 10.29 earned run average.

Eight starts and seven relief jobs this season weren't much better—an 0-5 record and 6.47 ERA—but the hard-throwing righthander worked eight promising innings Monday against St. Louis. He allowed only four hits and two runs and walked off with his first victory as a starter since April 16, 1975, as the Giants defeated the Cardinals 5-3.

Never blessed with pinpoint control, D'Acquisto issued eight walks—62 in 56 innings—but five came in the first three innings. He didn't walk anyone from the fourth through the seventh and when he returned to the dugout the small Candlestick Park crowd of 1,587 gave him a standing ovation.

"I never gave up on myself, and the fans were behind me all the way," D'Acquisto said. "I had everything going. It was a big stepping stone for me."

D'Acquisto took a 5-1 lead into the ninth but walked pinch hitter Jerry Mumphrey and threw two balls to Bake McBride before being relieved by Mike Caldwell, who was nicked for a two-run single by Lou Brock.

D'Acquisto also helped himself with his bat. He singled in the third inning and eventually scored the tying run and doubled and scored in the sixth.

Reds 4, Pirates 2

Dave Concepcion's tie-breaking two-run double snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning and Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh behind the five-hit pitching of Pat Zachry. Concepcion's blow off Jim Rooker followed Cesar Geronimo's single, a sacrifice and an intentional walk to Pete Rose. Pittsburgh's runs came on solo homers by Bill Robinson.

"Zachry is a pitcher who really wants to learn and he has a big future," said Manager Sparky Anderson.

Astros 3, Expos 1

Greg Gross and Bob Watson drove in seventh-inning runs with a single and sacrifice fly respectively as the streaking Astros posted their fifth consecutive triumph and 11th in the last 13 games behind the five-hit pitching of J.R. Richard.

"We're getting good pitching, our clutch hitting is better and our defense has improved a lot since the start of the season," said Manager Bill Virdon, whose club has climbed into third place.

Braves 4, Mets 2

Phil Niekro limited the Mets to a pair of singles over the first six innings and notched his 10th victory with seventh-inning help from Mike Marshall. Niekro also delivered a run-scoring single in Atlanta's three-run fourth.

The Mets suffered a severe blow when Kingman, who has 32 home runs, suffered torn ligaments in his left thumb while trying to make a diving catch of Niekro's pop fly double in the third inning. Kingman underwent surgery Monday night.

Padres 3, Cubs 2

Dave Winfield tripled to start the eighth inning and scored the winning run on John Grubb's sacrifice fly while Brent Strom scattered seven hits in handing the Cubs their seventh consecutive defeat. Chicago tied the game in the eighth on singles by Rick Monday and Jose Cardenal and rookie Wayne Tyrone's sacrifice fly but Cardenal was nailed when he tried to score on a pitch into the dirt that bounced a few feet away from catcher Bob Davis.

Knox looks at his QBs

FULLERTON, Calif. (AP) — James Harris is still the starting quarterback for the Los Angeles Rams, a team spokesman says, but Coach Chuck Knox is also reportedly looking closely at Ron Jaworski and Pat Haden.

The spokesman said all three quarterbacks looked sharp in drills Monday.

Rod Perry, who is trying to make the starting team as left cornerback, returned to practice Monday after missing four days with a minor knee injury.

Dave Fleming, a National Football League rookie who had played eights years in Canada, retired Monday, and Steve Bustanoby, a rookie linebacker out of Fullerton State, was placed on waivers, bringing the Ram squad down to 90.

Sparky has new opinion

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati Reds Sparky Anderson admits now he might have been barking up the wrong tree in his criticism of Houston pitcher Joaquin Andujar.

Earlier this baseball season, when Andujar, a former pitcher in the Reds farm system, beat the Reds, Anderson remarked: "Every dog has his day."

Andujar has beaten Cincinnati three times this year and won his last two starts with 1-0 shutouts.

"That guy is a pedigree now," said Anderson.

'Bird' wins June honor

NEW YORK (AP) — Mark "The Bird" Fidrych, Detroit's rookie All-Star pitcher, finished first in the June voting for the 27th annual Hickok Award, which represents recognition as the top professional athlete of the year.

Fidrych, a 20-year-old righthander, received 43 first place votes and 186 points in the voting for June. He finished 20 points ahead of runner-up Jerry Pate, who won the U.S. Open golf tournament.

Others in the top 10, in order, were boxer George Foreman, pitcher Randy Jones of San Diego, guard Jo Jo White of the National Basketball Association champion Boston Celtics, boxer Carlos Monzon, center Dave Cowens of the Celtics, tennis star Roscoe Tanner, major league home run leader Dave Kingman of the New York Mets and National League batting leader Al Oliver of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this, it is necessary for you TO TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results.

Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call Us!

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money

Free lunches insure no one goes hungry in valley

Cost averages out to about 80 cents per meal.

Dates of the summer program vary in valley communities but generally extend from late June to late August or early September. Serving times range from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

In Pomona, the city is sponsoring the program at 40 sites, and with Pomona Unified School District as a subcontractor preparing food, is serving approximately 4,000 meals a day.

This is the maximum number to be served, and it is anticipated participation will decline near the end of the program, which began June 14 and will extend through Aug. 27.

Rowland Unified School District is serving free meals each day June 29 through Aug. 19, at six sites. Service there began June 29 and will end Aug. 19. Workers served 7,640 children the first week, school officials reported.

Chaffey Union High School District is not participating in the Summer Food Service Program. Its food services department is, however, operating snack bars for morning breaks for summer school students attending high schools in Ontario, Upland, Alta Loma, and Montclair.

In Claremont, Park and Recreational personnel serve 440 lunches to children at Oakmont Elementary School, and Wheeler, El Barrio, Lewis, Blaisell, and Memorial parks. A federal grant handled through the city Human Resources office pays a vendor to deliver the lunches to Memorial Park.

The Bonita School District in La Verne and San Dimas is not involved in the federally sponsored lunch program. However it provides snack services at Bonita and Damien high schools.

In conjunction with the Ontario Police Department, the Ontario-Montclair School District is providing 1,100 free meals a day under the federally funded program. The schools prepare the food and the police provide supervision.

The meals are served at Vineyard Park, D Street Park, De Anza Park, Sultana School and the Bon View Community Center, all in Ontario. The program runs from June 21 to Sept. 3.

The Chino Unified School District is not participating in the summer lunch program. Children on the year-round school program continue to participate in the national school lunch program through the summer months. Those pupils who opted for the traditional nine-month schedule in Chino, however, are left without a summer meal program.

Other districts not participating in the food program are Walnut Valley Unitied, Upland Elementary, Alta Loma and Central in Cucamonga.

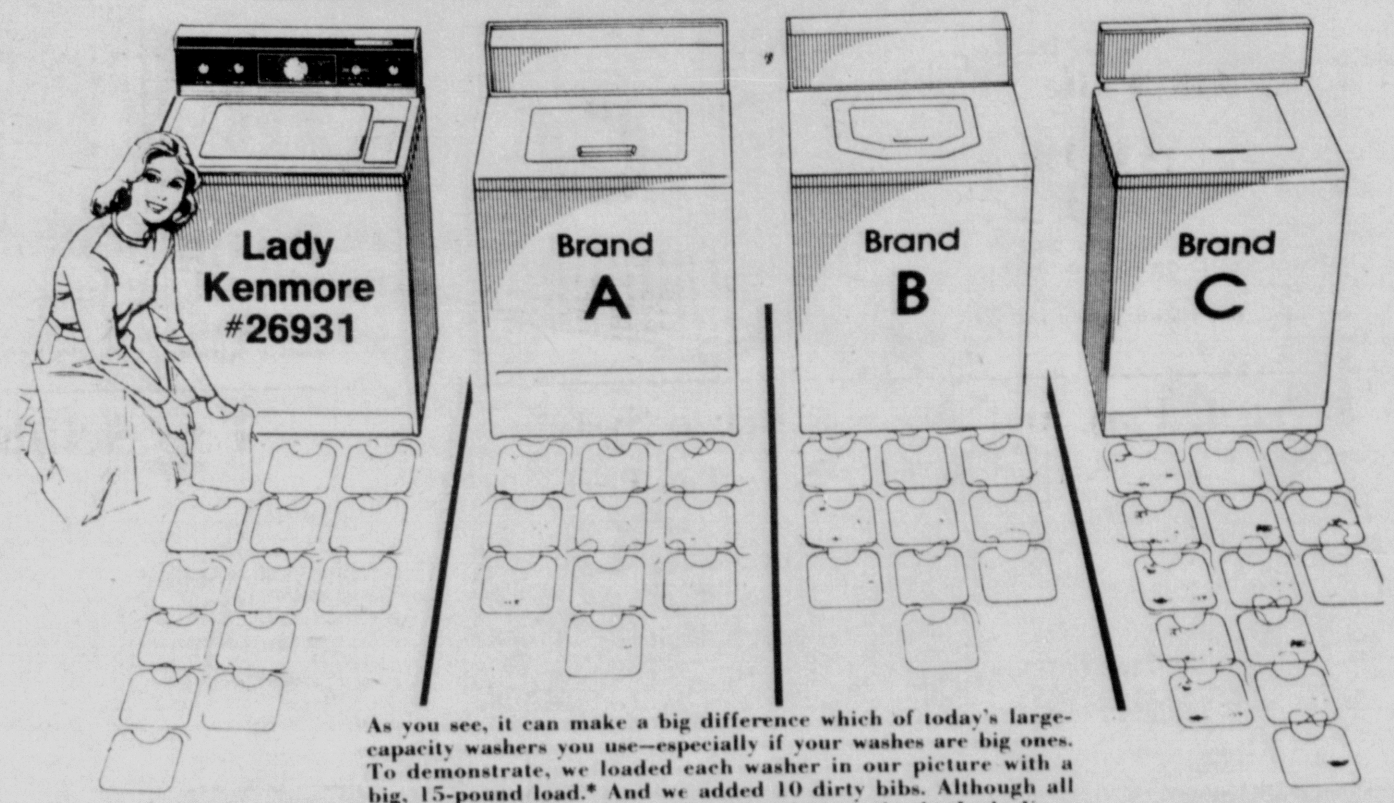
This Lady Kenmore® washer gets big loads cleaner than the next best-selling brands. And we mean cleaner.



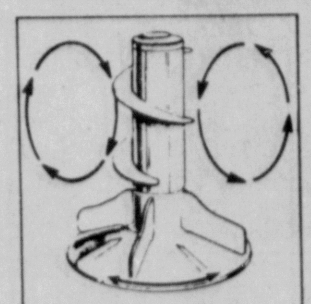
As you see, it can make a big difference which of today's large-capacity washers you use—especially if your washes are big ones. To demonstrate, we loaded each washer in our picture with a big, 15-pound load.* And we added 10 dirty bibs. Although all of the washers got some of the bibs clean, only the Lady Kenmore washer got them all clean. Why? Because only the Lady Kenmore washer has the Dual Action™ agitator!

This Ad Effective thru Sat., July 24

LIMITED TIME ONLY

$100 OFF

Regular Price of DUAL ACTION LADY KENMORE PAIR



Dual Action Agitator

. . . standard on Lady Kenmore washer. Available for large-capacity Kenmore washers from 1971.

How the Dual Action agitator works

This remarkable agitator has a top and bottom that move separately, the top pulls the clothes down into the wash, and the bottom whirls them side-to-side. Results? Testing proved that compared to a conventional agitator, clothes get cleaner.

*Tests were conducted using a standard 15-pound A.H.A.M. load. Load contained: 3 sheets, 2 tablecloths, 4 shirts, 6 bath towels, 4 "T" shirts, 4 pillow cases, 6 shorts, 6 wash cloths, 5 handkerchiefs. Test results available on written request.
